Gen. Meyers Convicted; Judge Won't Allow Bail

Monday Sentencing Date Set; Jail Term Is Mandatory for Inducing Perjury

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers was convicted by a Federal jury yesterday on three counts of inducing perjury and Federal Judge Alexander Holtzoff immediately announced he would sentence the retired general to go to jail on Monday.

The 52-year-old former deputy chief of Army Air Force procurement faces a possible 2 to 10 years in prison on each of the three counts brought by the Government.

Stating that he was ready to act "promptly," Judge Holtzoff told Meyers to appear for sentence on Monday. Finally granting bond pending sentence, the jurist said "I would not grant bail pending appeal." Defense Counsel Robert T. Bushnell said an appeal would "most assuredly" be made.

Meyers Is Composed

The jury of 10 men and 2 women deliberated for 2 hours and 50 minutes, not including an hour for luncheon, before announcing it had reached a verdict.

The retired officer, already stripped of military honors and pension, and branded a "disgrace" to the service, stood with iron composure as the jury pronounced him guilty.

Meyers' third wife, a glamorous blonde former Hollywood bit player, fought back tears as she struggled to her husband's side in the crowded courtroom, but he showed no emotion.

Holtzoff's announcement that he would refuse bail apparently means, counsel for both sides stated, that Meyers will see prison doors close on him after he is sentenced on Monday.

Under District of Columbia statute, a judge has no option but a prison sentence on a subornation of perjury charge, and under rules of criminal procedure here, a defendant can be jailed pending appeal, although such a step is unusual.

Jury Polled

The defense demanded a poll of the jury after Foreman Stanley J. Carver, 51, a mortician, of 29 Franklin st. ne., announced that the jury had found Meyers guilty of inducing Bleriot H. Lamarre, a wartime associate, to lie under oath before the Senate War Investigating subcommittee.

One by one the 12 answered "guilty" on each of the three counts, but one juror had found it difficult to make up his mind, it was reported.

Postman Rings Phones, Not Bell, It's Blackmail

London, March 12 (U.P.).—An attractive young brunette, garbed in expensive clothes, told a London court today that her postman rang three times—for blackmail.

In cultured tones she told how Postman Charles Gamester allegedly opened a letter from a male friend of hers and used it to blackmail her on the threat of telling her husband.

She said the postman telephoned her three times and mentioned the nickname of her friend to prove he had the letter.

Police instructed her to arrange a rendezvous with the postman at a London cafe. When she asked him what he wanted, she testified, he replied:

"At first I thought I wanted what your friend wanted, but now I have decided to sell it to you."

Police arrested the postman.

The court agreed that no clew should be given as to the identity of the woman or her male friend.

Truman Gives Alabama Lady Message for Dixie: 'I Stand Pat'

Tuck Bill Advances

VIRGINIA Senate adopts Governor Tuck's anti-Truman bill by 29 to 10. Story on Page 7.

Answers Frank Question

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Reporter

Mrs. Nanna Thomas, who came up from the Deep South with fire in her hazel eyes, tapped President Truman on the shoulder in the Red Room at the White House yesterday.

She told him that she wanted to take a message home with her for the people of Dixie.

"Can I tell them," she said, "that you don't want to ram antisegregation down our throats? Can I tell them that you are not going to tear up the social structure of the South? Can I tell them that you stand for all the people?"

Mr. Truman, judging from the story Mrs. Thomas told later on the White House portico and at the Mayflower, took position on his civil rights program comparable to that of Gen. Stonewall Jackson at the Battle of Bull Run (or, as the South terms it, the Battle of Manassas).

She quoted the Chief Executive as saying:

"I do not take back one word of what I have said. I do not make any excuses for what I have said. I stand on the Constitution of the United States. I am everybody's President. We must stand together and stay out of war."

Mrs. Thomas said that, despite the President's unyielding stand, she became convinced that he meant no harm to the South. He whipped out a copy of the Constitution, she said, and read a part of it to her. He told her that he stood for State rights, and this, together with what she had learned at an earlier political pow-wow, persuaded her that Mr. Truman's civil-rights program had been "misinterpreted" down home.

Safeway Asks To Cut Price of Vitamin Milk

Request Contradicts Other Dairies' Claim 20c Is Rock Bottom

A request by Safeway Stores' milk division to sell vitamin D, homogenized milk at 1 cent a quart below present prices was heard yesterday by the Virginia Milk Commission.

Appearing before the commission at Richmond, Va., George Hughes, plant manager of the Lucerne Milk Co., a Safeway Stores subsidiary, said his dairy could add vitamin D to its homogenized milk and still sell it for 19 cents at Safeway Stores.

There is generally a cent-a-quart higher price throughout this area for such milk. In Virginia, the minimum price for vitamin D, homogenized milk is set at 20 cents a quart at stores, and 22 cents when delivered to homes.

Doesn't Handle Type Now

At present, Safeway does not handle vitamin D, homogenized milk in any of its stores in this section. Its stores sell 11.1 per cent of the Washington area's milk.

John W. Owen, secretary of the Virginia Milk Commission, said Chestnut Farms Chevy Chase Dairy, Thompson's Dairy and Alexandria Dairy all produced evidence at the hearing which was offered to show that their costs would not justify lowering the price.

Last November 1, when the Virginia Milk Commission set a higher price for Virginia milk upon request of the Maryland-Virginia Milk Producers Association and dairy farmers, those prices, which set the price of home-delivered grade A milk at 21 cents a quart, were followed throughout metropolitan Washington.

General Price Drop Possible?

Whether approval of the present price request on vitamin D homogenized milk would mean other dairies would adopt a lower price on the grade of milk is not known.

All the dairies represented at yesterday's hearing, and the producers' association, are among the defendants named in the recent grand jury indictment here of seven dairies, the association and the association's general manager on charges of conspiracy to fix milk prices and restrain trade.

The present request for a change in price scale, however, was made before the indictment was issued. Those named in the indictment are scheduled to be arraigned in District Court next Friday.

A decision by the Virginia commission on yesterday's hearing is expected in about 10 days.

2 Greenbelt Officials May Be Cleared

Report Due Monday To Be Acted Upon By Town Council

By William H. Smith
Post Reporter

Two Greenbelt town officials named as defendants in a five-month probe of the town's administration will be cleared of major charges at a meeting of the Town Council Monday, The Washington Post learned yesterday.

Town Manager James T. Gobbel and Police Chief George Panagoulis, targets of several citizens' complaints, will be absolved in a majority report of a nine-man committee appointed last October to investigate charges filed against both men, it was indicated. The charges followed semi-annual Town Council election in July.

The present five council members served on the investigating committee with four "disinterested residents." However, it was learned Gobbel, accused of overexpending the town's budget, will be cleared of principal charges, a town official disclosed.

Gobbel's handling of funds, the official said, did not violate present governmental provisions in effect in the town.

A member of the committee said the group found "nothing to substantiate" the 14 charges against Chief Panagoulis, who was accused of dereliction of duty in his capacity as police chief and director of public safety. The report conceded, however, that he may have been guilty of "some slight errors in judgment."

Most of the complaints against Panagoulis were dismissed by committee members as "petty grievances" of men who served under him in both the police and fire departments.

Along with the report of the investigating committee, the council is slated to consider at its Monday night meeting a resignation handed in by Gobbel last summer. After offering to quit his position in the face of complaints filed with the Town Council, Gobbel agreed to stay on until the investigation was completed because he "wanted the whole matter cleared up before I left."

Hoover Aide's Daughter Sued For $200,000 Heart Balm

Mrs. Gertrude Lamont Saltzman Jones, 1850 47th pl. nw., daughter of the late Robert Patterson Lamont, Secretary of Commerce under President Hoover, yesterday was named defendant in a $200,000 alienation of affection suit.

The suit was brought in District Court by Mrs. Justa Jones of Madison, N. J., former wife of Mrs. Gertrude Jones' husband, Matthew, deputy director of the aid-to-Greece division in the State Department.

Mrs. Gertrude Jones divorced her first husband, Charles Saltzman, an Assistant Secretary of State in 1947. She and Jones were married last month after Jones and his first wife were divorced.

According t othe suit, the first Mrs. Jones married the State Department official in Newark, N. J., July 18, 1925. They have one daughter, Mary Elizabeth Jones, 17.

Several days ago, Mrs. Justa Jones filed a suit alleging that her former husband was more than $1200 in arrears on a $400-monthly settlement agreement. In that suit, it was said Jones was about to take off for Greece on official business, and the plaintiff asked court action be ore he left.

Among other things, the alienation suit charges that the plaintiff "was deprived of and wholly lost the consortium of" her husband . . . "has suffered great mental anguish and sustained loss of social standing . . ."

U. S. to Buy Wheat Again For Export

Million Bushels Daily Is Immediate Plan, With Eye on Market Reaction

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

The Agriculture Department last night made the announcement that grain traders all over the world have been awaiting since February 3 — that Government buying of wheat will be resumed at once.

Purchases will be made at the rate of one million bushels a day for quick delivery. Additional quantities for May or later delivery will also be bought.

Agriculture officials made no secret of the fact that the effect of the announcement on the grain markets today will be watched carefully. If the market moves upwards too rapidly, the future buying program may be modified.

The announcement was buried towards the close of a report that 454 million pounds of flour (equal to 10,220,000 bushels of wheat) had been bought for export yesterday. It came after an afternoon of hurried conferences between Jesse Gilmer, administrator of the Production and Marketing Administration, and Secretary of Agriculture Anderson.

Notes Effect of Purchases

"In view of the fact that the relatively large current flour purchases have not unduly disturbed the market," it was stated, "the department feels that commodity prices have stabilized sufficiently to permit the resumption of purchases of wheat for export."

The department was extremely secretive about the offers for sales of flour that were accepted Thursday night and yesterday. All indications were that they were only slightly lower than similar bids that were refused a week previously. The refusal of the market to move wildly as a result of the earlier refusal of flour bids was believed to have been one of the incentives behind yesterday's sudden action.

The flour purchases yesterday were the first of any importance since the Government pulled out of the market for both wheat and flour at the beginning of the last big break in commodity prices February 4.

Wheat Closes Lower

Special precautions were taken yesterday to prevent leaks of the contemplated program of buying. The release, although not decided upon until after the close of the grain markets, was handled by chosen employes, and released just before time for department offices to close.

It followed a day of indecisive movements on the exchanges. Wheat was particularly surprising in view of announcement of

Red Cross Drive Hits $486,152, 45 Pct. of Goal

The District Red Cross campaign for 1948 yesterday chalked up $486,152.72, or 45.01 per cent of the $1,080,000 goal.

A total of 104,754 gifts were recorded at the fourth report luncheon, attended by some 400, in the Chamber of Commerce building. Campaign Director Randolph G. Bishop pointed out that at a similar point in last year's drive 59.73 per cent of quota had been achieved.

Alexandria, in its first report since the start of the campaign March 1, announced 1074 gifts for a total of $9529.35 or 47.89 per cent of quota.

A breakdown on the four main divisions: Government, 80,339 gifts, $236,149.07, or 47.8 per cent of quota; general business, 12,126 gifts, $137,431.80 or 43.62 per cent of quota; residential, 3964 gifts, $41,251.53, or 49.11 per cent of quota; city, 871 gifts, $21,232.30, or 39.32 per cent of quota.

Victims Jammed in Closet

2 Daylight Bandits Hold Up 4 in Home Here, Get $5100

(Pictures on Page 3)

By N. S. Haseltine
Post Reporter

Two daylight bandits yesterday raided a private home here, cowed four occupants at gunpoint, jammed them into a bedroom closet and fled with $5100 in loot.

The loot included $3100 in cash, a 2½-carat diamond ring worth $1000 and other jewelry.

The holdup was staged at 1 p. m., at 40 Crittenden st. ne., the home of David Kaufman. Kaufman, 42, who said he handed over $2400 cash to the bandits, told reporters he was "in the liquor business."

Other victims of the robbery included his father, Samuel Kaufman, 62; a 7-year-old son recuperating from chickenpox, and the family maid, Teresa Harvey. The four huddled in fear and listened while the bandits ransacked the entire house, they told police.

When the bandits slammed the front door and fled afoot up Crittenden st. to a wooded area, the victims forced open the closet door, which had been barricaded with a heavy bed.

Kaufman told investigators the bandits entered when the maid opened the door at their knock, swept the maid and convalescing boy ahead of them with drawn guns and herded all four to a corner of the living room.

He said he handed over his roll of bills totaling $2400, a yellow gold signet ring, the $1000 diamond ring, his billfold and his wristwatch. His father, he told police, gave up $700 in cash. The money, Kaufman said, represented "liquor store receipts."

5 West Europe Nations Draft Anti-Red Military Alliance; U. N. to Study Prague Coup

Security Council Forced by Chilean Action to Consider Rule of Russians

Lake Success, March 12 (AP). The government of Chile today demanded United Nations investigation of Russia's role in the Communist coup in Czechoslovakia.

This forced consideration of the once-rejected case brought by the Czechoslovak anti-Communist delegate here on Wednesday soon after Jan Masaryk died in Prague.

The case was placed tonight on the Security Council's provisional calendar for a meeting at 2:30 p. m. (EST) next Wednesday.

Chile's demand for Security Council action was accompanied by a blistering attack on the Soviet Union.

Chile said Russia was using the tactics of Adolf Hitler.

"The world finds itself facing an exact repetition of the actions and methods Nazi Germany employed in the years preceding the last World War and which were its definite cause," the Chilean statement said. "It would indicate therefore that world peace and security are in imminent danger, because of an international action contrary t othe (U. N.) Charter on the part of a member state against another state."

Chile said Soviet intervention in Czechoslovakia shows "the extent and magnitude of the plan of the U. S. S. R. and proves the fact that neither geographical position nor great or less strength or importance, or the love of or indifference for peace, are factors which can prevent a country from becoming involved in a struggle of this kind initiated by a great power like the U. S. S. R."

It was the first time Russia had been directly called on the carpet since the Iranian case in the U. N. two years ago.

The first test will come over admitting the case to the agenda. This is considered procedural and thus outside the range of the big power veto.

Some delegates immediately envisioned a showdown between Russia and the western powers over expansion of the Soviet sphere in Europe and elsewhere. Others expected Russia to follow her tactics of March, 1946, and walk out of the Council.

Instructed by President

Chilean chief delegate Hernan Santa Cruz filed the charges on direct instructions from President Gabriel Gonzalez Videla.

Santa Cruz said he had not discussed the plan in advance with any other delegation.

Chile broke off diplomatic relations last October with Russia, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia on charges the three interfered in Chile's internal affairs.

Secretary General Trygve Lie announced the Chilean document was being circulated immediately to Council delegates.

Two days ago Lie pigeon-holed a similar demand from Dr. Jan Papanek, still recognized Czechoslovak delegate to the U. N., on the ground that Papanek's document was a "nongovernmental communication."

Santa Cruz made it clear his government was acting in full support of Papanek.

Santa Cruz said he would demand that Papanek be seated to speak for Czechoslovakia.

Senate Tax Bill Vote Slated for Next Week

Senate Republican leaders yesterday tabbed their $4,700,000,000 tax cut bill for action next week.

Chairman Taft (R., Ohio) announced that goal was set at a meeting of the Republican policy committee. Debate may not begin until the middle of the week, but the aim is to get final action by the week's end.

Senate Rejects Taft Move To Cut European Aid, 56-31

The Senate last night defeated a proposal by Senator Taft (R., Ohio) to cut the first year's outlay under the European Recovery Plan to four billion dollars. The vote was 56 to 31.

By Ferdinand Kuhn, Jr.
Post Reporter

Senator Robert A. Taft yesterday launched his long-awaited fight in the Senate to cut the first year's cost of the European Recovery Program to four billion dollars.

"In my opinion the program is completely without economic justification," Taft declared on the tenth day of the Senate's debate on ERP. "On the other hand, I think it is justified by the world battle against communism."

He charged that the Senate Foreign Relations Committee's figure of $5,300,000,000 was based partly on guesswork; that the European countries had large unused resources in the United States, and that the plan would have better results if it were limited to his four-billion figure.

Senator Vandenberg (R., Mich.) said the bill "contemplates" four years of United States assistance. No Congress can bind the next Congress, he said. But he added that he would feel obliged to vote for the continuing aid beyond the first year if countries on the receiving end lived up to their obligations.

"I wholly disagree," Taft shouted. "There is no such obligation. There is no contract. They are not our partners."

"So far as I can see," the Ohioan declared, "they haven't agreed to do anything to our advantage except as it is to their own advantage."

He spoke late in the afternoon after Senator James P. Kem (R., Mo.) had held the floor for almost five hours.

Kem called the Marshall Plan the product of an "emotional mania" to give away American wealth, and compared it to the Children's Crusade of the Middle Ages.

Although the tactics of Kem and other opponents made it doubtful whether the Senate could reach a final vote by tonight, Senate Republican leaders agreed yesterday on a strategy which they hoped would avoid later delay between the Senate and House.

They decided to have at least three bills ready by the time the House has passed the single-package foreign aid bill decided upon by House leaders Thursday.

One would be the European recovery bill, now on the verge of

FBI Confirms Red Signature As Sorrell's

Studio Union Head Has Denied He Ever Was Communist Member

By The Associated Press

The Federal Bureau of Investigation reported to Congress yesterday the signature "Herbert Stewart" on a Communist Party control was written by Herbert K. Sorrell.

Sorrell, president of the AFL-Conference of Studio Unions in Hollywood, has denied under oath before a House Labor Subcommittee that he was ever a member of the Communist Party.

He swore that the 1937 Communist Party card allegedly issued to him under the party name of "Herb Stewart" was a forgery.

To Pass On Report

Chairman Kearns (R., Pa.), after receiving the FBI report, said it will be turned over to the full House Labor Committee, headed by Representative Hartley (R., N. J.).

"It will be up to the full committee whether to cite Sorrell for perjury," Kearns told reporters.

The FBI acted after Kearns turned over to the agency two exhibits reportedly linking Sorrell with the Communist Party.

One exhibit was a receipt for Communist membership book No. 60622 which bore the signature "Herbert Stewart." The other was a so-called Communist "Control Card No. 74282" which bore the signature "Herbert Stewart."

During Sorrell's testimony, Kearns had also obtained a specimen of Sorrell's signature written on a piece of the House Labor Committee's stationery. This was submitted to the FBI for comparison with the signature "Herb Stewart."

FBI handwriting experts checked the specimens with Sorrell's handwriting and concluded that "Stewart signatures" on both exhibits "were written by Herbert K. Sorrell."

The FBI thus substantiated a previous similar finding by Clark Sellers, Los Angeles handwriting

House's Rent Bill Extends Local Powers

Committee Approves Rider Killing Most Federal Control

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

Legislation extending rent controls for one year but granting local boards almost complete authority to remove ceilings or raise rents in each area yesterday was approved by the House Banking committee.

The bill, with its "local autonomy" rider was later cleared by the House Rules Committee and will be called up in the House on Monday.

The amendment taking from Federal officials most of their final authority over rents was adopted by a 12 to 8 party line vote, with Democrats dissenting almost as a bloc.

Monroney Assails Bill

Representative A. S. (Mike) Monroney (D., Okla.) told the House Rules committee the local board proviso "will knock an awful hole in effective rent control."

"It is the most sweeping and radical change ever made in rent controls," said Monroney.

"In effect it grants Federal powers to local boards without any real standards. It could lead to evictions for hundreds of thousands of tenants and raise rents of millions."

Monroney said he and other committee Democrats will move in the House to put back the Senate provision on local boards. Under the Senate-passed measure local boards may make recommendations to the Rent Administrator but the Administrator has the final say on whether they have made a case.

Local Powers

The House Banking Committee's bill makes approval of the local board's recommendations mandatory if certain set procedures are followed, namely, held a public hearing, gave advance notice of the hearing in writing to the Governor, published notices in a newspaper, and filed a copy of its rec-

Army Expected to Ask Draft And UMT Both for Security

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

Top Army chiefs are convinced that both a universal military training program and the drafting of men for actual service are necessary for American security under present world conditions.

Unless the international situation gets much better, The Washington Post is informed, a proposal for both measures probably will go to Congress next month as part of a general program to strengthen United States defenses.

Heretofore, officials have pressed for UMT and counted on voluntary recruiting to keep the occupation forces and other troop units up to strength.

But, despite improved recruiting results in January and February, the Army continues 120,000 men short of its 670,000 authorized strength, set two years ago. Prospective new troop commitments and the world crisis make those figures insufficient today, officials say.

Final decision on proposing both UMT and Selective Service will not be made for some days. Much depends on the decisions reached at the conference now under way at Key West, Fla., at which top officials expect to fix the wartime roles and missions of the Army, Navy and Air Force and give the Nation its first integrated strategic war plan.

Automatic Defense Treaty Also Calls For 'Harmonizing' Production, Trade

Brussels, Belgium, March 12 (AP).—Delegates of Britain, France and the three Benelux countries adopted today the completed draft of a treaty setting up a western European union as a block to communism.

The pact when ratified binds Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg to an automatic joint defense against attack in Europe. Although Germany is said to be mentioned by name as a possible aggressor, it is by no means limited to defense against Germany alone. Its drafters are convinced their agreement will ultimately attract at least the tacit support of the United States.

Described by one qualified source as a pact "unprecedented in the history of Europe," it also binds the five nations to a joint declaration of democratic principles, and to harmonize their production, standards of living, legal systems, trade practices and other matters touching nearly every field of national activity.

To Be Signed Wednesday

The complete text will not be made public before the treaty is signed here Wednesday by the five Foreign Ministers, the negotiators said.

The union is left open for other European nations to join. A non-European country, such as the United States, wishing to associate itself with the work of the union would have to deal with the European union as a whole, the Associated Press was informed. It could not join and have a voice inside it.

The agreement, which includes four of the world's greatest colonial powers, provides for automatic mutual aid in case of attack in Europe. It calls for consultation in case of attack in colonial areas.

It was reliably understood to go further than any of its authors originally had planned. The week-long conference had been planned without the presence of Foreign Ministers or economic or military experts. These were not expected to be needed.

Further Talks Likely

However, the Foreign Ministers had to be continually consulted as point after point came up broadening the aspects of the negotiations. As a result, it was said, virtually all decisions will have to be implemented by further discussions among the military, political and economic specialists.

Its workings will require very frequent consultations and permanent contacts, similar to that of the Pan American Union, though on a more intensive scale.

The final result was described by one authoritative source as the putting together the ideas of "British political internationalism, French juridical preciseness and Benelux business-mindedness."

As each nation went further in making concessions, the pact took a shape described by a high French Embassy source as "sensational."

"The European union is unlike anything that has ever been tried on this continent," this informant added.

Some Sovereignty Sacrificed

"It represents a unity of action and purpose that could never be attempted with as varied a group of countries as is found in the

Expert Sees 'Good Clean Necking' as Highly Wholesome

Springfield, Mass., March 12 (AP). There is nothing "as wholesome as good clean necking," in the opinion of a Springfield psychologist.

Dr. Dorothy T. Spoerl, a member of the psychology department of American International College, advised students, however, to "be relatively careful where and when you do it."

"You don't have to travel 100 miles into the woods where you'll be alone with temptation," she added.

Dr. Spoerl offered the advice last night to about 100 students attending the first of a series of three lectures on preparation for marriage.

She warned couples not to "spend so much time in wooing that on the day you walk to the altar the only thing you know about your spouse-to-be is that he or she is a facile necker."

Czechs Risk Death To Flee Communists

200,000 See Body

Bitter Czechs Pay Tribute To Masaryk

Prague, Czechoslovakia, March 12 (AP).—Thousands of weeping women and gravely troubled men today paid their final tribute of tears and flowers to Jan Masaryk.

It was a tribute tinged by outspoken bitterness such as has not been voiced since Communist-directed police established their guard over this country.

At nightfall the crowds still streamed up the tortuous streets of Prague to where the dead Foreign Minister lay in state. In the long lines were many veterans and soldiers who stood unabashed with tears in their eyes.

200,000 File Past

Officials estimated 200,000 had passed the bier by 5 p. m. when the doors were to have closed. They ordered the palace kept open until 10 p. m. to receive yet other thousands.

Officials continued to declare his death on Wednesday was a suicide because of the attacks on him from friends in the western world.

One newspaper writer charged the foreign press with "murder" and said, "It is time to see who is here as guests among us, writing as they please. Some must be thrown out and others remain only if they write as they should."

It was officially announced tonight that President Eduard Benes will attend the state funeral for Masaryk tomorrow.

The wreaths from his high friends—the American and British Ambassadors, the Canadian Charge D'Affaires, the Chinese Embassy, Turkey, President Peron of Argentina—mingled with the tiny bouquets from the little people who loved "Honza," as they called Masaryk.

Those little dewy flowers were borne by some whose talk in the queue was unguarded and sharp.

Even the presence in the queue of men and women wearing Communist Party buttons failed to halt the talk.

One middle-aged woman, between sobs, pointed to a group of Communists, identified by their buttons, and said: "Look at them, they do not even have enough decency to stay at home, those hypocrites. They have come to sneer at their victim."

Another old woman, her voice breaking, said, "this tragedy is greater than anything we have experienced yet. We have killed one of our greatest men — we ourselves."

Youth, 18, Killed, Woman Wounded At Border, Is Claim

Hof, Germany, March 12 (AP).—Czechoslovaks fleeing their Communist homeland said today the Czech border region has become a huge hunting ground where reinforced frontier guards attempt to block the escape of refugees.

The sound of gunfire is heard day and night on the Czech side of the border, they said. Militiamen have been called up to swell the ranks of the regular border guards.

Nevertheless, the informants said, scores of refugees are getting through to the United States occupation zone of Germany.

An unshaven man who reached this border city said an 18-year-old boy was killed and a woman was wounded yesterday when Czech border guards spotted them.

He said persons captured trying to flee from Czechoslovakia are sentenced to five to 20 years in prison. The refugees, he added, are becoming increasingly desperate.

Some carry revolvers and rifles, ready to fight it out. Several refugees literally crashed into the American zone when they smashed their automobiles into control point gates and drove on through showers of splinters. The group reportedly included a Czech general. The guards now have set up heavier road blocks.

A trainload of 137 Czechoslovaks reached the United States zone in the Hof vicinity in the past few days. They said hundreds of thousands of Czechoslovaks want to leave their homeland.

Border Jail Jammed

They said the jail at Asch, the nearest Czech city to the border, is so crowded the inmates are sleeping in the corridors.

Apparently most of the refugees were of the opinion that Foreign Minister Jan Masaryk did not commit suicide but was slain. No one dissented when a spokesman said: "He did not jump out that window. He was pushed."

The refugees also expressed the belief that President Eduard Benes was a prisoner of the Communists.

"He never spoke on the radio as he intended to after the Communist putsch," said one. 'That isn't like him."

No Wooing by Russia Yet, Norwegian Says

Copenhagen, March 12 (AP).—Halvard Lange, Norwegian Foreign Minister, said today Russia has given no indication she intends to seek a treaty of cooperation with Norway as well as Finland.

Lange, en route to a Marshall Plan conference in Paris, commented on reports published here saying British and Norwegian officials expected such a request.

Finnish Communists Prepare To Charge Foes With Treason

Helsinki, March 12 (NYHT.).—Finnish Communists are getting ready to accuse opposition parties of trying to sabotage the military pact with the Soviet Union, it was learned today.

A well-planned press campaign aimed at pinning treason charges on democratic leaders will start early next week, according to reliable sources. Social Democrats reportedly will be the chief targets.

Delay in replying to Premier Stalin's letter, coupled with vocal opposition to the pact by political leaders, has apparently convinced the Communists they have enough evidence to charge opponents with trying to undermine relations with Russia. The Communist paper Tyokansan Sanomat declared today Omni Pelaonen, Social Democrat member of the delegation, was not qualified to go to Moscow because of his anti-Russian prejudices.

Today the Socialist newspaper Social Demokraatti reminded its readers of events in Hungary, where the comparatively weak Communist Party used this technique to secure power.

"There is no question that Communists in Finland have prepared lists of people they want eliminated," the editorial said.

Russia Said To Plan Pact For Turkey

London, March 12 (U.P.).—An exchange Telegraph Ankara dispatch reported today, without specifying authority, that Russia would propose to Turkey a treaty similar to that which Premier Josef Stalin recently asked of Finland.

There was no confirmation.

The dispatch said it was "learned" that A. A. Lavrischev, new Russian Ambassador to Turkey, would make the proposal.

The dispatch said Ankara political circles believed talks held in London by Turkish Foreign Minister Necmeddin Sadak and Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin were intended to reinforce Turkey's position in the Middle East before Russia made its proposal.

The Foreign Office announced that Bevin and Sadak conferred for 45 minutes today.

The foreign office said the Turkish foreign minister's visit had nothing to do with reported Soviet plans but concerned mainly the Marshall Plan conference to open in Paris.

(The Associated Press reported from London that Whitehall informants said Sadak and Bevin concentrated chiefly upon Turkey's ability to resist neighboring Russia's demands for border changes and a dominant say in control of the strategic Dardanelles Straits.)

West Europe Drafts Accord

United Nations, or even in the European Recovery (Marshall) Plan Among the latter, for example, some countries wish to preserve a certain international economic or political position which we are willing to sacrifice for greater unity and effectiveness."

One source predicted "there will be no great rush of other European nations to join as much as we want them. They will learn when they see the pact is no mere political gesture. It must be done seriously and will involve far-reaching commitments."

In form the pact is a regional association under the United Nations. It is reported to be for a period of 50 years.

"Plot Against Peace"—Moscow

By today's action, the five countries will go into next Monday's Paris meeting of the 16 Marshall Plan nations as a tightly knit bloc for the future continental coordination.

(Izvestia, Soviet government newspaper, said in Moscow the Brussels conference was "a plot against the peace in Europe."

(The newspaper said the conference was an attempt to "drum up a western union as a constituent part of the Marshall Plan directed against the Soviet Union" and represented a further development in the plan by which "western Germany is being transformed into a military base for aggression against the U. S. S. R." The paper said the union would give the United States "unhindered interference in the internal political life of western European peoples.")

West Europe Charter Urged In Commons

London, March 12 (AP).—The calling of a constitutional convention to make all western Europe virtually one country was proposed to the British Parliament today.

The proposal was in the form of a resolution submitted by 73 members of five political parties. No important officials were among the signers, but there were some minor officials. R. W. G. MacKay, who headed the list, said many ordinary members of Parliament had signed it and estimated that about a fourth of the membership would eventually sign it.

Winston Churchill, one of the leaders in a movement for a "United States of Europe," was not a signer but promised the group he would seek a full day of debate in Parliament on their project.

The proposal envisaged a much tighter unity than that represented at Brussels.

The resolution called for "a democratic federation of Europe with a constitution based on the principles of common citizenship, political freedom and representative government, including a charter of human rights."

The resolution urged that western European governments convene as soon as possible an assembly to write such a constitution.

As an immediate action it proposed the setting up of an emergency western European council of all 16 Marshall Plan nations to remain in continuous session and take common action.

Greek Rebels Give Warning Of Executions

Athens, March 12 (U.P.).—Guerilla chieftain Gen. Vafiade Markos threatened today to execute a group of captured Greek army officers unless 111 seized guerillas were freed within 48 hours.

Markos, who spoke personally over the guerilla radio declared also that an American-led spring offensive had begun in Epirus, the northwest portion of Greece near the Albanian border.

He said his men had refused attacks in that region and promised a new guerilla offensive against all parts of Greece, including Athens from land, sea and air.

Markos names of six or seven Greek army officers captured by his forces in Epirus who would be executed if his ultimatum were ignored.

The 111 guerillas were seized after a shelling of Salonika.

Athens newspapers reported today the arrest of Lieut. Gen. Neokosmos Grigoriadis, of the outlawed left-wing Elas army, who served as Minister of War in the first liberation government under Premier George Papandreou.

U. N. Group Votes to Hold Korea Poll

Seoul, Korea, March 12 (AP).—Over strong Canadian opposition, the United Nations Korean Commission voted 4 to 2 today to observe an election in south Korea May 9 to choose a national assembly form of government.

The United States occupies south Korea, Russia the north, and the Canadian opposition hinged on observing an election confined to one zone.

India, China, El Salvador and the Philippines voted for the step, while France and Syria abstained and Australia joined Canada in opposing it.

Spain Considers Relations With U. S. Vital to Future

Madrid, March 12 (U.P.).—The Spanish Government was reported authoritatively today to have told the American charge d'affaire here that closer relations between Madrid and Washington were vital to Western civilization in view of recent events in Czechoslovakia and Finland.

Authoritative sources said Foreign Minister Alberto Martin Artajo had a 45-minute conference with Charge d'Affaires Paul Culbertson.

The conference was described as a follow-through to a meeting betwee Culbertson and Martin Artajo last month, at which the American made oral suggestions that greater freedom in the political and economic life of Spain, and freedom of press and of individual thought would improve Spain's relations with the U. S.

Martin Artajo was quoted as saying the Falange Party had lost considerable authority, and that press matters had passed from direct control of the party to the Ministry of Education.

Reds Veto Berlin Civil Probe

Berlin, March 12 (AP).—An American proposal for an inquiry into the suppression of civil and political liberties in Berlin was vetoed today by the Russians.

The proposal was made in the Allied Kommandanture as complaints piled up from non-Communists they were being restricted and persecuted by the Russian-sponsored German Socialist Unity Party (Sed) in the Soviet sector of the city. The Sed is Communist controlled.

The Communists, on the other hand, alleged they were being restricted by the western powers. They complained particularly about raids conducted by American public safety officials on two district headquarters of the Sed yesterday in search of anti-American pamphlets.

Red Press Hits U. S. Raids

The proposal was presented by the United States commandant, Col. Frank L. Howley, and called for the appointment of a four-power investigating commission.

American Consulate Evacuated for Hour

U. N. Insists On Palestine Peace Plan

New York, March 12 (AP).—The United States insisted in a special statement today that a peaceful solution of Palestine partition is required.

It was the second such special statement issued in two days in showed efforts to clarify the United States position.

Today's statement said attainment of a peaceful solution was not being assisted by the refusal of "one or more of the parties to take part in consultations."

Yesterday's statement declared the United States position favoring partition was not changed.

At the four-power conference on Palestine today Andrei A. Gromyko of Russia refused to talk with Jewish Agency leaders who attended.

The Soviet delegate declared he still felt such talks with Arab and Jewish leaders would only lead to complications. He insists that partion be carried out.

He charged the United States wants to start again at the beginning of the Palestine question.

Officials Return As Search Shows No Explosives

Jerusalem, March 12 (AP).—The United States consulate was evacuated for an hour today after an unknown telephone caller threatened that the premises would be blown up.

Police found no explosives after a search of the htree consulate buildings. Employes and officials then returned to their offices.

The consulate is 300 yards from the Jewish Agency headquarters where a blast yesterday killed 13 and injured nearly 100. According to the agency, the xeplosion was touched off by an Arab in a car stolen from the American consulate.

An agency spokesman said: "Neither the Jewish Agency nor anyone else regard the American consulate as in any way to blame."

'Shocking' Bloodshed Predicted in Palestine

Haifa, Palestine, March 12 (U.P.). Maj. Gen. H. C. Stockwell, commander of British troops in northern Palestine, said today bloodshed on a "shocking" scale would occur after the British withdrawal and called for an international police force of 50,000 men.

The British commander said he believed it would take at least 50,000 well-trained and well-armed troops six months or more to disarm the Arabs and Jews in Palestine.

Taft Seeks Cut in Aid

Senate approval; another would provide military aid for Greece and Turkey, and will be considered by the Foreign Relations Committee beginning Monday; and a third would provide economic help for China. Senator Taft told reporters there might be a fourth, providing for military aid to China.

Armed with these completed bills, the Senate conferees could then meet their House counterparts by April 3, as the Senate leaders foresaw it yesterday. The effort could then be made to separate the European recovery from the world-wide House bill and get it approved by both Houses by April 10, the date which Speaker Martin has mentioned as his own deadline for completing action.

House Republicans on the Foreign Affairs Committee were angry yesterday at statements that their single-package tactics would delay ERP and have harmful repercussions in Europe. On the contrary one leader argued, the inclusion of China, Greece and Turkey in the House measure would speed up action more than any alternative course.

House Democrats Angry

House Democrats, however, were angry for different reasons. Democratic members of the Foreign Affairs Committee complained that they had been "frozen out" of the past two days' meetings of Republican members in their committee room, and they held an indignation meeting of their own with former Speaker Sam Rayburn present.

On the Senate floor Taft argued that "too lavish distribution of American dollars will do more harm than good." He echoed former President Hoover by protesting against buying ERP supplies outside the United States.

"Certainly there can be no economic justification whatever for our buying wheat in Canada and the Argentine and giving it to Great Britain," he declared. "There is even less justification for buying coffee from Brazil and giving it away in Europe, because it certainly has no food value."

Sees No War Danger

He thought the economic difficulties of western European nations were "to a large extent of their own creation," and that outside aid would not solve them unless the European nations cooperated.

But he did concede that American aid was justified because of "the extraordinary situation that exists in the world today," and that conditions would be less favorable to Communist success if production and the standard of living were raised.

He disputed the alleged danger of war and did not interpret recent statements by President Truman and Secretary Marshall to mean that they expected attack from "Communist nations."

"I know of not indication," he said, "of Russian intention to undertake a military aggression beyond the sphere of influence which was originally assigned to them.

. . . The oppression of freedom in eastern Europe is the direct result of the policy of our own Government"—meaning, he explained, chiefly the Yalta and Potsdam agreements.

U. S. Held Ruling Balance of Power

Charlottesville, Va., March 12 (AP).—Brig. Gen. Julius Holmes, former Assistant Secretary of State, said today the United States "is the most influential single factor in realigment of balance of power; a system that we had attempted to end but which is still with us in grim reality."

"We are committed irrevocably to enormous responsibilities involving our own security and well being and that of others," he said in a talk urging support of the University of Virginia's $7,800,000 development fund.

Others speaking in support of the fund before a group of alumni attending a two-day session of fund meetings were Edward R. Stettinius, jr., rector of the University of Virginia, and United States Senator W. C. Revercomb of West Virginia.

Before getting the FBI report, the House group heard counsel for the major Hollywood movie producer describe Sorrell as a man who "has certainly learned well the filthy art of smearing and character assassination which is the basis of Communist tactics."

But the witness, Burton K. Zorn, said he would leave it to the committee to determine whether Sorrell was a Communist as alleged by other witnesses.

Clark Doubts Legality of Bill To Keep Reds Off Ballot

By the United Press

Attorney General Tom C. Clark yesterday advised a House committee that the constitutionality of a bill to bar the Communist Party from the ballot is "extremely doubtful."

He suggested, however, that Congress might move toward the same goal by tightening up present laws forbidding anyone convicted of subversive activities to hold public office.

Clark gave his opinion in a letter to Chairman Karl M. LeCompte (R., Iowa) of the House Elections Subcommittee. LeCompte requested the attorney general's ruling on a bill sponsored by Representative William C. Cole (R., Mo.) which would forbid communists to run in any national, state or local election.

"It appears extremely doubtful," the letter said, "that any particular group or party could be barred from the ballot on the basis proposed without jeopardizing the constitutional guarantees of all other political groups and parties."

Clark refrained from directly branding the bill "unconstitutional" since that question can finally be decided only by the U. S. Supreme Court.

Reds Rampant in Long Island YW, Citizens Group Charges

New York, March 12 (AP).—A group of Queens civic leaders charged last night that communism existed in the YWCA and extended to the national board of directors.

The group met in the home of J. Keane, commander of the Forest Hills American Legion to seek "reorganization of the national board and to rid the YW of Communist influence which has been rampant the past 20 years."

The charges were characterized as "ridiculous and unfounded" today by Mrs. Harrison S. Elliott, executive director of the national board.

She said "the YWCA will welcome an inquiry by a representative group."

Edward H. Potter, assistant district attorney of Queens, said he had investigated such charges and agreed the situation existed but asserted the problem should be "straightened out on the inside."

Mrs. Earl French who resigned last October as president of the Queens YWCA asserted the YW song book contained two songs which appeared in the official song book of the Communist Party. She named these as "drill ye Tarriers" and "Sing Along the Way."

She said "I have tried to fight the Reds from inside the organization but I saw it was impossible and I got out. Now I intend to tell the world about it. The general public must act."

Pension Contract Broken, Lewis Says

By Alfred Friendly
Post Reporter

John L. Lewis yesterday wrote his United Mine Workers officers that the soft coal operators had "dishonored" their contract and defaulted on it by refusing to grant a pension fund.

He asked that the local unions discuss the matter. He concluded, "You will later hear more from this office on this subject."

Lewis made his letter public at the end of a long press conference given over to a denunciation of the mine operators. "How long, how long will our rights be denied us?" was the theme.

His letter and his bitter remarks could be the prelude to a strike. But he made no direct threat of one, and, in fact, gave no hint of what his next act would be.

His press conference and letter were full of thunder, but at the end, fog remained.

Under terms of the miners' contract with the operators, a welfare fund was to be set up which would pay, among other things, pensions to retired miners. The fund was to be administered by three trustees—Lewis, for the miners; Ezra Van Horn, for the operators; and a neutral, whom they picked. He was Thomas Murray of New York

The fund, collected at the rate of 10 cents royalty per ton of coal mined, now totals almost 29.5 million dollars. It has been accumulating since last July. It has never been "activated" because of failure to agree on a pension plan.

Lewis is known to have proposed $100 a month pension for every miner who retires after the age of 60. Yesterday he said Social Security Administration estimates forecast that the plan would cost 10 to 15 million dollars in the first year, and that no one could forecast its cost "very far" in the future.

The operators claim the fund could not pay for such a plan, and that Lewis' demands would necessitate a royalty of 40 cents a ton. Lewis called such an estimate fantastic.

Van Horn has rejected the proposal and Murray resigned. He did it, Lewis wrote his miners yesterday, "rather than side with the mine workers." Lewis and Van Horn failed to agree on a substitute and yesterday Lewis hinted that agreement on one was most unlikely in the near future.

Yesterday the miners' leader stated flatly that the operators had offered no counterproposal. He hammered on the theme that the operators' failure to agree to a pension plan was an outright violation of the agreement.

Under the contract, Lewis has a right to reopen it—and strike—on 30 days' notice. He has not served that notice. But on February 2, he made a statement that a dispute existed—a notice required by the Taft-Hartley Act 60 days before a strike may be legally called.

In his letter Lewis wrote that the operators "continue gleefully to violate the contract, and count each day a success when they can prevent expenditure of this money to alleviate human misery."

"This winter is noow gone," Lewis wrote. "This office proposes to go forward in requiring the local operators to honor their agreement. Your ears will soon be assailed by their outcries and wails of anguish. To relieve themselves, they need only to comply with the provisions of the agreement which they solemnly executed in this office on July 8, 1947."

Does this mean a strike? reporters asked.

Lewis read from the contract the famous passage that the miners were obliged to work only if "willing and able."

Might the miners be unwilling to work after they received this letter, Lewis was asked.

"Who could answer that?" he replied. He said he knew times when the miners didn't want to talk at all, but to strike at once. At other times, they wanted to talk without end.

"We have a bond," he said at one point. "Now we want the ducats."

ommendations with the Governor.

The Housing Expediter would be required to name the local advisory boards in each defense rental area "from recommendations made by the respective Governors."

A Senate attempt similarly to make the local boards autonomous had been defeated on the Senate floor, 43 to 25.

Both House and Senate last month rushed through stop-gap bills extending present rent controls to March 31, 1948, and the Senate followed through with a long-term extension to April 30, 1949. The House committee's long-term revision makes the deadline March 31, 1949.

The bill does not affect the District, which has a rent control law extension of its own coming up, but some members said whatever final action is taken on the Federal measure may leave its imprint on the new District law.

Under the House bill, like the Senate's, rents could be increased up to 15 per cent on long-term leases running through 1949, where tenants and landlords sign an agreement. If the agreement is for the full 15 per cent raise, no further increase could be made during the life of the law.

While the Agriculture Department was preparing its program for export buying, the special House Foreign Aid Committee let loose a blast at Argentina—charging that South American country with collecting exorbitant prices for grain from needy European nations.

In reporting on the extent to which Latin America might help in the European recovery program the committee, headed by Representative Christian A. Herter (R., Mass.), declared:

"The Argentine government prides itself on its capacity for hard bargaining. It has repeatedly indicated lack of interest in sharing in the task of working out a solution to Europe's economic problems."

The high prices Argentina has charged, the group said, have been "a major drain on European resources—a drain which cannot properly be assumed by the United States Treasury."

Reasonable prices — comparable with those which America is receiving—would save well over 250 million dollars a year, the report stated.

In calling for a firmer policy toward Argentina, the committee said that "important bargaining devices" have been ignored by this country in negotiations with that country. It declared "they should be brought into use immediately."

One of these devices, it said, was "the leverage provided by Argentina's critical need for capital equipment, steel and chemicals.

"In the Argentine scheme of things," it said, "the need for these commodities is as great as is Europe's need for food. We have made no use of this bargaining power."

"It has been argued, without basis in fact," the report stated, "that prices of this kind are justified because the United States has been charging similarly exorbitant prices for machinery and equipment exported.

"The facts are that the United States Government is not engaged in the export of machinery and equipment, that United States manufacturers have been competing actively with each other and with European manufacturers for business in Argentina and that most of our exports have been booked at reasonable profit margins and at prices in line with those which the United States consumer of similar equipment has been paying."

Argument on Kelly Charges Postponed

2 Heavily Fined

Board Urges Dismissal of Policeman

Arnold C. Jackson

Robert Reeves

George W. Bromley

Joe A. Meyer

One policeman was recommended for dismissal and two others were heavily fined yesterday by a Metropolitan Police trial board

Pvt. Joseph A. Meyer, 45, of the Traffic Division, was found guilty of being under the influence of liquor while directing traffic at 13th and F sts. nw. last Thursday night. He was fined $150 for a similar offense on January 16.

Pvt. George W. Bromley of the Eighth Precinct was fined a total of $150 for twice making false statements to his superiors. Testimony showed he claimed to have an automobile operator's permit when in fact Virginia had suspended his license. Bromley was injured in a crash January 23 while driving a borrowed scout car.

Admitted Leaving Beat

Corpl. Arnold F. Jackson, also of the Eighth Precinct, was fined $175 for prejudicial conduct. He admitted leaving his beat after picking up Bromley in a scout car for coffee. It was his scout car that Bromley wrecked.

By coincidence, Inspector Oscar Letterman was a member of the board yesterday and also in 1941 when both Bromley and Jackson were tried on a complaint by a prisoner who accused Jackson of having fired upon him in a First Precinct cell. Both were acquitted. They claimed it was only firecrackers the prisoner heard.

At the trial yesterday Jackson testified he had picked up Bromley from his beat and taken him about 2 miles away to Garvin's Grill, 2619 Connecticut ave. nw., between 5 and 6 a. m. January 23.

Jackson said he usually went to the restaurant when the manager was counting his money. While Jackson was in the radio car, Bromley went inside for his coffee, he said. Then they reversed the process.

Told to Borrow Car

About 6 a. m., Bromley said he had to make a call to the station from a police box, Jackson said, and he was told to borrow the car.

The car smashed into another driven by John I. Kalivnetenos, 18, of 1341 Girard st. nw., at Connecticut near 24th st. Capt. John E. Fondahl of the same precinct testified that he visited Emergency Hospital a few hours later and asked Bromley if he had a Virginia driving permit. Bromley, who lives at 709 N. Dinwoodie st., Arlington, said he did, Fondahl declared.

He immediately asked the Virginia State Police to verify the license and three days later received notice that the license had been suspended after Bromley was involved in an accident in 1945. The license had not been restored.

Sergt. James C. Pipkin said he had asked Bromley if he had a driver's permit last July 21 when Bromley was being assigned to drive the precinct's patrol wagon. Bromley assured him he did.

Bromley testified, however, that he had merely told Perry:

"You know me, Sergeant, I'm on the ball."

A District license, he said, expired in 1937 and had not been renewed.

In summing up, Defense Attorney H. Clifford Allder claimed that none of the officers had asked Bromley if he held a valid operator's license and that therefore Bromley had not made false statements when asked if he held a license.

Other members of the trial board were Capt. Albert L. Bullock and Assistant Corporation Counsel Henry E. Wixon.

The trial of a fourth policeman, Pvt. Robert Reeves of the Fourth Precinct, for prejudicial conduct and making false statements, was postponed until next Friday.

Dismissal Hearing Set Friday for Four Ex-Union Officials

Arguments on a motion to dismiss embezzlement charges against Yarry Kelly, believed dead, and three other former officials of the International Hod Carriers and Building Laborers Union yesterday were proposed until Friday in District Court.

Associate Justice Alexander Holtzoff granted the continuance because of the illness of Joseph B. Keenan, a defense attorney.

Kelly, Joseph V. Moresaid, John Garvey and Achilles Persion were indicted in 1944 for conspiracy to embezzle more than $100,000 from Local 74 of the union.

Reports have been current since then that Kelly died while serving in the Merchant Marine and was buried in New Guinea.

Oklahoma Postmaster Found Guilty by CSC

By The Associated Press

The Civil Service Commission found yesterday that Joseph R. Reed, Lawton, Okla., Postmaster, had violated regulations forbidding political activities.

Reed, postmaster since 1939, was accused of political activity in the 1946 Democratic congressional primary elections in which Representative Jed Johnson (D., Okla.) was defeated for reelection by Representative Morris (D., Okla.).

The commission report said Reed was accused of "inducing" Helen S. Pettit, wife of a Lawton postoffice employe, to work in the campaign for reelection of Johnson and had furnished her with literature and supplies and with a list of names.

House Acts Today

Anti-Truman Bill Voted by Va. Senate

Richmond, Va., March 12 (AP).—The Virginia Senate late today passed by a vote of 29 to 10 an amended version of Gov. William M. Tuck's anti-Truman bill.

The bill now goes back to the House of Delegates for concurrence in Senate amendments.

The bill, originally designed to keep President Truman's name off the Democratic ballot in Virginia, will permit the Virginia Democratic Party to name its own candidate for President. President Truman, if nominated, could appear on the ballot as candidate of the "National Democratic Party" or some other name besides "Democratic Party."

Governor Tuck proposed the law as an answer to President Truman's civil rights program. Senator Robert C. Vaden of Pittsylvania, urged Senate adoption to halt a Federal invasion of States' Rights.

For all practical purposes, Governor Tuck's signature is the only thing needed to make the bill law. However, House concurrence in Senate amendments will be required tomorrow.

One of these assured that Truman can appear on the ballot without circulating a petition—which would be required of the Wallace party.

Truman Firm On Civil Rights

Thomas told reporters, "is to forget the revolt, to get busy and raise funds for the Democratic Party, and to stand solidly behind Harry S. Truman."

Mrs. Thomas, a vivacious matron from Montgomery, Ala., who is the Democratic national committeewoman for her State, came here for a meeting of the executive committee of the Democratic National Committee. Yesterday she and the other members were guests of President Truman and the First Lady at a White House luncheon.

The chief dish was smelts with roe.

Mrs. Thomas' story of what happened, including the incident of the coffee cup that was knocked out of the President's hand, was an exciting one.

She said that during the luncheon some of the other guests, knowing how she felt about the civil rights business, kidded her and encouraged her to have it out with Mr. Truman.

'I never saw the White House look more beautiful," Mrs. Thomas told reports later at the Mayflower. "Mrs. Truman is the loveliest hostess and made us all feel at home. Oh, you've never seen anything prettier. The table was the most beautiful thing you ever saw, and the food was lovely."

Mrs. Thomas got her chance to talk to the President when the guests left the dining room and went into the Red Room for coffee. He was standing in front of the fireplace, and she gave him "a little Southern tap" on the shoulder to attract his attention.

The following dialogue then took place, according to Mrs. Thomas.

"Mr. President, may I ask you a question?"

"I've got the answer right here in my pocket." (Mr. Truman took out a copy of the Constitution.)

"Now, you don't even know where I'm from."

"Oh, yes, I do. You're from Arkansas."

"Oh, no; worse than that."

"Alabama."

At this point, according to Mrs. Thomas' narrative, a Negro waiter knocked a cup of coffee out of the President's hand. The waiter, she said, bowed and was as polite as possible, and said, "Oh, Mr. President, I'm so sorry."

She said that Mr. Truman simply remarked, "That's all right, Pete."

"It was just like any other human being would do," Mrs. Thomas observed.

Once this flurry was over, she went on, the President began to read from the copy of the Constitution he had taken from his pocket. She wasn't sure just what he read, but she thought it was something about equal rights for all citizens.

It was then, according to Mrs. Thomas, that she asked the President for assurances that he didn't want to tear up the social structure of the South, and that he told her he stood on the Constitution and refused to take back one word of what he had said about civil rights.

Mrs. Thomas, who wore a wide-brimmed red hat at the White House, had changed into a black polo hat when reporters talked to her at the Mayflower.

Her delightful experience with the President and the First Lady, she explained, came after an earlier meeting at the headquarters of the Democratic National Committee, the second in two days.

"That's where we really had the fight," she said. "We brought up every problem, every difficulty. We ironed it out. We didn't reach an accord on everything. We realized that what works in Pennsylvania, doesn't work in Alabama.

"The meeting ended in complete agreement. No resolutions were drawn up because this is not a policy-making body."

She said that Senator J. Howard McGrath of Rhode Island, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, was as fair as any chairman she had ever known. And she also praised Gael Sullivan, the executive director, and remarked on "a gorgeous speech" he had made.

Mrs. Thomas' final word to the Democrats was "Let's keep our shirts on."

Senator McGrath, apparently, thought that this was a curtain speech that could hardly be improved upon. He decided against issuing a statement himself, and girded himself for what promises to be a sterner test—the arrival in Washington today of a group of Southern Governors.

Lieutenants Head List

THOMAS E. EDWARDS | ANTHONY RICHETT | HOWARD COVELL

Promotions of 31 Due: Candidate Results Awaited

Superintendent Robert J. Barrett yesterday announced new civil sertvice ratings from which 31 police promotions will be made April 1.

Positions to be filled from the list are four captains, six lieutenants, five sergeants, six corporals, three detective sergeants, three precinct detectives and four probational detectives. Appointment of two inspectors may be made without reference to the ratings.

The new ratings, first prepared since 1942, were based on examinations taken by more than 600 policemen last October 12.

At the same time Major Barrett said he was awaiting results of another examination taken by about 800 candidates for police appointments so that selection can be made of 106 rookie policemen and a school set up for them.

Lieut. Robert S. Bryant, acting captain and acting chief of detectives, is rated sixth on the list of lieutenants eligible for captaincies.

Unofficial reports state that Lieutenant Bryant, who now receives a captain's salary, is in line for appointment as chief of detectives when Inspector Floyd a Truscott, present chief and now acting assistant superintendent and executive officer, assumes that post permanently on the scheduled retirement of Inspector Walter H. Thomas.

Inspector Thomas, now absent on sick leave, is scheduled for retirement soon, along with Inspector Clement P. Cox, chief clerk.

Capt. William J. Cunningham, of the Tenth Precinct, heads the seniority list of captains for the chief clerk's post, but both Capt. Robert S. Pearce, of the First Precinct, second on the list, and Capt. John Jeffries, of the Ninth Precinct, are in line for consideration. Jeffries, according to police officials, has strong backing.

Heading the new Civil Service ratings for promotion from lieutenant to captain is Lieut. Thomas E. Edwards, of the Ninth Precinct, with a score of 97.03. Attaining the same rating, Lieut. Anthony Richitt, Third Precinct, is rated second because of Lieutenant Edwards' higher seniority.

Other top lieutenants are: Howard V. Covell, Administrative Headquarters personnel officer, 96.16; Charles J. Sullivan, First Precinct, 95.27; Irving H. Umbaugh, First Precinct, 94.68; Bryant, 94.40; Basil F. McAllister, Second Precinct, 94.39, and Robert V. Murray, Robbery Squad, 94.39.

Sergeants heading the list for promotion to lieutenant are: John E. Winters, Third Precinct, 96.82; Reid L. Hammann, Communications and Complaints Bureau, 96.63; Thomas Rasmusen, Tenth Precinct, 96.63; Henry F. Heflin, Administrative Headquarters, 96.63; John B. Layton, Sex Squad, 96.48; Daniel O. Fletcher, First Precinct, 96.28; Edward H. Sennott, jr., Traffic Division, 96.28; ... ries F. Fox, Eighth Precinct, 95.88, and Karl G. McCormick, Third Precinct, 95.79.

Top corporals on the list for sergeanteies are: Detective Sergt. Thomas C. Sullivan, who took the examination for a post on the uniformed force, 96.95; Corpls. Foley W. Harris, Eleventh Precinct, 96.95; Charles B. Kimball, Ninth Precinct, 96.80; Joseph B. Bohannan, Detective Bureau, 96.53; Albert B. Nicholson, Accident Investigation Unit, 96.53; Raymond J. Jackson, Eighth Precinct, 95.75.

Leading privates eligible for corporalcies are: John A. Meyers, Detective Bureau, 97.75; Francis E. Davis, Second Precinct, 96.77; Boyd T. Willard, Training School, 96.10; George E. Causey, Third Precinct, 96.02; John J. Triscik, Traffic Division, 95.95; John P. Peppler, Ninth Precinct, 95.87; Robert H. Wolf, Eleventh Precinct, 95.80; Francis J. Gas Conversion

Washington merchandizing plumbers are putting up an understandable fight against a ban on conversion of existing home heating units to natural gas during the ensuing year. The ban is based on an estimate of the Washington Gas Light Co. that on the basis of the abnormal conversion rate caused by shortages of other kinds of fuel, there will be 22,000 requests for installations of gas heating units this year. Present facilities of the company and its suburban subsidiaries will accommodate only 14,000 installations. Accordingly the company some time ago requested the Public Utilities Commission to limit all extensions of gas heating to newly constructed homes during the emergency. To prevent an overwhelming rush to convert existing heating units to gas while hearings were being held, the PUC issued an immediate temporary order. A permanent ruling will be handed down after hearings which begin on Monday.

The question is one of priority. In almost all cases, persons desiring to convert to gas now have some other source of heat, whereas new-home owners, whose need for housing may be extremely pressing, have none. If new-home owners were prohibited access to gas, they would be forced to go to the expense of installing equipment for other types of heating which they do not want. Nor would they have any assurance that they could get other fuels, particularly oil, for oil supplies are also strained. Moreover, a ban on gas heat for new construction might have the effect of setting back home building, since in many instances arrangements for installation have already been made and a change now would be costly. Altogether, we think that for gas equipment residents who now have heat of another sort should be put on the waiting list.

Omens In Italy

The immense seriousness of the situation in Italy is shown in the direct intervention of Pope Pius XII in the pre-election campaigning. In an audience at the Vatican last Wednesday the Pontiff told a gathering of the parish clergy of Rome that it was necessary for them to instruct the laity that they may conscientiously vote only for "those candidates or electoral lists that offer truly sufficient safeguarding of God's rights and of souls, for the true welfare of families and of society in keeping with God's law and moral Christian doctrine." The meaning here is unmistakable. The priests were exhorted to further efforts among their parishioners, even among those normally indifferent to politics, to prevent Communist triumph in the elections. The Pope asserted that anyone who, "through laziness or cowardice," abstains from voting, will be guilty of mortal sin, so vitally are the interests of the Christian religion involved in this contest.

Nevertheless, the pre-election forecasts from Italy are increasingly pessimistic. The Communists are said to be bidding very effectively for support of the peasants of southern Italy, whose understanding of the nature and purposes of communism remains dim, but who are nevertheless determined to make some radical protest against the conditions of their life. It is now anticipated that Communist candidates will obtain between 30 and 40 per cent of the seats in the new Parliament, and that these, with the support of left-wing Socialists and other fellow travelers, will enable the Communists to dictate the composition of the new government.

They will undoubtedly demand for themselves the Ministries of Defense and of the Interior, thereby obtaining control of the army and the police. According to the pattern pursued elsewhere in Europe, the establishment of a dictatorship would be merely a matter of months or weeks. The vital interest of the Church in the outcome of the election is, therefore, obvious. An understanding or modus vivendi, such as existed between Quirinal and Vatican in the days of the "Roman Question," would be impossible between the Pope and a Communist dictatorship. The Vatican would be isolated from the world, for there is little reason to doubt that the Communists would make an effort to exploit the clerical machinery for their own purposes. Thus the power and independence of the Papacy would be more seriously impaired than in the days of the "Babylonish captivity" at Avignon, and if an impenetrable iron curtain were closed around the Papacy, a period of confusion might result, almost comparable to that of the Great Schism.

We may, then, surmise that the removal of the Papacy from Rome in the event of a Communist victory in Italy has at least been contemplated. It is not easy, however, to surmise where the Pope would find a suitable refuge in exile. In the Western Hemisphere the possible refuges most frequently mentioned have been Argentina and French Canada; and for very different reasons either of these would involve serious diplomatic difficulties and complications.

Confidential Files

The enmeshment of Mr. Hamilton Robinson, director of the State Department's Office of Controls, in the toils of a loyalty probe seems at first glance a kind of gargantuan poetic justice. Representative Busbey's tenuous indictment of the State Department's premier purification expert as a security risk because he has a suspect second cousin could be dismissed as a rather healthy reduction to absurdity of the whole loyalty extravaganza if it did not entail an issue of vital principle. According to the news story in The Washington Post on Thursday, "Busbey asked to see the FBI report on Robinson at the time he entered the State Department, and Peurifoy (Assistant Secretary of State John E. Peurifoy) gave it, leaving it to the committee to publish the file in the record if it wished."

This relinquishment of an FBI report seems in sharp contrast to Secretary of Commerce Harriman's refusal on the same day to let the Committee on Un-American Activities have the Commerce Department Loyalty Board's confidential file, containing an FBI report, on Dr. Edward U. Condon. Mr. Harriman's conduct was in conformity with a long line of presidential precedents based upon sound practical considerations and upon principle. Mr. Peurifoy, we think, permitted a most dangerous invasion of executive authority by the Legislature.

Ever since the administration of George Washington, who declined to give Congress correspondence and other documents relating to the Jay treaty with Great Britain, American Presidents have insisted that the executive branch of the Government had power to determine, as the Supreme Court has ruled, "what of its own doings and communications should or should not be kept secret." President Monroe refused to comply with a congressional request for documents relating to the conduct of certain naval officers on the ground that to do so might subject the individuals involved to unjust criticism. President Jackson did likewise. President Truman did so as recently as last year when he declined to make available the FBI reports on his nominees to the Atomic Energy Commission.

In 1941, Robert H. Jackson, then Attorney General, prepared a careful memorandum on this subject in connection with a similar refusal to submit FBI reports to a congressional committee. "It is the position of this department," he said, "restated now with the approval of and at the direction of the President, that all investigative reports are confidential documents of the executive department of the Government, to aid in the duty laid upon the President by the Constitution to 'take care that the laws be faithfully executed,' and that congressional or public access to them would not be in the public interest."

The practical reasons supporting this position are not difficult to discern. Plainly the effectiveness of the FBI would very speedily be dissipated if the leaks inevitable in congressional committees should result in disclosure of the police agency's sources of information. Plainly, as Mr. Jackson noted in 1941, disclosure "would also prejudice the national defense and be of aid and comfort to the very subversive elements against which you wish to protect the country." Most important of all, to quote the Jackson memorandum once more, "Disclosure of information contained in the reports might also be the grossest kind of injustice to innocent individuals. Investigative reports include leads and suspicions, and sometimes even the statements of malicious or misinformed people."

One additional witness should be called. Calvin Coolidge, when he was in the White House, was asked by a special Senate investigating committee for some confidential information respecting his Secretary of the Treasury, Andrew Mellon. Mr. Coolidge replied: "Under a procedure of this kind, the constitutional guarantee against unwarranted search and seizure breaks down, the prohibition against what amounts to a government charge of criminal action without the formal presentment of a grand jury is evaded, the rules of evidence which have been adopted for the protection of the innocent are ignored, and instead of a government of law we have a government of lawlessness." It is time, we think, for another President to speak out on this issue with equal force and clarity.

Religion In Schools

The advocates of released time for religious education in the public schools are fond of asking "Why not?" A prior and more pertinent question is "Why?" There is ample opportunity for religious instruction outside school hours, on Sundays, or, if this is not sufficient, on weekday afternoons when secular classes have been dismissed. It is hard to escape the conclusion that the released-time program has been pursued in the schools of Champaign, Ill., where Mrs. Vashti McCollum tested its constitutionality, and elsewhere, precisely because it subjected pupils to a kind of compulsion to participate; at least it made nonparticipation awkward and conspicuous. This kind of program, at any rate when it is conducted on public school premises, is, as Mr. Justice Black declared on Monday speaking for the Supreme Court, "beyond all question, a utilization of the tax-established and tax-supported public school system to aid religious groups to spread their faith." It must fall, therefore, as he concluded, "squarely under the ban of the first amendment."

Mr. Justice Reed alone dissented from this conclusion, and Mr. Justice Jackson expressed some reservations respecting it. Both seem concerned, and not unreasonably, with the breadth and indefiniteness of the court opinion. To this, the careful historical review supplied by Mr. Justice Frankfurter is perhaps the best answer. The case, he says, "demonstrates anew that the mere formulation of a relevant constitutional principle is the beginning of the solution of a problem, not its answer. This is so because the meaning of a spacious conception like that of the separation of church from state is unfolded as appeal is made to the principle from case to case." Quite apart from the niceties of constitutional law involved, we heartily agree with the expression of political principle reaffirmed by Mr. Justice Frankfurter: "The public school is at once the symbol of our democracy and the most pervasive means for promoting our common destiny. In no activity of the state is it more vital to keep out divisive forces than in its schools, to avoid confusing, not to say fusing, what the Constitution sought to keep strictly apart."

Margarine

For years powerful dairy interests backed by members of Congress from dairy districts have fought attempts to repeal the discriminatory Federal excises imposed on margarine. Despite this intrenched opposition, the repeal movement has steadily gained in strength and influence, and the chances of success have never been so promising as at present. That is partly because consumer pressure for repeal has increased owing to rising living costs, and—more important as a practical matter—because legislators representing farming districts producing soybeans and cottonseed—materials used in making margarine—have joined forces with the repealers. As a result harried consumers have gained some powerful allies in their fight to free margarine from the competitive handicap of Federal taxes. The interest manifested in the current hearings before the House Agriculture Committee on the question of repeal is a further indication of the growing strength of the repeal movement.

The original purpose of the Federal taxes levied on the manufacture and distribution of margarine was to protect the consumer from fraudulent sales of margarine as butter. However, other regulatory devices have been developed for prevention of misrepresentation, and it is no longer necessary to rely upon the taxing power to safeguard the public or protect public health standards. In fact, the levies on margarine long since degenerated into an unfair imposition designed to aid butter producers in their competitive fight against the inroads of a cheaper (and adequate) substitute.

The chief target of repeal attack is the 10-cent per pound Federal tax on colored margarine, which is more directly competitive with butter than the uncolored product. The effect of the tax has been to shift buying to the slightly taxed uncolored product, although there has been a pronounced increase in sales of the taxed colored product in recent years as the spread between butter and margarine taxes has widened. In our opinion the punitive effect on the industry of the 10-cent tax has been exaggerated, since more and more housewives have overcome their prejudice against the uncolored margarine as butter prices have soared, have bought increasing amounts of the uncolored products, and have undertaken the coloring process themselves. Nevertheless, the tax remains a deterrent to the free exercise of consumer preferences. As Undersecretary of the Treasury Wiggins said in urging repeal of all the Federal taxes now levied on margarine, these taxes "distort the competitive position of two domestic industries, interfere with the optimum utilization of national resources, and unnecessarily burden consumers far in excess of the amount paid in taxes."

Repeal of the Federal taxes on margarine is, however, only a first step toward freeing the producers of margarine from unfair competitive handicaps imposed by legislation and satisfying consumer demands for a fairer deal. For 19 States impose excise duties on margarine, some of them quite heavy; the manufacture and sale of colored margarine is prohibited in 23 States. Excise fees for manufacture and sale of the commodity are also required in 14 States, and a good many States collect annual fees from wholesalers and retailers of margarine. Consequently, many would-be consumers of margarine would not benefit from removal of the Federal taxes. Unless the States are prepared to reform their ways, margarine will, as Mr. Wiggins points out, continue to be unavailable to consumers in many parts of the country, even in the absence of Federal taxes.

LULLABY

The moon keeps the kennels of seas;
The rivers are governed by rains;
And clouds are all tethered by winds
Across their aerial plains.

O sleep, sleep, sleep,
Child of this nightmare night;
Nestled in slumber deep,
Loosen your bridled fright.

The seasons throughout the long year
Champ at the bits of the sun;
Once spring and the summer have cantered,
The gallop of cold is begun.

O sleep, sleep, sleep,
Child of this nightmare night;
Dream all those dreams that creep
Free of your trammeled plight.

The reins of our joys feel the tugs
Of pains that are tied to the heart;
And never unravel those hurts,
And never from laughter they part.

O sleep, sleep, sleep,
During this nightmare day;
Peace is a leash we keep,
Holding our wars at bay.

"Masaryk"

It seems to me that your March 11 editorial on the death of Masaryk shows a lack of understanding for the role of small nations and their statesmen in the world of today.

You say: "Mr. Masaryk belonged to a genus of statesmen, familiar enough in our time, which believed that it is possible to move simultaneously in opposite directions. In this case, when confronted by the necessity of an irrevocable choice, Masaryk delayed until choice was no longer possible."

Would it not be more accurate and charitable to say that at every point he made it clear where he wanted to move and could not? Would not his final act prove beyond any doubt that he left his heart behind him as he was torn away from his convictions by irresistible forces? And did he not demonstrate more dramatically than by mere resignation how he felt?

The leader of a minor power, in the interest of national survival, must recognize the major forces of current history and attempt to fit the destiny of his nation into the structure of great-power politics unless he wants to be another, and a bloody, Don Quixote. In many cases this entails a distasteful compromise with his beliefs, and may in the end prove futile, but at the outset it might hold a greater promise of partial salvage of his and his country's ideal. Masaryk's alternative could only have been a powerless, if glorious, demonstration, involving millions and followed by silence.

It should be clear today that nothing could have been done by Benes or Masaryk that would have resulted in a different end for Czechoslovakia. Yet, by slowing the process, they gave the world a chance to see that good will, compromise and reason could not alter the course of such events.

It is too easy to expect the small nations who are the first victims of future conflicts to stand up with no more than moral support from benevolent friends far away, only to be slapped down by more effective opponents at close range. Sometimes a man whose actions affect the happiness of his people has to attempt to mitigate the inevitable until the time is ripe for action. From all accounts, it appears that this is precisely what Benes and Masaryk were trying to do, and there is real tragedy in the fate of a man who arrives at the conclusion that his best effort has proved unsuccessful. This failure, however, does not indicate that he could have chosen a wiser or better course, as your editorial implies, but merely that the best was not good enough.

Wallace And Truman

If anyone is to blame for the candidacy of Henry Wallace for President, shouldn't President Truman accept a major share of the responsibility? The President and Henry Wallace do not differ on domestic platform at any essential point. However, there is a real difference at the point of their ideas with respect to militarism. Mr. Wallace was quoted recently in the press as saying: "Whenever the Democratic Party proves that it is the peace party and Truman gives up his ideas on universal military training, I will consider returning to the party."

There are many thoughtful Americans who would prefer to have Mr. Truman give up his ideas on universal military training, not only because they are opposed to it but because it gives Mr. Wallace and his sponsors one of their most important campaign issues.

Condon's "Indiscretion"

In associating with Soviet scientists or Soviet citizens of any category Dr. Condon was certainly guilty of poor judgment and failure to appreciate the responsibilities of his position. It would not only be the natural thing but also the probable thing for Dr. Condon and his Soviet guests to converse on scientific subjects. And while Dr. Condon may be clever it is doubtful if he is clever enough to detect all the traps and question such men would bring up.

If Dr. Condon did not knowingly give out information helpful to the Soviets and thus harmful to us, he certainly displayed poor taste and poor judgment and it is doubtful whether he actually knows just how much information he let drop. As a public servant in his particular position he is subject to censure and reprimand at least.

China's Need For Reform

Mr. Yuen Ching's letter of February 29 presented much food for thought. Rightly emphasizing monetary stabilization and elimination of communism as vital to China's recovery, Mr. Yuen, nevertheless, lightly passed over the more pressing prerequisite for a strong, free China, namely, government reform.

Let's look closely at China's problems. Chinese national currency (official government bank notes) has been devalued about 75,000 times since the early 1930s, and about 150 times since VJ-Day. The government claims this unstable economic condition is a necessary result of continuing the civil war. Perhaps, then, if the Communist elements could be truly liquidated, monetary stabilization would automatically result.

Americans must realize (a) that there are forms of government equally as oppressive on the people as is communism (Hitler's Third Reich and Mussolini's Fascist regime for example); (b) that the Chinese Communist Party, although proclaiming adherence to the Kremlin dictates, falls into a different category than that of the Russian Communist Party, and could be more correctly termed the Chinese Anti-Nationalist Party, and (c) that the Chinese people, unaccustomed to democratic or even organized government, cannot be expected to unite strongly to form a major power until good local government becomes a habit.

Why have the Chinese Communists been so successful? Because they have established governments more pleasing to the people than is the "Government of the Republic of China." Taxes are limited to a maximum of 37 per cent in Communist areas—as compared to taxes of 80 per cent of crops paid by Honan farmers to the National Government in the fall of 1946. The people in each Communist village choose their local representatives, who in turn decide on civic policies.

Compare this method to the tyrannical and corrupt appointment system followed by the Kuomintang in selecting leaders for various areas; the recent "democratic" elections were farcical in the extreme. Food-growing and trading cooperatives have been encouraged and established in Communist areas. Recently in Nationalist China, on the other hand, in Hangchow, a student was arrested, jailed, and killed by his jailers without a trial—and the officials in charge claimed that the student had been advocating a local farm cooperative, thus de facto was a Communist agent.

Using the American dollar as a more or less standard and common base, currency in the North China Communist areas has not only remained relatively stable but has even increased slightly in value. I have previously mentioned the preposterous devaluation of currency in Nationalist China. The Kweiyang (in Nationalist territory) Li Pao newspaper, a few months ago, was dubbed pro-Communist and banned from further publication by the Kuomintang because of the following statement which appeared in a Li Pao news report: "During the past year, Communist troops in North Kiangsi have carried out the agrarian reform policy. Having won the support of the farmers, they have been instilled with new blood again."

Shortly before coming to the United States in January, I attended a meeting of the previously outlawed Democratic League, where all agreed that no aid—military or economic—could be effective until the Kuomintang thoroughly reformed its attitude and policies toward the lao pai hsing, or common people. Further aid to Chiang Kai-shek only succeeds in perpetuating the tyrannical and Fascistic Kuomintang and in causing continued oppression upon the Chinese peasant and coolie and little man. Further aid to the present Chinese National Government means the prolongation of a ruling structure that is bound eventually to collapse of its own weight. The Democratic League—one of the "liberal elements," incidentally, which General Marshall highly praised when he left China—strongly feels that the United States should cease giving aid to China until the Kuomintang has truly effected reforms necessary to regain the confidence of the common citizen.

The emphasis, in other words, for China's recovery, lies basically in political reform (as both General Marshall and General Wedemeyer have indicated), which in turn will produce a healthy nationalistic spirit tending to negate any Chinese Communist propaganda or influence. Finally, as such reform brings about this chain of events, monetary stabilization can be achieved either by internal efforts, by external aid, or by a combination of both.

Halting Russia

Ten years ago we deceived ourselves. We did not want war and we were afraid to face the realities of that day. We thought that we could bargain with Hitler over the conference table, but found that we had to bargain with him over the skies of Europe. It is the same story today, the difference being that we are now dealing with a Georgian rather than an Austrian.

I abhor war. In 1945 I spent four months of living hell in a prison camp in Dresden, and have seen war from both the outside and inside, so to speak. I have lived in constant fear. I appreciate the agony of war.

I realize, however, that a war of salvation is as righteous as a war of enslavement is damnable. The Soviet Union is pointing every effort to the day when she can claim the United States for her own, when she can bring 140 million more slaves into the fold and then proclaim herself the undisputed master of the world.

We must now choose our path. And may it be one of at once smiting the tyrant, smashing him and keeping our cherished freedom.

Antiquated War Talk

By Malvina Lindsay

Atomic Illusions

EVENTS IN Czechoslovakia, Finland and elsewhere have caused a fresh spurt of war talk. Well-tailored men in smoking cars remark to each other that it looks as if they might be commuting to Washington again on war contracts . . . maybe they'd better start mending their hotel fences.

Matrons who look as if they had "a dozen of everything" speculate at hotel luncheons as to whether they should begin to stock up on "a few staples"—well, maybe not on clothes that would go out of style, but at least on nylons and canned foods. They were suckers the last time because they didn't hoard. Besides, they never dreamed that inflation lasted so long after wars.

Complacent couples relate how they are buying a farm in Ohio or fixing up the old homestead in Iowa so they will have a "safe" place for themselves and children. And in taxicab discussions a pinched little man or a big blustering one comes up occasionally with the solution, "We ought to drop the first bomb."

Such talk not only shocks many citizens and makes scientists want to tear their hair, but is causing alarm among those concerned about the Nation's defense. It reveals that in spite of all the atomic education that has gone on much of the public still cherishes a war-as-usual delusion.

TAKEN together, the atom bomb, the robot bomb, and the airplane bombing that devastated Europe did not drive home to Americans the realization that in another war the Capital would probably have to go into hiding, that nylons wouldn't be valued, and that postwar inflation would be the least of the worries of those who survived.

There are, of course, only a handful of drop-the-bomb firsters. But their talk is loud, and it helps strengthen public illusion that this is 1939. Hence authorities on atomic warfare offer this realistic picture of what a "preventive" war would mean to the United States.

Since Soviet population and industries are widely spread they could not be entirely destroyed by bombs—even if we had the long distance bombers to drop them. American forces would have to enter and hold vast spaces. This country does not have such forces.

After the first bombs were "dropped," retaliation would lead eventually to bombing attacks on American cities (in which 40 per cent of the population lives), even possibly to warfare with bacteriological weapons. Americans might die from plague while Russians were dying from radioactivity.

TOTALITARIAN control of industry and individuals would be necessary here. (No Capital dining and wining on expense accounts deducted from income taxes.)

World opinion would be outraged at such a deed. This country—what was left of it—would stand alone without friends. Worse still, the Nation would be destroyed inwardly by the poison of guilt over an action contrary to its traditions and moral standards. It would be committing suicide as well as murder.

But, ask those indignant over Soviet aggression, should we spinelessly surrender to appeasement?

Abolishing ignorant war talk will not, of course, stop the peril of war, though it may help abate the hysteria that might precipitate it. But if we must have war talk, say authorities on atomic defense, let it be informed and realistic. Let us be planning how we will live underground, how we will decentralize population (which would take from 5 to 10 years), and disperse or bury industry (at a cost of 100 billion dollars). Let us be talking, not of hoarding nylons, but of enlisting in courses to study fire-fighting, carpentry, nursing, first aid, mass feeding.

Or, realistic understanding of the next war could lead to a better course, say advocates of constructive action. The public could demand that legislators and party leaders immediately stop haggling over politics and side issues and unite in taking strategic steps that might prevent the war nobody could win. One of these is to help other free nations back on their feet so they can remain free. Another is to prevent the American economy from being weakened by a depression. Still another is to drag out of congressional committees for public hearings—and public discussion—some of the bills looking toward limited world government to enforce peace.

Tuck's Electoral Plan

The delegates at a State-wide leadership training conference of the college and university division of the YWCA, held March 5 to 7 at Roslyn, Va., feel that the time is pertinent for us to make known our attitude toward the position taken by the Governor of Virginia concerning the ballot to be used in the forthcoming national election.

His proposal would further limit the people's right of direct vote and place that vote in the hands of a few electors. We do not think the present procedure for securing the vote of the people in the national election is the best method; however, we feel that the proposal made by Governor Tuck regarding the 1948 presidential ballot is contrary to the basic principles of a Government of the people, by the people, and for the people.

Furthermore, we believe that this proposal would be instrumental in defeating the measures set forth by the President's Civil Rights Committee, whose recommendations we heartily indorse. We have faith in the ability of the people to make sound, rational decisions, and the opportunity to do so should not be taken from them.

Atlantic Pact

A Communication

THE COMMUNIST seizure of Czechoslovakia and subsequent rapid steps toward a western European union have raised the question whether a wider Atlantic defense pact has not now become essential for the security of the western world.

Such an Atlantic bloc can be urged upon several grounds. Because of Russia's veto on the Security Council, the existing machinery of the United Nations cannot be relied upon to prevent Russian aggression. A western European union would undoubtedly enhance the security of its members, but would not have the power to stop Russian aggression without direct American support.

If the western world remains divided and the attitude of the United States remains uncertain, the Kremlin may make the mistake that Hitler made. Believing western Europe too weak to oppose force with force and the United States unlikely to do so in an election year, it may take action in Greece, Trieste or elsewhere which would bring on a third World War. This danger might be precluded by a collective defense system of the western world wide enough to create a heavy over-balance of power on the side of peace.

LOOKING ahead, two other reasons for such a system can be seen. If Russia continues to reject effective international control of atomic energy and develops atomic bombs, the security of the western nations may depend primarily upon an overwhelming superiority in offensive capacity for atomic warfare. Whether the United States alone could long maintain an adequate superiority is doubtful. But there is no doubt that an Atlantic bloc which possessed most of the world's industry as well as a world-wide dispersion of bases could do so.

In the future, however, Russia will become able to attack the United States directly, first with transoceanic bombers and later perhaps with transoceanic guided missiles. If the western world remains divided, such a situation could lead to virtual isolation of the United States. Relatively small and highly vulnerable European nations, no longer automatically involved in clash between titans, might then turn to neutrality for survival.

These considerations indicate that an Atlantic defense pact may be essential. If so, how might it relate to the United Nations Charter and to recent precedents and proposals?

ARTICLES 51 and 52 of the Charter could form a juridical basis. The first provides for collective defense against armed attack until the Security Council has taken measures to maintain security; if the council is blocked from action by the veto, such collective defense becomes the only means of stopping aggression. The second provides for regional arrangements and agencies within the United Nations.

Such a regional arrangement was created last September by the American republics. They undertook individually to assist the victim of an armed attack. Then an inter-American body would decide as soon as possible by a two thirds majority what collective measures should be taken. This agreement provides, however, that no state shall be required to use armed force without its consent.

In the same month Mr. Hamilton Fish Armstrong made a widely noted proposal which became known as the "Armstrong Plan." He suggested that a group of United Nations members bind themselves collectively to carry out the Charter obligation to resist armed attack. This agreement would operate if the Security Council failed to act and if two thirds of its signatories decided that collective action was called for under the Charter. Unlike the inter-American agreement, it would entail an obligation to use armed force upon a two thirds majority decision.

THE ARMSTRONG Plan appears to offer a good basis for an Atlantic defense pact within the United Nations. But it might prove necessary to limit such a pact to nations which would consider collective action to prevent Russian aggression essential to their own national interests, such as the United States, Britain and some members of the British Commonwealth, France and some western European nations.

It would be desirable, of course, to bring all peace-loving nations into a collective combination for peace. In the long run this might be of first importance for the evolution of a free and peaceful world. But perhaps this could best be brought about through interlocking security-systems instead of through one over-all system.

For example, the Atlantic defense pact signatories, as the nations most ready and able to act against an aggressor, could provide the essential barrier to Russian aggression. This pact would be related to a western European union by the participation in both of several European nations. It would be related to the inter-American system of participation in both of the United States. The more extensive system proposed by Mr. Armstrong could still be formed and similarly related; perhaps its obligations concerning use of armed force might need to be limited like those of the inter-American agreement.

BUT SOMETHING more than a paper agreement of essentially defensive nature might be required. To retain the initiative in the present struggle for the world, some over-all Atlantic security board, endowed with power to call for action by member nations in certain limited and clearly defined fields, would seem necessary.

Such a board might ensure the security of the western world both more effectively and more cheaply through coordination of national policies and pooling of defense. Western Europe, for example, requires extensive land forces and can maintain them far more cheaply than can the United States. Our country requires primarily air and naval forces and can produce all kinds of armaments with high efficiency.

Once the objectives were accepted as the security of the western world instead of the individual security of many separate nations, measures of cooperation and coordination could contribute powerfully toward it. They could include economic steps designed to augment the well being, strength and stability of the entire bloc and thereby increase its attraction upon outside nations, including the Russian satellites. They could include coordination, standardization and specialization of defense forces. Such measures would promote peace and freedom, not only for the Atlantic bloc but also for the entire world.

The Gallup Poll

69% of Consumers Favor Repeal of Margarine Taxes

By George Gallup
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J., March 12.—Removal of the special Federal taxes and license fees on margarine is favored by a large majority of American consumers.

A number of bills designed to remove some or all of these levies and licenses has been introduced in the Senate and House of Representatives. This past week the House Agriculture Committee has been holding hearings on the House proposals.

An up-to-the-minute institute survey of adults throughout the country shows that farmers are about evenly divided in their opinion on margarine taxes. All other groups on the other hand, including manual workers, are overwhelmingly in favor of repealing the Federal levies.

The national cross-section was asked:

There are now certain taxes and fees which dealers who handle margarine have to pay which they do not have to pay on butter. A bill has been introduced in Congress to do away with these taxes and fees on margarine. Do you favor or oppose this bill?

The national results:

	Remove Taxes	Keep Taxes	No Opin.
National	69%	15%	16%

Prof. and bus.	78	9	13
White collar	72	13	15
Farmers	39	37	24

West	75	13	7

People using only margarine	84	7	9
People using both	71	13	16

Respondents favoring repeal gave as their reasons: margarine prices would be lower; no food should be taxed; all discriminatory taxes should be repealed. Those opposing said: taxes needed to protect dairy industry; for protection from inferior foods; needed to prevent eating places from substituting margarine for butter.

The House Committee has before it 18 bills on this controversial issue. Some of the laws on the statute books date back to 1899, the current licenses ranging from $600 a year on margarine manufacturers to $48 on retailers of colored margarine. There is also a Federal 10-cents-a-pound retail tax on colored margarine and a quarter of a cent tax on a pound of the uncolored variety.

Off The Record — By Ed Reed

Red Cross Gets Boycott Threat Of Butter Men

The row over the special taxes that buttermakers had levied on margarine years ago—which some estimates say increase the price of margarine about one half—engulfed the Red Cross yesterday.

Livingston L. Blair, chairman of the Red Cross Food Conservation Committee—a group set up to work with President Truman's Citizens Food Committee last fall—revealed a head-on clash with butter producers.

In connection with Mr. Truman's food conservation program, the Red Cross put out a pamphlet. This listed about 30 food products that Red Cross suggested could be "exchanged" for "scarce and expensive" products.

Among these it listed margarine as a substitute for butter.

Boycott Threat Alleged

Last January 26, Blair revealed, he got a letter from a big butter man at Chicago. The writer was D. H. Henry, manager of Chicago's Prairie Farms Creamery. Henry indicated that unless the Red Cross withdrew its pamphlet, the dairy interests would boycott the Red Cross.

Henry, who also is a director of the American Dairy Association late rsent a telegraphed ultimatum to the Red Cross February 12.

The dairy association, Henry declared, "wish to know what action has been taken to withdraw" the pamphlet.

The warnings had threatened, Blair said, that Henry would encourage 14,000 milk producers and 60,000 dairy farmers to "refuse to support programs of the Red Cross."

Henry, who is in Washington helping direct the butter makers' battle to retain their legislative edge over margarine, yesterday declared that he had recommended to ten member plants of his cooperative that they not contribute to the Red Cross. He didn't threaten, he said—he just recommended.

Reply By Blair

In reply to Henry's warning, Blair wrote:

"Only through misrepresentation of the facts could substantial support be gained for this fantastic attempt to involve the Red Cross in this controversy."

Howard Bonham, public relations officer for the Red Cross, declared: "The American Red Cross has no basis for withdrawing the pamphlets."

Blair told Henry his boycott was not against an individual—that he was threatening to boycott an organization that has a membership of about "one-fourth of the adult population of the United States."

"You have taken upon yourself," Blair wrote Henry, "the responsibility of doing injury to the American Red Cross as if it were an individual."

Butter Interests Testify

Meanwhile the House Agriculture Committee listened to another day of testimony by butter interests in favor of retaining the special licenses required of margarine manufacturers, wholesalers, and retailers; and of the special tax imposed—some as high as 10 cents a pound—on margarine.

A Des Moines housewife, Mrs. Stella E. Barker, proved to the committee that it was impossible to tell butter from margarine. She brought samples of each—and defied the committee members to tell which was which.

So, she declared, the tax is necessary to protect the customer. If the taxes were removed, and if margarine could be left in its natural yellow color, unscrupulous housewives might deceive their families with margarine in place of butter. Public eating houses might do the same, she warned.

"How very easy it would be for someone who wanted to be fraudulent to put margarine in your butter," Mrs. Barker remarked.

Mexico Oil Hunt Blocked, Congress Told

By The Associated Press

J. Edward Jones of New York, complained to Congress yesterday that big oil companies are trying through Government officials to block his hunt for new oil fields in Mexico.

Jones, an independent oil operator, told his story to the Senate Small Business Committee.

He said the State Department has aided oil companies' efforts to get cancellation of a contract he has with the Mexican government. He said this contract calls for drilling 100 test wells.

Influence Charged

Jones said the United States ambassador to Mexico was recently "exposed" to Robert Haslam, vice president of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, at the State Department.

"The intent was to shatter confidence in me and to bring about cancelling of the contract," he said.

Jones said the State Department has also blocked Navy purchase of Mexican oil although the Navy is short of fuel.

The State Department wanted the Navy to buy no Mexican oil, he said, "until the Mexicans had made peace with the expropriated oil companies."

Jones also said Secretary of Defense Forrestal should be called upon to explain his reasons for wanting to ship steel to Arabia for development of oil reserves there

Discrepancy Cited

He has been unable to go ahead with his plans in Mexico because he has been unable to buy steel casing, Jones said, but steel is being shipped to Arabia for the same purpose.

"That man (Forrestal) should reveal to you every possible connection either direct or indirect that he may have had with the sponsors of the (Arabian) project and which now might be considered as even remotely affecting his present viewpoint," Jones said.

The Senate committee got from Paul E. Hadlick of Minneapolis, its special counsel, a report saying there is no need for a continuing oil shortage.

He said the shortage results from a "practically airtight" system of controls over oil production "bolstered by many State laws, two Federal statutes and generous appropriations for the Interior Department."

"Such activity, were it done by private industry alone, would be the most gigantic conspiracy of modern history," Hadlick said. . . .

"What is needed is less control and a return to competition. This talk of a shortage of oil for the next two or three years is perfectly silly."

Washington Calling

Democracy in Virginia

VIRGINIA is one of the most beautiful States in the Union. Next month the dogwood will come out, and the Virginia bluebells and garden week will draw tourists from all over to view the stately homes and generous gardens of the past.

Childs

Walking between the rows of fragrant boxwood, driving through the green and rolling country, the visitor will have a feeling that he is in a museum. And he will be right.

The past is well preserved in Virginia. That goes for the political as well as the architectural past. The homes of the great men who founded this Republic have been tenderly restored and protected. But the creative force of the ideas they gave to the world, the stir and the spark of their creative imagination, is also kept behind glass—carefully locked and only a little dry with age.

Democracy in Virginia is in the custody of a few men who are prepared to tell the people what they can and cannot do. The most remarkable example in recent times was the proposal put up to the Legislature by Gov. William M. Tuck.

Under that proposal, the voters of Virginia would not vote for a man for President. When they put their X in the Democratic column, as the majority of voting Virginians traditionally do, they would be handing the right of choice to the State Democratic organization. The party organization, in a State convention, would select the man for whom the State's 11 electoral votes would be cast.

No one in that State nominating convention would have any doubt about the man who would be chosen. It would be Senator Harry F. Byrd, who is the boss of Virginia's Democratic machine.

THE COUNTRY has heard a lot about "Boss" Hague of Jersey City, "Boss" Kelly of Chicago, and the late "Boss" Pendergast of Kansas City. But the masters of city political machines could learn a lot in Virginia.

The controls are not exercised in the same way, of course. It is quieter and much more polite. Nevertheless, the court house rings that make up the Byrd machine form just as tight an organization as was ever put together in the crowded river wards on the other side of the railroad tracks in any American city you care to name, not excluding Kansas City.

Governor Tuck's proposal was not well received. Its crudity stirred wide indignation. Many newspapers in Virginia were critical. Senator Byrd let it be known that he had not seen the Tuck proposal before it was put to the Legislature.

A compromise has been advanced which is likely to be adopted. Under the compromise, the label of the "Democratic Party" will be reserved for the State organization. But the Truman Democrats can also get on the ballot. They will, however, have to use another tag, such as "National Democrats."

THIS MEANS that Virginia voters will have a choice between Senator Byrd and President Truman. They will undoubtedly also have a chance to vote for Henry Wallace. As in other years, the name of the Republican candidate will also be on the ballot.

This is an extraordinary advance in democracy. As a result, Virginia is likely to go Republican in November. That is the guess of some observers who, it should be said, are not admirers of the Byrd machine. Their reasoning sounds plausible. Many Virginia Democrats are resentful of the tactics of the machine. Therefore they will not vote for Senator Byrd. But because of the antagonism stirred by the President's civil rights program, they will vote for a Republican rather than for Mr. Truman, particularly if the Republicans nominate a strong candidate such as Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan.

Herbert Hoover carried Virginia in 1928 by 24,463 votes. Four years ago, when sentiment against Roosevelt and a fourth term was running strong, the Republicans got 145,000 votes to 242,000 for the Democrats. While the Wallace vote in Virginia is likely to be small, concentrated in the area around Washington where New Deal contamination is high, it could count in a close election.

This kind of political calculation does not have the sound of the generous past. The spirit of that great Virginian, Thomas Jefferson, must at times be a little troubled. It might be nice to keep Virginia as a museum, beautiful, intact, untouchable. But that is hardly possible with the winds of change that are blowing across the world today. As Jefferson knew so well, history never stands still.

Postlude

Piano Artistry, Taste Shown By Luboshutz and Nemenoff

From Yesterday's Late Editions

Pierre Luboshutz and Genia Nemenoff, poet artists of two pianos, displayed perfection in ensemble, and musical taste of the highest order last night in Constitution Hall.

Their program of Vivaldi-Bach, Beethoven, Rachmaninoff, Milhaud and a miscellany of shorter works, never descended from the acme of precise, yet flowing beauty. Unforced tone from both artists, feathery lightness, and a brilliant sense of the right time for climax make their work an unending joy.

Vivaldi's A Minor concerto, arranged by Bach, and for two pianos by Isidor Philipp, opened the evening with baroque elegance. These musicians have played Bach concertos at the Barkshire Festivals for several seasons, their conception of style fits the phrases like a pair of gloves.

Beethoven's variations on Mozart's Magic Flute duet, "Bei Mannern," is not our favorite Beethoven or Mozart, but it is worth occasional hearing, notably when performed as it was last night. Such writing as Sergei Rachmaninoff put into his second suite is another matter. Here every bit of romantic rubato and sweeping line is designed for the two instruments. The playing could not have been more persuasive.

Milhaud's "Scaramouche" with its contrasting moods, is an inspiration for both players and listeners. We would have preferred somewhat more bite in the swirling Brazileira, but otherwise found nothing but the sensuous delight of listening to cross-rhythms and fascinating melodies.

One of the smallest audiences of the year gave some of the season's finest applause to the most thoroughly satisfying pair of pianists now before the public. Four encores matched the vein of the entire affair. We trust Washington will show an appreciation of fine art by turning out for its leading exponents rather than fo revents which mirror only the mediocre standards of so much of our entertainment today.

'PKs' Follow Their Fathers In Ministerial Profession

By Robert Tate Allan
Post Reporter

A number of Washington area PKs (church parlance for preachers' kids) are following in their fathers' footsteps. Also, some clergymen's daughters are serving as missionaries and in other church capacities.

Some ministers' sons have their own pulpits; others are theological students, and some plan to leave their present occupations to begin studying for the ministry.

Dr. Harry L. Bell, pastor of Columbia Heights Christian (Disciples of Christ) Church, 1435 Park rd. nw., boasts three of his four sons following his profession.

The Rev. Wayne H. Bell, 28, is pastor of the First Christian Church, Shelbyville, Ky. The Rev. Winston C. Bell, 27, is associate minister of the Third Christian Church, Indianapolis, Ind. R. Keith Bell is a student at Transylvania College, Lexington, Ky., and preaches in his spare time at Robinson, Ky.

Another theological student at Transylvania College is J. Lloyd Black, jr., son of the Rev. J. Lloyd Black, sr., minister of the Ninth Street Christian Church, 9th and D sts. ne. Dr. Black recalls that his great-grandfather, the Rev. Landon Duncan, was once a pastor at Wolf Creek, Giles County, Va.

The Rev. Angus Dun, jr., son of Bishop Angus Dun, of the Washington Episcopal Diocese, is rector of Christ Episcopal Church, Hamilton, Mass.

When 20-year-old Stanley White leaves the Navy service July 4, and later enrolls at Baylor University, Waco, Tex., he will be the third generation of ministers in his family. His father is Dr. K. Owen White, pastor of Metropolitan Baptist Church, 6th and A sts. ne. Dr. White's father, Dr. Malcolm White, and his brother, the Rev. DeWitt White, are clergymen.

Dr. Andrew Reid Bird of the Presbyterian Church of the Pilgrims, 22d and P sts. nw., has two children engaged in religious work. His son, the Rev. Andrew Reid Bird, jr., is affiliated with the First Presbyterian Church of Huntington, W. Va. His son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. John F. Preston, jr., were medical missionaries at Kwanju, Korea, until war broke out in the Far East. The couple now lives in St. Louis, Mo.

Dr. Frederick E. Reissig, executive secretary of the Washington Federation of Churches, has a son, the Rev. Frederick H. Reissig, pastor of a Germantown, N. Y., Lutheran Church. The Rev. Henry W. Snyder, jr., pastor of Holy Trinity Lutheran Church in Bethlehem, Pa., is the son of Dr. Henry W. Snyder, sr., of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Connecticut ave. and Everett st. nw. Dr. Martin Clough, pastor of Grace Baptist Church, 9th st. and South Carolina ave. se., has a son, Herbert P., enrolled at Eastern Baptist Seminary, Philadelphia, Pa.

Religious Career

Miss Dorothy J. Clark, student at Bucknell University, Lewisburg, Pa., and daughter of the Rev. Edward O. Clark, pastor of Chevy Chase Baptist Church, is preparing for a full-time religious career. Another daughter of Mr. Clark is Mrs. R. R. Ismay, minister of music in her husband's Elim Methodist Church in Chicago.

A WARNING TO OUR PRECIOUS PEOPLE

By Mrs. M. E. Michaux

Which is found in Deuteronomy 28th Chapter

For the benefit of all people, especially for those who may not believe there is a God, and do not believe in the Bible as being the Word of God on account of false religions; under the Mosaic Law, the sacrifices which they offered up year by year did not make the comers thereunto perfect, which was the blood of bullocks, pigeons and doves and so on. That being a fact, God provided a better way. He took His Word and wrapped it in human flesh and sent it down, being born through the Virgin Mary. And we are told in the Word of God that at 12 years old, He (Jesus) began about His Father's business and stayed in His Father's Will and completed the task that His Father gave Him to do. Then, He went on the Cross and sacrificed His Heart's Blood; and His blood atoned to take our sins away.

I know for my own personal self that He can accomplish that He came to accomplish: for I confessed my sins to Him and forsook them, and ever since that, there has been a radical change in my life because I have something within that holdeth the rein, and that something is the Spirit of the Living God which He promised to all believers that will walk in the Light. If we walk in the Light, as He is in the Light, we have fellowship one with another, and the Blood of Jesus Christ, His Son, cleanseth us from all sin, as sayeth I John, 1st chapter, 7th verse.

DEUTERONOMY 28th CHAPTER

which reads as follows:

BLESSINGS FOR OBEDIENCE . . .

CURSINGS FOR DISOBEDIENCE.

And it shall come to pass, if thou shalt hearken diligently unto the voice of the Lord thy God, to observe and to do all His commandments which I command thee this day, that the Lord thy God will set thee on high above all nations of the earth. And all these blessings shall come on thee, and overtake thee, if thou shalt hearken unto the voice of the Lord thy God.

Blessed shalt thou be in the city, and blessed shalt thou be in the field.

Blessed shall be the fruit of thy body, and the fruit of thy ground, and the fruit of thy cattle, the increase of thy kine, and the flocks of thy sheep.

Blessed shall be thy basket and thy store.

Blessed shalt thou be when thou comest in, and blessed shalt thou be when thou goest out.

The Lord shall cause thine enemies that rise up against thee to be smitten before thy face: they shall come out against the one way, and flee before thee seven ways.

The Lord shall command the blessing upon thee in thy storehouses, and in all that thou settest thine hand unto; and He shall bless thee in the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee.

The Lord shall establish thee an holy people unto himself, as He hath sworn unto thee, if thou shalt keep the commandments of the Lord thy God, and walk in His ways.

And all people of the earth shall see that thou art called by the name of the Lord; and they shall be afraid of thee.

And the Lord shall make thee plenteous in goods, in the fruit of thy body, and in the fruit of thy cattle, and in the fruit of thy ground, in the land which the Lord sware unto thy fathers to give thee.

The Lord shall open unto thee His good treasure, the heaven to give the rain unto thy land in His season, and to bless all the work of thine hand: and thou shalt lend unto many nations, and thou shalt not borrow.

And the Lord shall make thee the head, and not the tail; and thou shalt be above only, and thou shalt not be beneath; if thou hearken unto the commandments of the Lord thy God, which I command thee this day, to observe and to do them:

And thou shalt not go aside from any of the words which I command thee this day, to the right hand, or to the left, to go after other gods to serve them.

But it shall come to pass, if thou wilt not hearken unto the voice of the Lord thy God, to observe to do all His commandments and His statutes which I command thee this day; that all these curses shall come upon thee, and overtake thee:

Cursed shalt thou be in the city, and cursed shalt thou be in the field.

Cursed shall be thy basket and thy store.

Cursed shall be the fruit of thy body, and the fruit of thy land, the increase of thy kine, and the flocks of thy sheep.

Cursed shalt thou be when thou comest in, and cursed shalt thou be when thou goest out.

The Lord shall send upon thee cursing, vexation, and rebuke, in all that thou settest thine hand unto for to do, until thou be destroyed, and until thou perish quickly; because of the wickedness of thy doings, whereby thou hast forsaken Me.

The Lord shall make the pestilence cleave unto thee, until He have consumed thee from off the land, whither thou goest to possess it.

The Lord shall smite thee with a consumption, and with a fever, and with an inflamation, and with an extreme burning, and with the sword, and with blasting, and with mildew; and they shall pursue thee until thou perish.

And thy heaven that is over thy head shall be brass, and the earth that is under thee shall be iron.

The Lord shall make the rain of thy land powder and dust: from heaven shall it come down upon thee, until thou be destroyed.

The Lord shall cause thee to be smitten before thine enemies: thou shalt go out one way against them, and flee seven ways before them: and shalt be removed into all the kingdoms of the earth.

And thy carcase shall be meat unto all fowls of the air, and unto the beasts of the earth, and no man shall fray them away.

The Lord will smite thee with the botch of Egypt, and with the emerods, and with the scab, and with the itch, whereof thou canst not be healed.

The Lord will smite thee with madness, and blindness, and astonishment of heart:

And thou shalt grope at noonday, as the blind gropeth in darkness, and thou shalt not prosper in thy ways: and thou shalt be only oppressed and spoiled evermore, and no man shall save thee.

Thou shalt betroth a wife, and another man shall lie with her: thou shalt build an house, and thou shalt not dwell therein: thou shalt plant a vineyard, and shalt not gather the grapes thereof.

Thine ox shall be slain before thine eyes, and thou shalt not eat thereof: thine ass shall be violently taken away from before thy face, and shall not be restored to thee: thy sheep shall be given unto thine enemies, and thou shalt have none to rescue them.

Thy sons and thy daughters shall be given unto another people, and thine eyes shall look, and fail with longing for them all the day long: and there shall be no might in thine hand.

The fruit of thy land, and all thy labours, shall a nation which thou knowest not eat up; and thou shalt be only oppressed and crushed always:

So that thou shalt be mad for the sight of thine eyes which thou shalt see.

The Lord shall smite thee in the knees, and in the legs, with a sore botch that cannot be healed, from the sole of thy foot unto the top of thy head.

The Lord shall bring thee, and thy king which thou shalt set over thee, unto a nation which neither thou or thy fathers have known; and there shalt thou serve other gods, wood and stone.

And thou shalt become an astonishment, a proverb, and a byword, among all nations whither the Lord shall lead thee.

Thou shalt carry much seed out into the field, and shalt gather but little in; for the locust shall consume it.

Thou shalt plant vineyards, and dress them, but shalt neither drink of the wine, nor gather the grapes: for the worms shall eat them.

Thou shalt have olive trees throughout all thy coasts, but thou shalt not anoint thyself with the oil; for thine olive shall cast his fruit.

Thou shalt beget sons and daughters, but thou shalt not enjoy them; for they shall go into captivity.

All thy trees and fruit of thy land shall the locust consume.

The stranger that is within thee shall get up above thee very high; and thou shalt come down very low

He shall lend to thee, and thou shalt not lend to him: he shall be the head and thou shall be the tail.

Moreover all these curses shall come upon thee, and shall pursue thee, and overtake thee, till thou be destroyed; because thou hearkenedst not unto the voice of the Lord thy God, to keep His commandments and His statutes which he commanded thee:

And they shall be upon thee for a sign and for a wonder, and upon thy seed for ever.

Because thou servedst not the Lord thy God with joyfulness, and with gladness of heart, for the abundance of all things;

Therefore shalt thou serve thine enemies which the Lord shall send against thee, in hunger, and in thirst, and in nakedness, and in want of all things: and he shall put a yoke of iron upon thy neck, until He have destroyed thee.

The Lord shall bring a nation against thee from far, from the end of the earth, as swift as the eagle flieth; a nation whose tongue thou shalt not understand;

A nation of fierce countenance, which shall not regard the person of the old, nor shew favour to the young:

And he shall eat the fruit of thy cattle, and the fruit of thy land, until thou be destroyed: which also shall not leave thee either corn, wine, or oil, or the increase of thy kine, or flocks of thy sheep, until he have destroyed thee.

And he shall besiege thee in all thy gates, until thy high and fenced walls come down, wherein thou trustedst, throughout all thy land: and he shall besiege thee in all thy gates throughout all thy land, which the Lord thy God hath given thee.

And thou shalt eat the fruit of thine own body, the flesh of thy sons and of the daughters, which the Lord thy God hath given thee, in the siege, and in the straitness, wherewith thine enemies shall distress thee:

So that the man that is tender among you, and very delicate, his eye shall be evil toward his brother, and toward the wife of his bosom, and toward the remnant of his children which he shall leave:

So that he will not give to any of them of the flesh of his children whom he shall eat: because he hath nothing left him in the siege, and in the straitness, wherewith thine enemies shall distress thee in all thy gates.

The tender and delicate woman among you, which would not adventure to set the sole of her foot upon the ground for delicateness and tenderness, her eye shall be evil toward the husband of her bosom, and toward her son, and toward her daughter,

And toward her young one that cometh out from between her feet, and toward her children which she shall bear: for she shall eat them for want of all things secretly in the siege and straitness, wherewith thine enemy shall distress thee in thy gates.

If thou wilt not observe to do all the words of this law that are written in this book, that thou mayest fear this glorious and fearful name, THE LORD THY GOD;

Then the Lord will make thy plagues wonderful, and the plagues of thy seed, even great plagues, and of long continuance, and sore sickness, and of long continuance.

Moreover he will bring upon thee all the diseases of Egypt, which thou wast afraid of; and they shall cleave unto thee.

Also every sickness, and every plague, which is not written in the book of this law, them will the Lord bring upon thee, until thou be destroyed.

And ye shall be left few in number, whereas ye were as the stars of heaven for multitude; because thou wouldest not obey the voice of the Lord thy God.

And it shall come to pass, that as the Lord rejoiced over you to do you good, and to multiply you; so the Lord will rejoice over you to destroy you, and to bring you to nought; and ye shall be plucked from off the land whither thou goest to possess it.

And the Lord shall scatter thee among all people, from the one end of the earth even unto the other; and there thou shalt serve other gods, which neither thou nor thy fathers have known, even wood and stone.

And among these nations shalt thou find no ease, neither shall the sole of thy foot have rest: but the Lord shall give thee there a trembling heart, and failing of eyes, and sorrow of mind:

And thy life shall hang in doubt before thee; and thou shalt fear day and night, and shalt have none assurance of thy life:

In the morning thou shalt say, Would God it were even! and at even thou shalt say, Would God it were morning! for the fear of thine heart wherewith thou shalt fear, and for the sight of thine eyes which thou shalt see.

And the Lord shall bring thee into Egypt again with ships, by the way whereof I spake unto thee.

Thou shalt see it no more again: and there ye shall be sold unto your enemies for bondmen and bondwomen, and no man shall buy you.

Retail Sales Lag Despite Early Easter

By S. Oliver Goodman

The early Easter, which should be sending shoppers out in flocks, isn't.

Washington department store sales were up 1 per cent in the week ended March 6, compared with a year ago, the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond reported. In view of higher prices this year than last and the fact that Easter falls on March 28 (a week earlier than in 1947), stores will have to crowd into two weeks the business they did in three last year. That is, if they want to maintain the 1947 sales pace.

For the four weeks ended March 6, Washington store sales were reported 8 per cent higher than in the same period last year.

The publication Business Week, in current issue, commented: "Figures on retail sales in the next two weeks will tell a critical story . . . Unless pretty sharp percentage gains are posted, things are sour. Post-Easter markdowns would follow. Sales would inhibit restocking of shelves, particularly at going prices."

Dun & Bradstreet, in its weekly survey, pointed out that shoppers continued to resist high-priced goods. The research firm said consumers responded favorably to the increased number of promotional sales and advertisement of spring merchandise. Retailers were reported continuing to avoid long-term commitments.

REVENUES EXPAND: Seaboard Air Line Railroad Co. hauled a record tonnage of freight in 1947, the annual report disclosed. Net income for 1947 totaled $2,918,617. The report stated this was not comparable with 1947 because of adjustments growing out of the road's reorganization, which was completed August 1, 1946. Total operating revenues in 1947 increased to $119,140,955 from $112,403,393 in 1946. Operating expenses expanded to $96,767,098 from $92,707,509.

WHO'S WHO TODAY: William Allan Mather has been elected president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, succeeding William M. Neal, who resigned at suggestion of his physicians . . . Henry L. Buscarin, formerly in real estate business for himself, has joined the Washington realty firm of Fred A. Smith . . . Gordon B. Welch has been appointed to head Mergenthaler Linotype Co.'s new department of research and development . . . Dr. John A. Hutcheson, who during war helped direct the radar research program, has been named director of Westinghouse Electric Corp.'s research laboratories . . . Capt. David R. Hull, retired from the Navy, and one-time assistant director of the Naval Research Laboratory in Washington, has been appointed assistant technical director of International Telephone & Telegraph Corp.

ODD LOTS: General Motors Corp. reports average number of employes last year was 375,689 and stockholders numbered more than 436,000 . . . Western Union Telegraph Corp. sold its 24-story home office building in New York City for $12,500,000 . . . The FCC will put all FM broadcast stations on three-year licenses, instead of requiring annual renewals . . . Kaiser-Frazer Corp. has filed with National Association of Securities Dealers a complaint against the Cleveland investment banking firm of Otis & Co.

LOANS: For the first time since 1932, total loans on life insurance policies increased in 1947. The Institute of Life Insurance reported that such outstanding loans at the start of 1947 aggregated $1,891,000,000. At the end of the year this had increased to $1,917,000,000. Volume of new loans made during the year was even more impressive than the net increase. New loans last year amounted to 330 million dollars. In 1946 they were 250 million and in 1945 they were 175 million.

CORRECTION: Names of six directors inadvertently were omitted in a story yesterday about the Chevy Chase Building and Loan Association. These men, all of whom are officers, should also have been listed as directors: Roger W. Eisinger, president; Fred E. Shoemaker, vice president; J. Horace Smithey, executive vice president and secretary; William L. Orem, jr., treasurer and assistant secretary; G. Wayne Bishop, assistant secretary, and George B. Frazer, attorney.

Non-Italian Pope Seen as Possibility

Rome, March 12 (NYHT).—Vatican circles believe there is "an even chance" the next Pope will be either a noncardinal or a non-Italian, it was learned today as Pius XII began his tenth year as head of the Roman Catholic Church.

Stritch

The change is expected as a result of the consistory of two years ago in which Pius XII appointed 28 non-Italians and only two Italians to the College of Cardinals. Now only 23 Italians remain among the 60 members and almost all are considered too old for the Papacy.

Given the choice between a noncardinal and a non-Italian, the electing cardinals are expected to choose an Italian noncardinal.

The choice of a noncardinal would break a 570-year tradition. To select a non-Italian would break with a 426-year custom. The last non-Italian was Pope Adrian VI of the Netherlands.

Samuel Cardinal Stritch of Chicago and Edward Cardinal Mooney of Detroit are considered outstanding non-Italian possibilities as successors to Pius XII.

Others mentioned are Francis Spellman of New York, Bernard Griffin of Westminster, England, and James McGuigan, Archbishop of Toronto, Canada.

Truman Holds Religion Main Defense Line

President Truman said yesterday that "we must always make spiritual values our main line of defense."

At the same time he expressed satisfaction that "our National Capital again will afford a good example to the rest of the country through widespread observation of Good Friday." A committee of Washington religious leaders is urging a special observance from 12 to 3 p. m. on that day.

In a letter to the Rev. Dr. Seth R. Brooks, chairman of the group, the Chief Executive pointed out that "today freedom of religion, as well as the freedom and security of nations, is seriously threatened by antireligious forces.

"It is, therefore, necessary that all loyal American citizens join together to stem the tide of these evil forces by girding ourselves with the Sword of Faith and the Armor of Truth."

The President said that in "once happy lands" thousands of Christians will be "deprived of outward and visible participation in the commemoration of Good Friday . . . because of the suppression of religious freedom."

Thus, he said, "we in the United States who still enjoy full religious liberty should commemorate this day in a solemn and sacred manner."

9th Anniversary Of Coronation Of Pope Noted

Catholic University celebrated the ninth anniversary of the coronation of Pope Pius XII at solemn high mass at 10:30 a. m. yesterday at the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception.

The Most Rev. Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, Apostolic Delegate to the United States, presided at the mass attended by more than 1500 persons.

The Most Rev. Henry T. Klonowski, Auxiliary Bishop of Scranton, Pa., who preached the sermon, said that the word "Pope" is a derivation of the Italian word "Papa," meaning "nourisher."

Those in attendance included the Most Rev. Patrick A. O'Boyle, Archbishop of Washington, the Right Rev. Patrick J. McCormick, rector of the university, the Right Rev. John J. Reilly, director of the shrine, and the Most Rev. John M. McNamara, Vicar General of Washington.

Every Weekday Noon

TIME Is Running Out...

THIS is a fateful week for Palestine—and for the peace of the world. By March 15th we should know whether the United Nations shall henceforth be regarded merely as an international debating society, whose decisions and considered judgments may be lightly shunted aside, or whether it is to be an effective instrument for the settlement of disputes—and the hope of mankind. By March 15th the Great Powers are scheduled to report to the Security Council on the results of their consultation regarding Palestine and to make recommendations "regarding the guidance and instructions which the Council might usefully give to the Palestine Commission with a view of implementing the (partition) resolution of the General Assembly." It is our firm conviction that upon those recommendations, and upon the subsequent action to be taken by the Security Council, rests the future of international organization to preserve and maintain peace.

The issue is clear. On November 29, 1947—after many months of earnest investigation, deliberation and debate, and despite repeated Arab threats of war—the General Assembly of the United Nations voted to partition Palestine into separate Arab and Jewish states with an economic union, and with an international regime for Jerusalem. Since that time, Arab states, encouraged by the Mandatory Government's failure to maintain law and order in Palestine, have committed acts of armed aggression against the Jewish community in the hope of intimidating the United Nations into reversing its judgment. Now the United Nations must choose one of two paths: it can carry out its own decision vigorously and forthrightly by using the enforcement machinery provided by the United Nations Charter—and thereby preserve its own prestige and effectiveness for the future; or it can permit the aggressive acts of a few Arab rulers to upset the results of combined world statesmanship—and thereby commit suicide.

These are the two paths and there is no other. All talk of renewing attempts to "reconcile" the Arabs and the Jews, after innumerable and fruitless efforts at reconciliation over a period of thirty years, is wholly unrealistic. The chief spokesman of our own Government underscored this fact at the General Assembly of the United Nations last November.

What do those who are again talking about "reconciliation" really mean? Certainly not an understanding between Jews and Arabs based upon historic rights and international guarantees. The Arabs have time and again refused even to discuss such a settlement. If the Arab spokesmen have convinced us of anything, it is that they are absolutely intransigent with regard to any Palestine solution which in some way meets Jewish needs and rights. Obviously, those who now speak of "reconciliation" mean something quite different. What they have in mind is the whittling down of the United Nations partition decision—to the further detriment of the Jews. This unworthy objective is being advertised as "an attempt at compromise."

In this connection it should be pointed out that the Jews do not base their claim to Palestine upon the UN's partition decision, but upon a long series of international commitments originating with the Balfour Declaration and the Palestine Mandate, and upon thousands of years of history. The decision of November 29, 1947 fell far short of meeting what the Jews regard as their historic rights. They acceded to the UN's compromise solution, which involved great sacrifices on the part of the Jewish people, but which they were prepared to accept as a way out of a dangerous international impasse.

To represent the UN's decision as "the Jewish solution," on the theory that the Jews should be expected to consent to a further curtailment of their rights, is not only unfair to a long-suffering people, but completely destructive of confidence in the United Nations.

It is with a sense of deep disappointment that we have observed the role that our own Government has played with respect to Palestine during the past weeks. We had hoped for the same clear-cut and energetic presentation of the traditional U. S. policy as was put forward in the final crucial meetings of the General Assembly. Instead, we have found indecision where decisiveness was called for, evasiveness where forthrightness was demanded, acquiescence in procedures which can only produce delay where speed was essential. Surely it cannot be the intention of our Government to destroy, by a series of diplomatic maneuvers, the very UN decision of which it was the chief architect.

We now look to our Government once again to assume leadership on this question and to ensure a just outcome. We respectfully urge that the following action be taken immediately:

1. That the United States Representative in the discussions of the permanent members of the Security Council take an unequivocal stand for the earliest implementation of the United Nations decision of November 29, 1947, and favor the dispatching of an international force to Palestine to help maintain the peace and to enable the UN Commission to carry on the work of implementation which was assigned to it;

2. That our Government urge the immediate organization and equipment of the Jewish militia, which is provided for in the United Nations decision; and

3. That our Government immediately revise its present embargo on arms, so that the defenders of the Jewish community—and of the United Nations decision—may be enabled to resist acts of aggression threatening their lives and their homes.

Time is running out.

Macks Have Baseball's Most Fantastic Pitching Staff

With Shirley Povich

3 Shot Up in War, Another has Weak Heart; 3 Have No-Hitters

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 12.—If Connie Mack's pitching staff is not the best in the league, and it may be that indeed, at least it's the most fantastic collection of young men ever assembled on one club. One of 'em has had 23 operations on a war-torn leg; another had a Jap bullet clean through his jaw; a third was twice-wounded in Sicily; three others have no-hit games in the majors to their credit, and Phil Marchildon just missed a no-hitter with two out in the ninth last season.

POVICH

And his best relief pitcher, Russ Christopher, is playing baseball with a weak heart, against doctors' orders.

Lew Brissie, the rookie left-hander from Savannah who won 23 and lost 5 last year, is probably the most fabulous character on Connie Mack's roster. That he is alive is somewhat incredible. He was hit by the same German shell in Italy that killed 11 of his buddies, and he was closest when it struck. He was somewhat more dead than alive when he was salvaged by rescuers.

AN AMPUTATION BOARD of doctors in an American hospital told Brissie they would have to take his left leg, but he remonstrated and said, "I'll take my chances with it, thanks." After the 23 operations, he came to the A's camp last year wearing a home-made shinguard to protect the leg from line drives. The A's left him off at Savannah, admiring his courage but with no high regard for his pitching ability, but he was the hottest article in the minor leagues at the end of the season.

Bill Connelly, a right hander, is up from Savannah along with Brissie. He can show a Purple Heart, too; and he says it's his own fault. He got tired lying in the hot volcanic ash on Iwo Jima and a bit curious, too. So he raised his head and took a Jap bullet through the jaw. It must have been a dumdum because it went in slick and came out messy on the other side of his face. Army doctors did a whale of a job on him, though. His only souvenir is a rather becoming pair of dimples. He won 10 and lost 7 at Savannah.

Bob Savage leads the A's pitchers in war wounds, however. He got it twice with an infantry regiment in Sicily. A year ago they thought young Savage was a coming Feller, but he won only 8 and lost 10 last year. But he's wicked nevertheless.

Alex Keltner is the only other southpaw on the club except young Brissie. He qualified for the A's pitching staff, apparently, by getting sunk on the USS Callahan, the last American ship sent down in the war. The Callahan and Keltner got it 48 minutes before they were due to sail Stateside from Okinawa.

KELTNER WON 12 AND LOST 11 at Birmingham last season. Mack drafted him, glad to get a southpaw. He operated all last season without any left handers, but he said then he be danged if he'd buy any old southpaw just to have a left-handed pitcher on his club. He'd get along without one, if he couldn't get a good one. Connie tried for months to land Ed Lopat from the White Sox, but when that club demanded Phil Marchildon in exchange he lost interest.

Marchildon didn't quite make the no-hit group of hurlers now with Mack because George Metkovich of the Indians singled against him with two out in the ninth last summer. But he qualified in the war hero division. Phil was with the Canadian Royal Air Force as a gunner and wound up as the guest of the Germans for more than 20 months in a prison camp after being shot down solidly. He was so emaciated when he was repatriated that his only hope of sticking with the A's appeared to be as a foul line marker.

But Marchildon right now is rated as one of the three or four best pitchers in the league, and anyway, Connie has enough men who did pitch no-hits. They are Dick Fowler and Bill Dietrich and Bill McCahan.

Young McCahan came up from Toronto last season and promptly won 10 games against 5 defeats. But in September he got hot and held Washington to no hits. He had a fairly important job during the war, as a B-29 test pilot. He made good with the A's despite the fact he was not shot down or wounded or anything. Really an amazing member of Connie's pitching staff.

It May Be That Connie Mack, 85, Is Healthiest Guy on the Club

DIETRICH GOT HIS NO-HITTER when he was working for the White Sox a few years ago, against the Tigers. Originally, though, he came up with the A's 17 years ago. He didn't get along very well with Manager Ted Lyons of the White Sox. When a line drive off Bob Feller's bat stung a finger on Dietrich's pitching hand, he went home to have it treated by the family doctor, and Lyons fired him on the grounds that if the White Sox doctor was good enough for the rest of the club, he was good enough for Dietrich.

Dick Fowler's no-hitter fits nicely into the incredibility of the whole Philadelphia pitching staff. He had never won a major league ball game in his life when suddenly he burst forth with his no-hitter game against the Browns a couple of years ago.

Russ Christopher, though, has battled his way into association with the rest of Connie Mack's strange pitching crew, with a technique all his own. He developed, along with his submarine pitch, the most famous weak heart in baseball. The doctors say he shouldn't pitch, but that didn't prevent Russ from figuring in 24 of the A's winning games last season. Rheumatic heart, the doctors said. Sounds like 85-year-old Connie Mack is the healthiest guy on the Philadelphia ball club.

Howard Pulls Tourney Upset

Howard University stunned Virginia Union, pretourney C.I.A.A. favorite, by winning, 56-43, last night at Turner's Arena and advancing to the finals.

Virginia Union, with a 14-1 record that included two previous triumphs over Howard, fell behind early in the game and never could get near the winners.

Mike Booth's 14 points and George Jett's 13 paced the Howard attack that gained a 31-19 halftime edge and never was matched by the winners. Howie ressant, Virginia Union, took high-scoring honors with 15 points.

Cerdan Stops Roach in 8th

New York, March 12.—Marcel Cerdan, of France, stopped Laverne Roach, Plainview, Tex., middleweight, in the eighth round of their scheduled ten-round fight at Madison Square Garden here tonight.

Referee Arthur Donovan halted the bout at 2:08 of the round after Roach had been floored twice.

Cerdan dropped Roach three times in the first round and had floored the former Marine twice in the eighth when Donovan stepped in to stop the contest.

2 D. C. Teams Win at Priory

Two Washington, D. C., teams, St. Paul's and St. Anthony's, eked out two-point victories in first-round games of the Priory High invitational tourney last night before an overflow crowd of 500 at Priory.

A foul goal and a layup field goal by John Cassidy in the last 40 seconds gave St. Paul's a 38-36 victory over St. Mary's of Hagerstown in the first game. A long set shot by Lou Pennini with 10 seconds left enabled St. Anthony's to whip St. John's of Frederick, 36-34.

St. Paul's plays DeMatha of Hyattsville tonight at 7:30 in the semifinals at Priory. DeMatha drew a first-round bye.

The boys who furnished the winning baskets in each game also wound up with team scoring laurels. Cassidy whipped in 14 for St. Paul's. Pennini was tied for top honors with St. Anthony's teammate Jack Bohne in the second game, each registering 10.

Draft Charge Against Burman Dropped by U. S.

Baltimore, March 12 (AP).—The Government today dropped draft evasion charges against Clarence (Red) Burman, Baltimore heavyweight fighter.

Federal Judge William C. Coleman ruled there was a technical defect in the indictment against Burman because his draft board was in New York. Since the statute of limitation blocks the filing of a new charge in New York, Judge Coleman ordered the case closed.

At the same time he set the first week in May for the trial of several other prizefight figures accused either of evading the draft or helping associates do it. Among the defendants are Henry Jeffra, 32-year-old former world's bantamweight and featherweight champion; Peter C. Galiano, 30, another fighter, and Nathan E. Phillips, 45, matchmaker for the Garden Athletic Club here.

Catholic Meets John Carroll, American U. Entertains Hoyas

In another college fistic show, American University entertains Georgetown.

Defeated in their first two outings by Maryland and Virginia, Eddie La Fand's Cardinals profited by their mistakes and since have won over Army, Coast Guard and Bucknell.

Conceded little chance against the West Pointers, Catholic U. stormed into the lead in the early bouts and won out, 4½-3½.

John Carroll comes here with victories over Georgetown and Bradley; a draw with DePaul and a loss to Minnesita, Jack Radican, 155-pounder, considered one of the visitors' best, clashes with Bucky Ennis, who has won his last three outings.

Georgetown has split two matches, beating Bucknell and losing a close one to John Carroll, 4½-½. Marty Gallagher, Hoya coach, has been outspoken in his criticism of the officiating at Cleveland.

The Hoyas will be favored over American U. The Eagles lost to Busknell, 7-1, and that's the team Georgetown beat, 6-2. American U., returning to the ring after a 12-year lapse, has tied one and lost five in its six matches.

Griffs Blow 4-1 Lead After Jones Crumbles

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 12.—The Nats young talent botched it pretty thoroughly late this afternoon, blew a three-run lead in the ninth, and took a 5-4 beating from the Athletics in the tenth before 800 good-natured fans.

The decisive muff of Sam Chapman's grounder by Rookie Shortstop Jim Clark came with the winning run on third base in the tenth, and two out.

For eight innings, though, the Nats were doing nicely enough, with Rookie Pitcher Joe Jones making a powerful bid for recognition.

Jones took over at the start of the fifth, held the A's to two hits in four innings with his unorthodox side-arm, and then le the ball game get away in the ninth.

The 4-1 lead Jones took into the ninth began to evaporate when he developed a wild spell. He walked Chapman and hit Valo on the rump before getting anybody out. Rudy York dumped a two-bagger into right for two runs, and Jones was lifted.

With two out and the Nats still holding a 4-2 lead, rookie Right-Hander Bill Dozier was clipped for the game-tying hit—a single by Buddy Rosar, off the glove of rookie Third Baseman Cal Ermer.

A sacrifice moved him to second.

After McCosky was welked intentionally, Dozier had a perfect double-play set up on Valo's tap to the box, but got only one man. Then Clark booted Chapman's grounder and Joost scored from third.

Each club collected seven hits. Rookie Right-hander Dick Weik held the A' sto one run, and that a gift of Johnny Sullivan's wild throw in the fourth inning, but he was wild, walking four men. The A's got their one run off Weik without a hot.

The Nats were held hitless by the veteran Phil Marchildon for three innings before Marchildon pulled up slightly and retired.

Tom McBride was the big factor in the run that tied the game at 1-1 against rookie Charlie Harris in the fifth. He led off with a triple to center and scored on an infield out.

In the fifth, the Nats gave a display of how they could scramble on the bases to get two more runs off Harris. Sullivan and Coan singled in the inning and despite a thwarted double steal they obth scored.

Coan was trapped between first and second, but when the A's shift-

Attendance Drops

Highs Not Sure They Will Play in Armory Next Year

Interhigh officials, confronted with a drop this season in league basketball attendance, have adopted a wait-and-see policy regarding future use of the Armory.

Figures released yesterday by Hardy Pearce, director of public high athletics, revealed paid attendance dropped to 33,689 in January and February at the Armory.

At the smaller but more accessible Tech gym in 1947, interhigh basketball attracted 36,945 paying customers.

The decrease in attendance plus the $250 rental fee per doubleheader at the Armory cut a chunk out of school funds. Tech charges only for maintenance expenses.

Basketball and football are the only two major interhigh sports which make a profit or break even. They virtually support scholastic baseball and track which operate at a financial loss.

Pearce said yesterday, "We haven't given up on the Armory yet. We're waiting to see what kind of managerial setup Congress will arrange for the Armory before we make up our mind whether or not to go back there in 1949."

Gil Bogley Beats Society Columnist in Straight Sets

New York, March 12 (AP).—Gilbert Bogley of Washington, D. C., defeated society columnist Igor Cassini in the first round of the National indoor tennis tournament here today. Bogley won both sets, by 6—3, to advance to the second round.

Aging Jean Borotra missed his bid for a fifth championship when he bowed to Nathan Goldstein, a New York collegian unknown outside the metropolitan area.

In another upset, Vinicius Rurac, former Romanian champion, was bounced in the first round by 17-year-old Billy Long, New York schoolboy.

Two of the tournament's best known young entries defaulted, Leonard Steiner of Brooklyn, and Richard Savitt of East Orange, N. J., when they failed to arrive.

Armando Vieira, Brazilian champion and third-seeded foreign player, advanced by downing Al Hollander, University of Virginia of Virginia player from New York, 6-1, 6-2.

In the closest match, Axel Kaufmann of Cambridge, Mass., an M. I. T. varsity player, came from behind to oust T. Y. Shen of New York, 6-4, 10-8.

Caps Play Bombers Tonight in Vital Game

Irv Torgoff, Dick O'Keefe May Start

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

The Washington Caps aren't as good as they think they are and as long as they persist in praising themselves they'll continue to lose.

That's what their coach, Red Auerbach, told his team yesterday as it prepared for tonight's meeting with the St. Louis Bombers at Uline Arena.

Resolved to do something about snapping a six-game losing streak and preserving the faint hope of landing his team in the playoffs, Auerbach did something more than scold his hot-shots.

He tried out a new starting combination, one which included Dick O'Keefe and Irv Torgoff in the places of Regulars Johnny Mahnken and Johnny Norlander, and indicated O'Keefe and Torgoff would probably face the Bombers when the opening whistle sounds. Bones McKinney, Freddie Scolari and Bob Feerick will be at their usual posts.

"You're just too cocky," Auerbach told hi sclub. "You're not thinking basketball and you're not playing basketball. Forget about that great season we had last year and try to salvage something out of what's left of this season."

Mathematically speaking, a loss to St. Louis won't eliminate the Washingtonians, but for all practical purposes they'll be "stone cold dead on the (basketball) market."

Entering the clash with the Western Division's coleaders at Uline's, the Caps must win four out of their five remaining games to gain a tie with Baltimore which must drop two of their three games for this to happen.

Not only are the odds against the Caps, but also the schedule. While Washington mixes with St. Louis, Boston, Providence, Baltimore and New York, the Bullets encounter Philadelphia (tonight), Providence (a setup) and Washington.

Cupid Haight Writes About Bows, Arrows

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

CUPID HAIGHT, they're calling me at the Outdoor Sports Show.

That's what I get for being careless and allowing my fat self to pick up a bow and arrow—but, then, how was I to know somebody was looking?

Haight

The whole thing's absurd, anyway. Imagine chubby me, on the first balmy spring night, darting from parked car to parked car down on Haines Point, flicking tiny arrows into hearts and some guy puts a flashlight on me. How could I explain it to the boys on upper 9th st.?

Yes, I've been to the Sports Show again—and not because I have a season pass, or I'm trying to steal a live trout or take a nap in a trailer.

The show boys phoned and asked me to look over their new archer. It seems J. J. Lynch, the target man, had to cut his stay short, so the management rushed in one Walter Wilhelm, a native of Death Valley, Calif.

After being assured that I wasn't going to be called on for any of that William Tell, apple-on-the-head stuff, I went over.

I wasn't long in determining that Brother Wilhelm was no piker at the Indian game. While we were talking, he placed a Life Saver (the confection kind) on a rack, stepp d back some 30 paces, turned and shattered the darned thing.

From that point on I was ready to believe anything he said he was going to do, or had done.

Wilhelm is not a target man in the sense that he shoots at printed cardboard. He is a field archer—prefers moving targets and actually hunts with a bow and arrow.

"I do most of my hunting on horseback," he explained. "But I couldn't get the horse here."

THE WAY HE SHOOTS, it's a wonder he hits anything. He doesn't put the arrow up even with his shoulder to take aim, but just lets it go hardly chest high—almost like the old two-gun men who whipped their guns from the hip.

Walt has hunted everything that walks, flies or swims, using only a bow and arrow—except the kings of the north woods, the moose. This fall he's going to try moose.

He has hunted shark on the ocean, stalked big-horned sheep in Mexico, mountain lions in the Grand Canyon and fought a wild boar on Channel Island, 50 miles off Santa Barbara, Calif.

His best shot? It haved his life when he struck a wild boar who leaped off a cliff at him. Boars, by the way, are tough to kill with a rifle. Walt says they must be shot from underneath or from the back as they charge, because their shoulders from the front are so tough they will break an arrow or stop a rifle bullet.

I wasn't bored by this talk, but I did get frightened when he whirled an arrow close to my head and struck a ping-pong ball on the other side of the hall.

Why did he become a bow and arrow man?

"Because," he said, "I became ashamed of myself back in 1924 for killing so much game with firearms. I haven't fired a gun since that ttime. Get a deer and a bear every year and I've killed a 600-pound boar."

A FRIEND TELLS me Walt is one of two men in the Nation who have killed a coyote with an arrow. His first after two years and the shot was from 150 yards, the closest he could get to the sly animal.

The bow and arrow chatter brought to mind the buffalo hunt archers staged in Colorado last year and the resultant cruelty charges.

Wilhelm tells me the arrow is more humane than the bullet.

He explained that when the arrow is released there is no noise. Hence, if the shot misses, the hunter gets another chance.

"I've seen a buck deer amble over and sniff a spent arrow," Walt said. "When a deer is hit, it will throw up its head as if a fly had bitten extra deep and then continue to graze for a step or two before it sags over dead. An arrow kills by hemorrhage. When it hits there is no shock. A shot in the chest cavity will kill within a few seconds."

Wilhelm says he never has killed anything, however, without giving it a fighting chance.

His act was good, but he explained he usually works with his brother, Ken.

"You should see that show," he said. "We shoot arrows at each other and catch them just before they hit us in the stomach. Want to try it?"

Alexander Holds Lead

Jacksonville, Fla., March 12 (AP).—Top place in the Jacksonville Invitational Golf Tournament tonight was still in the hands of Skip Alexander of Mid Pine, N. C.

He was able to better par by only one stroke today, shooting a 35, 36—71 for a 36-hole score of 138. Alexander was four strokes off the 67 pace he set in yesterday's opennig round over the waterlogged 6282-yard Brentwood municipal course.

None of the others was able to catch him. Closest at the halfway point was Steve Savel of Schenectady, N. Y., who took over second place at 139.

De Paul Favored

N. C. State Underdog in N. Y. Tonight

New York, March 12.—Proud North Carolina State will be in an unfamiliar underdog role tomorrow night against DePaul as the teams make their debut in the National Invitation tourney at Madison Square Garden.

The Southern Conference champions, who swept 29 of 31 games, will play without Dick Dickey, leading scorer. Dickey is sidelaned with mups and that's the reason DePaul is being given a slight edge.

In the first game, at 8 o'clock, second-seeded New York University is picked to beat Texas.

Pack Has Lost Only Two

The third-seeded Wolfpack aggregation blazed through 12 league opponents during the regular season and emerged the winner of the Southern Conference tournament at Durham last week.

Only two teams to win over State were West Virginia and Holy Cross, the latter in overtime.

Coach Everett Case said today red-headed Dickey might see limited action later if State survives its first round.

DePaul is being considered highly because of its victory over St. Louis which enabled it to finish with a 21-6 record.

St. Louis overwhelmed Bowling Green in the first round Thursday night, 69-53. Most of the 17,000 fans walked out convinced that the tourney winner would be either St. Louis or Western Kentucky. The latter displayed class in eliminating La Salle, 68-61.

New York University also has a star performer on the daubtful list, Don Forman. He's nursing an aching back and Coach Howard Cann said he still didn't know if Forman could play against the Longhorns, who finished with a 20-4 record.

Redskins Sell 25,000 Tickets

Sales of season tickets for the Washington Redskins home games next fall have reached the 25,000, it was announced yesterday by club officials.

This sale disposes of 150,000 seats, grosses $500,000 for the Redskins and leave only 8000 seats available for any National Football League contest here next fall.

Total sales of ticket books last season were 31,444, officials added. The mark reached yesterday indicates this sum will be surpassed. The book sales will be limited to 33,000.

Paid attendance at Redskins home games last fall was 214,863. Attendance at all 17 games, including exhibitions, in which the 'Skins played was 529,359.

To date season ticket books have been available only to regular customers from last year. General sale of the books will begin April 1.

Municipal Parking Lease Nets $39,410

Arrowing Parking Co. yesterday bid $39,410 for nine months' rental of the parking lot in the rear of new Municipal Center—a sum nearly double that of the next highest among 13 bidders.

Present operator of the 1100 space lot, David L. Sirkis, was second highest with a bid of $19,890.

Bernard Segal, president of the Arrow company, said monthly parking rates "might" go up from $3 to $4 when his company takes over April 1. "But I don't think we'll change the day rate at all," he added.

If "fringe" parking-shuttle bus service can be arranged with local department stores, Segal said, a "slight additional charge might be added for the bus service.

Sirkis, who now charges 25 cents for all-day parking and $3 a month, said, "It's quite evident that they will have to raise rates." He insisted the new lessees "couldn't possibly take in enough money a month to cover the rent at the prices I'm charging."

Segal maintained, however, that he could boost the lot's income by increasing capacity to 1500 and inducing more to park there. He will use "publicity stuff" and "dress it up with a big sign" to attract business, he said.

Thenew rental figure will increase the District's monthly "take" from $700 to $4378, Property Survey Officer Paul Chalupsky revealed.

The lease will be for nine months, but the Commisisoners may terminate it with 30 days' notice in the event construction of new Federal Court Building on the site begins before January 1, 1949. The lease may continue on a month-to-month basis after January 1, if the lot isn't needed by then.

Non-Partisan Election Plan To be Debated

Arlington Republicans will thrash out the issue of partisan versus non-partisan local elections in a mass meeting next Saturday.

Republican Committee Chairman Edgar W. Pumphrey said the meeting will be held at 12:30 p. m. in the Thomas Jefferson Junior High School, 816 S. Fillmore st.

Among other business, the group will decide whether Republicans will nominate a candidate for one vacant County Board seat next fall, or keep out of the election, he said.

By mutual agreement, both the Republican and Democratic Parties kept their labels out of last fall's Arlington elections. According to county Democratic leaders, the Democratic Executive Committee may not take its stand on the non-partisan elections issue until April or May. However, the group is scheduled to meet March 25.

At Saturday's meeting, Arlington Republicans also will elect a county chairman, precinct committeemen, 83 delegates and alternates to the Eighth Congressional District convention at Culpeper March 26 and to the State Republican convention in Roanoke on April 10.

Boy, 5, Found Hanged After Reading 'Funnies'

Hartford, Conn., March 12 (AP).—Melvin Rezende, 5, was in his mother's way when she started to do her weekly washing, so Mrs. Manuel Rezende sent him to his room to "read the funnies."

Mrs. Rose Pimental, a sister of Mrs. Rezende, told police they noticed the boy was very quiet.

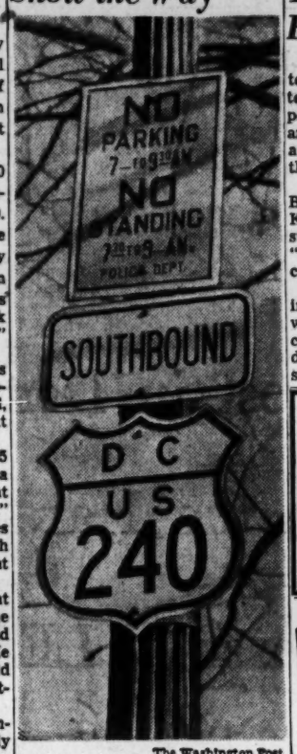
New Markers Show the Way



The Washington Post

"HIGH SIGN"—Motorists passing through Washington will see new U. S. route markers and direction signs, now being installed by the Department of Vehicles and Traffic at a cost of $5000, authorized by a District appropriation. The job of putting up approximately 1000 signs, begun March 1, is expected to be completed April 1. The new markers, unlike the old, include the letters "D. C." above the route number and are finished with a reflectorized paint. A direction sign, such as "Southbound," appears above them

Liquor Stores To be Checked For 'Short' Bottles

Regular checks on all Washington liquor stores were ordered yesterday by J. Thomas Kennedy, superintendent of weights, measures and markets, after "definite" shortages were found in half-pint bottles at two stores.

Acting on a tip from an Alcoholic Beverage Control Board inspector, Kennedy said he found in one store 27 cases of half-pint bottles "with as much as one-third of their contents missing."

The bottles were displayed "lying on their sides" so the shortages weren't apparent to prospective customers, Kennedy said. He ordered wholesalers to pick up the short bottles and "get rid of them."

Recruiting Offices Busy In Wake of Czech Coup

Many Applicants Cite Dark World Picture; Reserve Inquiries Increase

A flurry of applicants at local recruiting stations followed last week on the heels of the Communist coup in Czechoslovakia. The stations also reported that telephone inquiries concerning reserve status increased sharply.

A check of Navy, Marine and Coast Guard recruiting offices showed a sudden upsurge Wednesday and Thursday, which quickly fell off yesterday.

Recruiting officers said most of the applicants cited the clouding international picture.

The Army recruiting station at 403 10th st. nw. reportde 35 applicants Wednesday as against 12 the day before, but called it "the same old routine week." Wednesday is usually busy, an officer said.

The Navy's Organized Reserve office at the Naval Gun Factory recorded twice as much business Wednesday and Thursday than on average days in previous weeks.

An officer there called it "the heaviest increase" since the war's end. The station's average of two or three applicants a day jumped to six on Wednesday and eight on Thursday. The Organized Reserve, which meets Thursday nights, attracted nearly 30 applicants on March 4. This was twice as many as those reporting on previous Thursday nights.

The Marine Corps recruiting station had twice as many applicants Wednesday and Thursday as on those days the week before. A total of 17 showed up Wednesday and another 17 on Thursday, while the previous week's daily average was about 8.

The Navy recruiting station, which concentrates on Naval Reserve and Regular Navy, had a similar experience. There was an average of 30 inquiries a day Wednesday and Thursday. The week before, there were about 15a day. Applicants for the "V-6 inactive" program jumped from about two in three weeks to three and four on Wednesday and Thursday alone.

Coast Guard recruitment at the Clarendon (Va.) station increased from a daily average of about one to totals of three on Wednesday and three yesterday.

Rescuer Finds Locked-in Boy Sound Asleep

Little Johnny Franklin wasn't talking yesterday after a fireman eased in through a third-story window to rescue him.

Johnny, 1 year old, blond and at times lusty-lunged, had been locked in alone in his parents' third-floor apartment at 400 Evarts st. ne. for about 40 minutes. His mother, Mrs. Marjorie Franklin, 33, hadn't really worried till Johnny suddenly stopped crying.

Then she called the Fire Department, and pleadingly coaxed Johnny to say something. There was no answer.

It was only a matter of minutes before Truck Company 15 raised a ladder, forced a window and unlocked the door for the distraught mother.

No, Johnny hadn't climbed into the tub of his bath water, as Mrs. Franklin had feared. He just got tired of crying, toddled over, pulled a pillow off a sofa, and had gone to sleep on it in the center of the floor.

Mrs. Franklin said she locked herself out when she left to empty some trash. A card table kept behind the door, she said, fell over and closed the door behind her.

Yearly Rush At Tax Bureau Near Deadline

Monday Last Day For Tete-a-Tete on Matter of Income

The yearly rush of taxpayers to the Bureau of Internal Revenue to settle with Uncle Sam is almost over.

Last chance to pay your respects in person is Monday—from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. The bureau, working normal" hours, will be closed today and tomorrow.

Yesterday, Washingtonians were waiting their turn fo rtax guidance in single-file lines the equivalent in length of a city block. By 4 p.m., some 1500 had chatted with bureau deputy collectors and auditors.

The average amount of time it took to work from the tag end of the line to the consultant's desk was "a little more than an hour," according to A. P. Rasin,assistant to the collector.

To Rasin, it is pretty much the same story, year after year.

"There isn't 5 cents' worth of difference between this year and last," he said. "The citizens are in short lines when the offices open, and 'accumulate' during the day."

More than 50,000 taxpayers have sought the bureau's advice since January 2, Rasin reported. That figure is "pretty close" to that of the corresponding period of last year.

Most citizens can find out what they want to know within 10 minutes, according to the collector's assistant, once they have inched through the long line.

Stafford Asks $5000 Cut in School Budget

Fredericksburg, Va., March 12 (Spl.).—The Stafford County Board of Supervisors handed back the 1948-49 school budget to the school board yesterday with a request that $5000 be cut off. The school board had asked for $90,000 in county funds for next year's operations.

Superintendent T. Benton Gayle told the supervisors he "didn't see where another nickel could be cut from the budget," but said the money probably would be deducted from the pay of school bus drivers. The new budget carries, with State funds, a total of $216,076. It includes a $150-a-year increase for teachers.

$10,588 Building Grant Proposed for Va. U.

A construction grant of $10,588 was recommended yesterday for the Universinty of Virginia Medical School by the National Cancer Advisory Council here.

The council, advisory group to United States Public Health's National Cancer Institute, said the Virginia college and 20 other universities and hospitals named in a eight million dollar grant, need additional facilities for cancer research.

Circle Tunnel Plans Change Is Requested

A modification of construction plans for the Dupont Circle underpass was advocated again yesterday by the transportation committee of the Citizens' Council for Community Planning.

The committee proposed relocation of the subsurface stations and substitution of straight line transit tunnels.

The suggestions were contained in a letter to E. D. Merrill, president of the Capital Transit Co. Harry Barrett, chairman, pointed out that the committee was not speaking for the entire council.

The committee proposed that transit stations be located to the north and south of the circle rather than at the east and west, as is called for under current plans. The group also opposed the plan for a curved transit tunnel beneath the present circular roadways.

According to Barrett, the "officially proposed scheme" would fail to provide adequate car loading facilities for the heavily populated area between the Circle and S st. and would create unnecessary costs.

The communication urged the transit company's support of its plan. A letter from Merrill, released simultaneously, failed to promise support, however. The company president wrote:

"It would seem doubtful whether we should advocate a change in the plan . . . In view of the pressure for analysis of the great number of problems we must try to devote our efforts to those which are susceptible to change rather than spending time on those which seem to be fully determined."

Aid to Friend Proves Costly For D. C. Man

Speed in Seeking Collateral Results In Fines of $170

The alacrity with which Melvin Davis went out to round up $25 collateral for an arrested friend cost him $170 in Municipal Court yesterday.

It also tagged him as a "menace" in the opinion of Judge George D. Neilson.

Davis, 23, of 4714 Sheriff rd. ne., volunteered to get the $25 collateral for Josiah T. Brooking, 19, of 3220 Water st. nw., who had been arrested for speeding.

Police halted Davis' mercy mission at 50 miles an hour out 16th st. nw., and directed him toward the 6th Precinct station.

He took off again, they said, and it took 80 miles an hour, two miles and a Maryland police roadblock to catch him.

Brooking's father posted his $25 collateral, but the deed cost Davis: $50 for the 50 miles an hour; $100 for the 80 and another $20 for passing up a stop light.

Man Gets 3 Years For Beating Baby

Baltimore, March 12 (AP).—Hobart Taylor was sentenced to three years in prison today on charges of beating a 9-month-old boy to keep him awake during the day so he would sleep at night.

Mrs. Virginia Clifton, the child's mother, testified Taylor poured turpentine in the baby's eyes and mouth, burned him with cigarette ashes and buckled his legs together.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles E. Orth, jr., told Judge Edwin T. Dickerson that Taylor was sentenced to three months last year on a similar charge involving the same baby.

Slum Fund Of $50,000 Approved

Committee Sends Senate What's Left Of $3,461,500 Budget Requests

The Senate Appropriations Committee yesterday approved $50,000 for planning Washington slum clearance.

The money, sent to the Senate floor as part of the Independent Offices Appropriation Bill, is what's now left of budget requests for $3,461,500 in Washington slum clearance funds.

The House knocked all the money out of the bill. Of the original request, $61,500 was for planning by the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, and $3,400,000 mostly for the District Redevelopment Land Agency to buy land for slum clearance in the Marshal Heights and Barry Farms communities.

The Senate committee bill also carries $241,000 approved by the House for park land purchases in the District, and $159,000 added by the Senate group for park land purchases in nearby Maryland.

Other House-approved funds unchanged by the Senate committee include:

A contract authorization of $19,500,000, with $500,000 of that in cash for Washington's proposed new hospital center.

An operating fund of $23,400 for the National Capital Housing Authority.

The Senate Appropriations Committee also approved the recommendation sponsored by Senator Clyde M. Reed (R., Kans.), declaring that future appropriations for the planning and slum clearance agencies and for NCHA be handled as part of the District money bill.

German Zone Reeducation Held 'Failure'

Sweet Briar, Va., March 12 (Spl.).—American reeducation policy in the occupied zone of Germany has been a failure, Fred M. Hechinger, education columnist of The Washington Post, charged here tonight.

Speaking at the first of three sessions on the role of the colleges in promoting peace through international understanding at Sweet Briar College, Hechinger told an audience of students and faculty members that our first responsibility abroad is in occupied Germany.

"Current discussions of the German problem seems to be concerned entirely with Germany's muscle while conveniently disregarding her brain," the educator and columnist declared.

"The temptation is understandable," Hechinger continued. "It is relatively easy to restore a country's economic life, but it is infinitely more difficult to mend a dangerously sick mind."

In the French zone, Hechinger told the conference, a start on reeducation has been made. He pointed out that the French have secured eight books for each child while we have provided only 1½. These books, he noted, are "saturated with the democratic spirit, and they are, above all, available."

Hechinger added that French officials are placing particular emphasis on teacher training for the youth in their sector.

He called upon American students to link their efforts with the democratic elements behind the iron curtain so that cultural and educational ties could have a chance to work.

Dr. John W. Taylor, president of the University of Louisville, also spoke at the evening meeting.

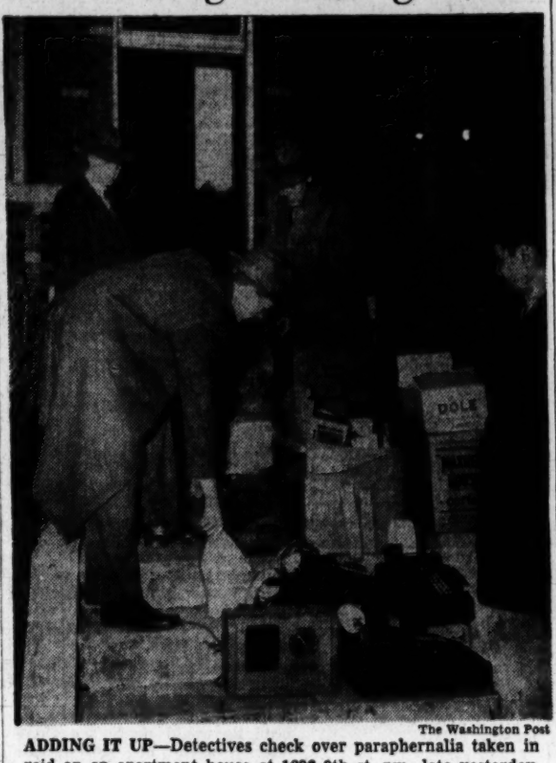
Williams Sentenced; Judge Urges Controls On Real Estate Men

Police Report Record Books Seized in Big Gambling Raid



The Washington Post

ADDING IT UP—Detectives check over paraphernalia taken in raid on an apartment house at 1626 9th st. nw., late yesterday. A bag of coins, held by the detective at left, and seven electric adding machines are included in the gear

Police raiders yesterday pounced on what they termed a gaming headquarters busy enough to require seven adding machines and six telephones.

But most important find, according to Lieut. Roy Blick, was a filing cabinet containing a bookkeeping system, names, checks and operation records covering a three-year period. From the cabinet, Blick said, police hope to find "many new leads on District gambling."

The raiders seized "tens of thousands" of numbers slips, the adding machines, telephones and other paraphernalia, $650 in change, a pistol and a dummy gun. They estimated the daily "take" at between $15,000 and $20,000, but said it would take a day or more to determine how much business the establishment was doing.

Blick's squad, together with a warrant-bearing United States marshal, rang the doorbell of the three-story, brick building at 1626 9th st. nw., and smashed through the door when refused admittance.

They said they found gambling operations on all three floors, arrested two men and two women and started a search for two more men who got away. Two of those arrested were found hiding in the eaves of the building by Detective Sergt. Paul H. Clarke, Blick said.

Blick said a fire cheated police of raiding the place three years ago when it virtually gutted the building.

Those arrested and charged with possession of numbers slips, operating a lottery and setting up a gaming table are:

William E. Prather, jr., 23, of 122 U st. nw.; Reginald F. Martin, 39, of 2407 M st. nw.; Mrs. Deanette M. Small, 39, of 1626 9th st. nw., and Mrs. Irene B. McGuire, 24, of the same address.

Blick named the two men who escaped as the possible ringleaders of the place and said warrants have been issued for their arrest.

4 to 18 Months Given in $98,000 Frauds in Veterans Housing Deals

By Howard L. Dutkin
Post Reporter

Associate Justice Alexander Holtzoff, District Court, yesterday urged Governmental regulation of the real estate industry similar to that existing in the fields of banking and building and loan associations.

The jurist's recommendation came as he sentenced George H. Williams, Maryland real estate operator, to 4 to 18 months, on charges of defrauding veterans of $98,000 in housing deals.

"It is unfortunate," Holtzoff said, "that the law does not place the real estate industry under the same regulations as banks and building and loan associations . . . perhaps this is something Congress would want to consider."

Admitted Charges

The judge said, in determining Williams' fate, he had taken into consideration that the real estate man's project "wasn't fraudulent in its inception."

However, the judge continued, he later resorted to "means absolutely criminal," such as forging checks.

In conclusion Holtzoff said, he had considered the fact that the defendant had "very frankly admitted all the facts with no effort to conceal them . . ."

Williams, who had been convicted on one count of mail fraud and seven counts of sending bad checks through the mails faced a maximum of 75 years and a $75,000 fine.

Tax Expert Sentenced

Bernard P. Nimre, tax consultant of 1614 K st. nw., was sentenced by Holtzoff to 3 months to 1 year on charges of embezzlement and larceny after trust. The charges involve the embezzlement of $2628.26 from Loy W. Henderson, chief of the Near East Division, State Department, in connection with the preparation of income tax returns.

Perjury charges against [illegible] M. Garsson, wartime munitions magnate, now under sentence of 8 to 24 months for war contract fraud, were dismissed by Holtzoff on motion of the Government. The perjury charges had stemmed from Garsson's testimony before a Federal grand jury in the former case.

For youths were sentenced by Associate Justice Richmond B. Keech for hijacking a truckload of liquor valued at more than $4600 last October.

Those sentenced were: William H. Whitehair, 22, of 122 11th st. ne., 1to 3 years; Melvin Eckloff, 22, no address, 32 months to eight years; William J. Stewart, 28, no address, 21 months to 83 months, and William Hodges, 22, 3 to 9 years.

An additional charge of assault may be lodged against Eckloff, who, marshalls reported, struck Whitehair with a chair in the cell block after sentencing.

Marcellus B. Kemp, 915 Westminster st., was sentenced to 32 months to eight years for the wounding of John H. Smith with a pistol. Smith, who lives at 3213 13th st. nw., was hit five times, police testified.

Gas Lack Delays Benning Line Shift to Busses

Plans to substitute buses for streetcars on the Benning line were temporarily halted by the Public Utilities Commission yesterday in view of a possible gasoline shortage.

Capital Transit Co. was ordered not to put its bus plan into effect before April 11, instead of March 27 as planned.

Meanwhile, PUC will hold a public hearing at the District Building at 10 a. m., March 22, to determine if enough additional gasoline will be available to meet CTC's requirements for the conversion. Interior Department representatives will be invited to testify at the hearing, PUC announced.

CTC Vice President E. C. Giddings said the company "is ready to go ahead with the conversion" and is "getting plenty of gasoline."

Old Coal Mine to Reopen

Bluefield, W. Va., March 12 (AP). A West Virginia coal mine closed about 20 years ago will be put back into production at a cost of eight million dollars. Officials of the Pocahontas Fuel Co. here were advised by President O. L. Alexander in a letter from New York headquarters of plans for reopening the mine at Ithman, Wyoming County.

Best of Roads Planned in '48 By Maryland

State Prepares to Spend $15,000,000 On Highway Projects

Baltimore, March 12 (AP).—The State Roads Commission, in its rst comprehensive report on the 1948 highway program, said today that "Maryland is on her way back to the position she once enjoyed as the best-roaded State in the Nation."

An estimated 15 million dollars worth of road improvements on which "bids will be received before too long," were voted by the commission. These are "among the more important" on which bids will be called for "in the immediate future."

1. A 7-mile section of the proposed Baltimore-Washington expressway from the Baltimore line to Hanover rd. near Jessups, Md. estimated cost, 11 million dollars.

2. Two grade eliminations along the Pennsylvanio railroad tracks in Baltimore, combined cost, $1,762,000.

3. A 7-mile bypass carrying U. S. Route 301 around Marlboro, from Wells Corner, at the junction of Maryland Route 4 with U. S. 301, to Groom Station, $1,500,000.

4. A mile-and-half bypass carrying U. S. 1 around Laurel. It "will in effect provide a separation of northbound and southbound traffic through Laurel and separate the cross movement of traffic into the Laurel Race Track." $800,000.

Construction will start this spring on two roads projects which eventually will become part of a high-speed dual highway linking Baltimore and Frederick

State Engineer William F. Childs, jr., said that bids have been awarded on projects at the Baltimore end of the proposed new highway. They involve the completion of a dual road from the Baltimore City line to Pine Orchard on Route 40, now one lane for part of the way.

Turkey Sandwiches Make a Point

Congressional Hearing Turns to Eating

By Edward F. Ryan
Post Reporter

They weren't just talking turkey to Congress yesterday.

They brought the turkey, 21½ pounds of its roasted to a turn, sliced it and handed out the slices to members of a congressional subcommittee.

The turkey appeared as choice exhibit in the petition of the Booker T. Washington Birthplace Memorial organization to obtain two Government-owned Negro residence halls here for use as a Negro industrial training institution.

Testimony ran quietly for about two hours, then Dr. S. J. Phillips, president of the memorial, rang a bell.

At once the hearing room was booming with noise and a-bustle with action. The turkey was brought in and the slicing started in front of the committee. One man went to work on a board with a hand sander, another began and a vacuum cleaner over the rug Women paraded carpet sweepers painting another board. There was a man setting type, another typing a woman making a dress, another fixing a hat.

This went on for several minutes until Dr. Phillips hammered two carpenter's bits together. The racket stopped. Dr. Phillips explained it was done to show what training would be giving at the proposed industrial institute.

The demonstration overshadowed the fact that there is a three-way contest over disposition of the two Negro residence halls—the Lucy Diggs Slowe Hall for Negro women at 1919 3d st. nw., and George Washington Carver Hall for men at 211 Elm st. nw.

President Truman, other Federal officials, along with Dr. Mordecai W. Johnson, president of Howard University, and his aides, urged the committee that the two halls be given to Howard for use as dormitories.

The third plea came from residents of Slowe Hall, presented by Mrs. Estelle Hannah-Morris, for herself and about 160 other Government girls who live there. She cited the local housing shortage in urging that any transfer of the hall insure them the right to stay.

She and Dr. Johnson explained that Carver Hall is now largely used for Howard students.

Subcommittee Chairman J. Harry McGregor (R., Ohio) said the final decision would be difficult and would be deferred at least for a week until the record of the hearing is transcribed.

Yearly Rush At Tax Bureau Near Deadline

Monday Last Day For Tete-a-Tete on Matter of Income

Last chance to pay your respects in person is Monday—from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. The bureau, working normal" hours, will be closed today and tomorrow.

Yesterday, Washingtonians were waiting their turn fo rtax guidance in single-file lines the equivalent in length of a city block. By 4 p.m., some 1500 had chatted with bureau deputy collectors and auditors.

The average amount of time it took to work from the tag end of the line to the consultant's desk was "a little more than an hour," according to A. P. Rasin,assistant to the collector.

To Rasin, it is pretty much the same story, year after year.

"There isn't 5 cents' worth of difference between this year and last," he said. "The citizens are in short lines when the offices open, and 'accumulate' during the day."

More than 50,000 taxpayers have sought the bureau's advice since January 2, Rasin reported. That figure is "pretty close" to that of the corresponding period of last year.

Most citizens can find out what they want to know within 10 minutes, according to the collector's assistant, once they have inched through the long line.

Stafford Asks $5000 Cut in School Budget

Fredericksburg, Va., March 12 (Spl.).—The Stafford County Board of Supervisors handed back the 1948-49 school budget to the school board yesterday with a request that $5000 be cut off. The school board had asked for $90,000 in county funds for next year's operations.

Superintendent T. Benton Gayle told the supervisors he "didn't see where another nickel could be cut from the budget," but said the money probably would be deducted from the pay of school bus drivers. The new budget carries, with State funds, a total of $216,076. It includes a $150-a-year increase for teachers.

$10,588 Building Grant Proposed for Va. U.

A construction grant of $10,588 was recommended yesterday for the Universinty of Virginia Medical School by the National Cancer Advisory Council here.

The council, advisory group to United States Public Health's National Cancer Institute, said the Virginia college and 20 other universities and hospitals named in a eight million dollar grant, need additional facilities for cancer research.

Circle Tunnel Plans Change Is Requested

A modification of construction plans for the Dupont Circle underpass was advocated again yesterday by the transportation committee of the Citizens' Council for Community Planning.

The committee proposed relocation of the subsurface stations and substitution of straight line transit tunnels.

The suggestions were contained in a letter to E. D. Merrill, president of the Capital Transit Co. Harry Barrett, chairman, pointed out that the committee was not speaking for the entire council.

The committee proposed that transit stations be located to the north and south of the circle rather than at the east and west, as is called for under current plans. The group also opposed the plan for a curved transit tunnel beneath the present circular roadways.

According to Barrett, the "officially proposed scheme" would fail to provide adequate car loading facilities for the heavily populated area between the Circle and S st. and would create unnecessary costs.

The communication urged the transit company's support of its plan. A letter from Merrill, released simultaneously, failed to promise support, however. The company president wrote:

"It would seem doubtful whether we should advocate a change in the plan . . . In view of the pressure for analysis of the great number of problems we must try to devote our efforts to those which are susceptible to change rather than spending time on those which seem to be fully determined."

De Valera Foresees Another Great Conflict

Tulsa, Okla., March 12 (AP).—Eamon de Valera, former Prime Minister of Eire, foresees "another great conflict" in the near future.

De Valera said aid from the United States may help prevent another war but it must be forthcoming soon.

Speed in Seeking Collateral Results In Fines of $170

The alacrity with which Melvin Davis went out to round up $25 collateral for an arrested friend cost him $170 in Municipal Court yesterday.

Davis, 23, of 4714 Sheriff rd. ne., volunteered to get the $25 collateral for Josiah T. Brooking, 19, of 3220 Water st. nw., who had been arrested for speeding.

He took off again, they said, and it took 80 miles an hour, two miles and a Maryland police roadblock to catch him.

Brooking's father posted his $25 collateral, but the deed cost Davis: $50 for the 50 miles an hour; $100 for the 80 and another $20 for passing up a stop light.

Man Gets 3 Years For Beating Baby

Baltimore, March 12 (AP).—Hobart Taylor was sentenced to three years in prison today on charges of beating a 9-month-old boy to keep him awake during the day so he would sleep at night.

Mrs. Virginia Clifton, the child's mother, testified Taylor poured turpentine in the baby's eyes and mouth, burned him with cigarette ashes and buckled his legs together.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles E. Orth, jr., told Judge Edwin T. Dickerson that Taylor was sentenced to three months last year on a similar charge involving the same baby.

Slum Fund Of $50,000 Approved

Committee Sends Senate What's Left Of $3,461,500 Budget Requests

The House knocked all the money out of the bill. Of the original request, $61,500 was for planning by the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, and $3,400,000 mostly for the District Redevelopment Land Agency to buy land for slum clearance in the Marshal Heights and Barry Farms communities.

The Senate committee bill also carries $241,000 approved by the House for park land purchases in the District, and $159,000 added by the Senate group for park land purchases in nearby Maryland.

Other House-approved funds unchanged by the Senate committee include:

The Senate Appropriations Committee also approved the recommendation sponsored by Senator Clyde M. Reed (R., Kans.), declaring that future appropriations for the planning and slum clearance agencies and for NCHA be handled as part of the District money bill.

German Zone Reeducation Held 'Failure'

Sweet Briar, Va., March 12 (Spl.).—American reeducation policy in the occupied zone of Germany has been a failure, Fred M. Hechinger, education columnist of The Washington Post, charged here tonight.

Speaking at the first of three sessions on the role of the colleges in promoting peace through international understanding at Sweet Briar College, Hechinger told an audience of students and faculty members that our first responsibility abroad is in occupied Germany.

"Current discussions of the German problem seems to be concerned entirely with Germany's muscle while conveniently disregarding her brain," the educator and columnist declared.

"The temptation is understandable," Hechinger continued. "It is relatively easy to restore a country's economic life, but it is infinitely more difficult to mend a dangerously sick mind."

In the French zone, Hechinger told the conference, a start on reeducation has been made. He pointed out that the French have secured eight books for each child while we have provided only 1½. These books, he noted, are "saturated with the democratic spirit, and they are, above all, available."

Hechinger added that French officials are placing particular emphasis on teacher training for the youth in their sector.

He called upon American students to link their efforts with the democratic elements behind the iron curtain so that cultural and educational ties could have a chance to work.

Dr. John W. Taylor, president of the University of Louisville, also spoke at the evening meeting.

Luray, Va., March 12 (Spl.).—Frederick L. Compton of Arlington, management analyst of the War Assets Administration, will be the principal speaker Sunday night in the fifth of a series of meetings sponsored by the World Citizenship Committee. The meeting will be held in the Main Street Baptist Church. Compton will discuss the United Nations program.

Williams Sentenced; Judge Urges Controls On Real Estate Men

The Washington Post

ADDING IT UP—Detectives check over paraphernalia taken in raid on an apartment house at 1626 9th st. nw., late yesterday. A bag of coins, held by the detective at left, and seven electric adding machines are included in the gear

Police raiders yesterday pounced on what they termed a gaming headquarters busy enough to require seven adding machines and six telephones.

But most important find, according to Lieut. Roy Blick, was a filing cabinet containing a bookkeeping system, names, checks and operation records covering a three-year period. From the cabinet, Blick said, police hope to find "many new leads on District gambling."

The raiders seized "tens of thousands" of numbers slips, the adding machines, telephones and other paraphernalia, $650 in change, a pistol and a dummy gun. They estimated the daily "take" at between $15,000 and $20,000, but said it would take a day or more to determine how much business the establishment was doing.

Blick's squad, together with a warrant-bearing United States marshal, rang the doorbell of the three-story, brick building at 1626 9th st. nw., and smashed through the door when refused admittance.

They said they found gambling operations on all three floors, arrested two men and two women and started a search for two more men who got away. Two of those arrested were found hiding in the eaves of the building by Detective Sergt. Paul H. Clarke, Blick said.

Blick said a fire cheated police of raiding the place three years ago when it virtually gutted the building.

William E. Prather, jr., 23, of 122 U st. nw.; Reginald F. Martin, 39, of 2407 M st. nw.; Mrs. Deanette M. Small, 39, of 1626 9th st. nw., and Mrs. Irene B. McGuire, 24, of the same address.

Blick named the two men who escaped as the possible ringleaders of the place and said warrants have been issued for their arrest.

4 to 18 Months Given in $98,000 Frauds in Veterans Housing Deals

By Howard L. Dutkin
Post Reporter

Associate Justice Alexander Holtzoff, District Court, yesterday urged Governmental regulation of the real estate industry similar to that existing in the fields of banking and building and loan associations.

The jurist's recommendation came as he sentenced George H. Williams, Maryland real estate operator, to 4 to 18 months, on charges of defrauding veterans of $98,000 in housing deals.

"It is unfortunate," Holtzoff said, "that the law does not place the real estate industry under the same regulations as banks and building and loan associations . . . perhaps this is something Congress would want to consider."

Admitted Charges

The judge said, in determining Williams' fate, he had taken into consideration that the real estate man's project "wasn't fraudulent in its inception."

However, the judge continued, he later resorted to "means absolutely criminal," such as forging checks.

In conclusion Holtzoff said, he had considered the fact that the defendant had "very frankly admitted all the facts with no effort to conceal them . . ."

Williams, who had been convicted on one count of mail fraud and seven counts of sending bad checks through the mails faced a maximum of 75 years and a $75,000 fine.

Tax Expert Sentenced

Bernard P. Nimre, tax consultant of 1614 K st. nw., was sentenced by Holtzoff to 3 months to 1 year on charges of embezzlement and larceny after trust. The charges involve the embezzlement of $2628.26 from Loy W. Henderson, chief of the Near East Division, State Department, in connection with the preparation of income tax returns.

Perjury charges against Henry M. Garsson, wartime munitions magnate, now under sentence of 8 to 24 months for war contract fraud, were dismissed by Holtzoff on motion of the Government. The perjury charges had stemmed from Garsson's testimony before a Federal grand jury in the former case.

Those sentenced were: William H. Whitehair, 22, of 122 11th st. ne., 1to 3 years; Melvin Eckloff, 22, no address, 32 months to eight years; William J. Stewart, 28, no address, 21 months to 63 months, and William Hodges, 22, 3 to 9 years.

An additional charge of assault may be lodged against Eckloff, who, marshalls reported, struck Whitehair with a chair in the cell block after sentencing.

Marcellus B. Kemp, 915 Westminster st., was sentenced to 32 months to eight years for the wounding of John H. Smith with a pistol. Smith, who lives at 3213 13th st. nw., was hit five times, police testified.

Gas Lack Delays Benning Line Shift to Busses

Plans to substitute buses for streetcars on the Benning line were temporarily halted by the Public Utilities Commission yesterday in view of a possible gasoline shortage.

Capital Transit Co. was ordered not to put its bus plan into effect before April 11, instead of March 27 as planned.

Meanwhile, PUC will hold a public hearing at the District Building at 10 a. m., March 22, to determine if enough additional gasoline will be available to meet CTC's requirements for the conversion. Interior Department representatives will be invited to testify at the hearing, PUC announced.

CTC Vice President E. C. Giddings said the company "is ready to go ahead with the conversion" and is "getting plenty of gasoline."

Old Coal Mine to Reopen

Best of Roads Planned in '48 By Maryland

State Prepares to Spend $15,000,000 On Highway Projects

Baltimore, March 12 (AP).—The State Roads Commission, in its rst comprehensive report on the 1948 highway program, said today that "Maryland is on her way back to the position she once enjoyed as the best-roaded State in the Nation."

An estimated 15 million dollars worth of road improvements on which "bids will be received before too long," were voted by the commission. These are "among the more important" on which bids will be called for "in the immediate future."

1. A 7-mile section of the proposed Baltimore-Washington expressway from the Baltimore line to Hanover rd. near Jessups, Md. estimated cost, 11 million dollars.

2. Two grade eliminations along the Pennsylvanio railroad tracks in Baltimore, combined cost, $1,762,000.

3. A 7-mile bypass carrying U. S. Route 301 around Marlboro, from Wells Corner, at the junction of Maryland Route 4 with U. S. 301, to Groom Station, $1,500,000.

4. A mile-and-half bypass carrying U. S. 1 around Laurel. It "will in effect provide a separation of northbound and southbound traffic through Laurel and separate the cross movement of traffic into the Laurel Race Track." $800,000.

Construction will start this spring on two roads projects which eventually will become part of a high-speed dual highway linking Baltimore and Frederick

State Engineer William F. Childs, jr., said that bids have been awarded on projects at the Baltimore end of the proposed new highway. They involve the completion of a dual road from the Baltimore City line to Pine Orchard on Route 40, now one lane for part of the way.

Turkey Sandwiches Make a Point

By Edward F. Ryan
Post Reporter

They weren't just talking turkey to Congress yesterday.

They brought the turkey, 21½ pounds of its roasted to a turn, sliced it and handed out the slices to members of a congressional subcommittee.

The turkey appeared as choice exhibit in the petition of the Booker T. Washington Birthplace Memorial organization to obtain two Government-owned Negro residence halls here for use as a Negro industrial training institution.

Testimony ran quietly for about two hours, then Dr. S. J. Phillips, president of the memorial, rang a bell.

At once the hearing room was booming with noise and a-bustle with action. The turkey was brought in and the slicing started. In front of the committee. One man went to work on a board with a hand sander, another began and a vacuum cleaner over the rug Women paraded carpet sweepers painting another board. There was a man setting type, another typing a woman making a dress, another fixing a hat.

This went on for several minutes until Dr. Phillips hammered two carpenter's bits together. The racket stopped. Dr. Phillips explained it was done to show what training would be giving at the proposed industrial institute.

The demonstration overshadowed the fact that there is a three-way contest over disposition of the two Negro residence halls—the Lucy Diggs Slowe Hall for Negro women at 1919 3d st. nw., and George Washington Carver Hall for men at 211 Elm st. nw.

President Truman, other Federal officials, along with Dr. Mordecai W. Johnson, president of Howard University, and his aides, urged the committee that the two halls be given to Howard for use as dormitories.

The third plea came from residents of Slowe Hall, presented by Mrs. Estelle Hannah-Morris, for herself and about 160 other Government girls who live there. She cited the local housing shortage in urging that any transfer of the hall insure them the right to stay.

She and Dr. Johnson explained that Carver Hall is now largely used for Howard students.

Subcommittee Chairman J. Harry McGregor (R., Ohio) said the final decision would be difficult and would be deferred at least for a week until the record of the hearing is transcribed.

Area News in Brief

Chipped Tooth Held Not Worth $10,000

A chipped front tooth isn't worth $10,000, a District Court jury decided yesterday.

The verdict, reached in 20 minutes, cleared 10-year-old Monica Mulvey of damages sought by a schoolmate, Janet Gamer, 9, and her father, Justice Department Attorney Saul Gamer of 2939 McKinley st. nw.

Monica and her father, Western High School Football Coach Fred Mulvey, 6359 31st st. nw., were sued for $10,000 after a playground incident at the Lafayette School had chipped Janet's front tooth. The plaintiffs charged the girl was struck in the mouth with a lunch pail in the hands of Monica.

Monica said she was pushed by another child and threw her arms in the air to retain her balance, the lunchbox swinging against Janet's mouth.

After the verdict, Shifflette, a court-appointed attorney, asked Justice James M. Morris to approve his fee. Under the law, it is within the court's descretion to order either the defendant or plaintiff to pay the defense attorney's charge.

His motion was referred to the Assignment Commissioner for a hearing before another judge.

Kerosene Burns Girl

Lorraine Prather, 18, of near Laytonsville, Md., was in critical condition last night at Suburban Hospital with first, second and third degree burns suffered when she threw kerosene into a wood burning cook stove at her home.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Prather, tenant farmers, was severely burned about the face, arms and chest when the kerosene exploded yesterday morning, police reported.

Mrs. Marguerite Hughes as executive secretary, Paul D. Brown as recording secretary, and Basil de Lashmutt treasurer.

Envoy Aids Motorists

The four were among motorists who had parked their cars on Mexican Embassy property at 2829 16th st. nw., while they attended church. When the embassy complained, Tenth Precinct Pvt. R. E. Fenton ticketed the offenders for illegal parking.

When they came up before Municipal Court Judge George D. Neilson yesterday, Fenton read a letter from Embassy Attache Manuel S. Valladares, extending courtesy of the embassy to the offenders and asking leniency in their behalf.

All four sentences were suspended.

Bus Hearing Postponed

Hearing on the Alexandria, Barcroft & Washington Transit Co. petition for a fare boost has been postponed until April 26, the Interstate Commerce Commission announced yesterday.

Originally scheduled for March 19, the hearing was first postponed until April 19 at the company's request. A. B. & W. seeks to hike fares on buses operating between the District and nearby Virginia.

Rent Increases Sought for 324 Housing Units

Rent increases have been asked for 324 units in two apartment houses and a housing development here, District Rent Control Administration announced yesterday.

Wayne Terrace Aparament, Inc., owner, seeks a flat $10.18-a-month boost for 149 units of a housing development at Wayne pl., Mississippi ave. and 2nd st. se., a rent control spokesman said. Present rents range from $59.50 to $62.50 per month.

Morris Cafritz Co. is asking average 10 per cent hikes for 142 units of an apartment house at 2000 Connecticut ave. nw. Present rates range from $50 to $87.50 a month would go up to $55 and $96 respectively, the official said.

A. S. Gardiner, owner, seeks to raise rents for 33 apartments at 1801 Calvert st. nw., now ranging from $32.50 to $90, to $37.50 and $103.50 respectively.

Winners of Police Award Nominated For Second Honor

Winners of the January "Policeman of the Month" award also have been nominated for the honor in February.

This was revealed yesterday as Commissioner John Russell Young presented written citations and medals to Pvts. Thomas B. Basnight and Lenard G. Kragh of the Third Precinct.

The incident resulting in the policemen's nomination for the February award were not disclosed. A number of other nominations also have been received. The committee will announce the February winners at a later date.

For Negroes

More Schools Of Medicine Are Sought

Increased medical school and graduate training for Negroes was urged here yesterday by Dr. Charles R. Drew, chief surgeon at Freedmen's Hospital.

Out of 9000 resident doctors in the country's white hospitals, he told more than 150 hospital administrators and doctors gathered at Freedmen's only 12 are Negroes.

Dr. Drew, speaking at a morning panel discussion on the closing day of the National Conference of Hospital Administrators, added that there are "only about 60 Negroes" in residency at the six all-Negro hospitals.

But the "eral bottleneck," he pointed out, is at the medical school level, where only about one out of ten applications have been accepted for next year at the two Negro schools, Howard University Medical School and Meharry Medical College, Nashville, Tenn.

In another morning panel discussion, Dr. E. S. Grannum, administrator of Whittier Memorial Hospital, Newport News, Va., said that because smaller hospitals cannot undertake their own graduate programs, larger hospitals must assist by lending doctors and facilities.

In the afternoon, seven panel discussions were conducted by Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Edwards, executive secretary of the National Health Project, Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, on current problems of nursing.

Pay Boost for Loudoun Prosecutor Is Ordered

Leesburg, Va., March 12 (Spl.).—Judge Elliott F. Marshall of Front Royal, sitting for Judge J. R. H. Alexander in Loudoun County Circuit Court yesterday, ordered an increase of $750 in the annual compensation of Commonwealth's Attorney Stirling M. Harrison. The order brings the salary of Harrison to $3250.

The case came before Judge Marshall on an appeal by Harrison from a ruling of the State Compensation Board fixing his remuneration at $2500. The increase granted by the court is the amount recommended to the compensation board by the board of supervisors.

Judge Barse Plans to Speed Handling of Mental Cases

Chief Judge George P. Barse said he will call a meeting of Municipal Court judges early next week to discuss a speed-up in handling cases sent to Gallinger Hospital for mental observation.

He made the statement after receiving a letter from the Commissioners, who said persons are detained at Gallinger "an unnecessarily long period" after hospital psychiatrists have completed diagnosis and reported to the court.

As soon as the psychiatrist's reportis received, the Commissioners said, persons reported of sound mind immediately should be ordered before the court for trial or sentence; those ruled of unsound mind accorded a sanity hearing.

Has Sympathetic Attitude

Judge Barse said he had referred the letter to Court Clerk Walter Bramhall for sutdy and report. He is "sympathetic" to the problem, he added, and is sure it can be worked out.

The Commissioners acted on the recommendation of Dr. Joseph L. Gilbert, District alienist, who reported that 243 cases had been admitted to Gallinger for mental observation in 1947 from the criminal division of Municipal Court.

Only 20 to 30 per cent of the cases, Dr. Gilbert said, "are suffering from mental disorders" and there is considerable delay in scheduling sanity hearings.

The 70 to 80 per cent found mentally sound are forced to stay at Gallinger, regardless of how soon diagnosis is made, for the court's entire commitment period of from 28 to 32 days, he added.

Urges Law If Needed

If the court can't arrange for quicker action, Dr. Gilbert said, legislation should be drafted to cover the problem.

Representative A. L. Miller (R., Nebr.), chairman of the House District Health Subcommittee, asked Thursday that "necessary" legislation of this type be prepared by the corporatoin counsel. Miller, a physician as well as a legislator, said sanity tests frequently can be completed in as little as two days. The Commissioners said Gallinger lacks money for sufficient personnel "to carry the heavy load now upon the psychiatric staff." Furthermore, they said, the hospital obviously is "neither staffed nor equippe dto hold persons against whom criminal charges may lie where they are of sound mind."

2-County Parley On Finances Is Postponed

A financial conference scheduled for Monday between Montgomery and Prince Georges County officials and representatives of the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission was postponed indefinitely yesterday.

The conference had been arranged by Montgomery County officials who are concerned over the mounting bonded indebtedness of the WSSC which, they say, impairs the Montgomery County credit rating for bond buyers.

The delay was requested by Dwight Galt, chairman of the WSSC, after the conference had previously been agreed to by J. Darby Bowman, secretary-treasurer of the WSSC.

Galt told Montgomery County officials yesterday the WSSC wanted further time in which to prepart data for the conference. He said he would notify the Montgomery officials of a meeting date within "three or four weeks."

Reynolds Rites Will Be Held Here Today

Funeral services for Robert Van Rensselaer Reynolds, 74, pioneer forestry official in the Agriculture Department, who died Wednesday, will be held at 11:30 a. m. today at the Hines funeral home, 2901 14th st. nw.

Mr. Reynolds, who died of a heart attack at his home, 2813 38th st. nw., will be buried in his native Stockport, N. Y. He had been suffering from a heart ailment since his retirement in 1942.

In 1898, as a frail graduate of Amherst College, he went West to manage an uncle's ranch in North Dakota. Four years later he answered an ad in a newspaper, applied for and passed Civil Service examination, and entered the Forest Service.

As chief of its Salt Lake City office, he led surveying parties through the timberlands of the Rockies, from Canada to Mexico, remaining in the field as long as six months at a time.

In 1909 he married Miss Violet Rex, a secretary in his office. "We simply set up housekeeping in the field," Mrs. Reynolds said yesterday. In 1913, he came to Washington as chief of engineering in the Forest Service. From 1932 to 1942 he headed the Division of Forest Economics.

However, he continued his outdoor activities. As his wife said, he had a "boxfull of medals" for his rifle marksmanship. And for many years he was captain of the District Rifle Team which competed at Camp Perry, Ohio.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by a son, Robert Rex Reynolds of 2204 Hall pl. nw., a radio engineer for WINX, radio station of The Washington Post; a sister, Mrs. John H. Frizell, State College, Pa., and two grandsons.

Young Mother, Now Student, Stars in G. W. School Play

But gag writers overlook the fact that wives and mothers are going back to the campuses, too.

Some of the older, married coeds, so prominent in number on American campuses now, enroll in the colleges where their veteran husbands study. They wish to keep up with their husbands intellectually and to cultivate mutual interests.

Then for others, like Velaska Griffin, 27-year-old wife and mother, a part-time college schedule serves as relaxation, a good balance for household duties.

Mrs. Griffin attends evening classes in dramatic arts and English literature at George Washington University and in addition is active in extracurricula. activities, currently starring in the University's production of "Agamemnon" that opened a two-day run last evening at Lisner Auditorium. (She takes the part of Cassandra, one of the fated victims in Aeschylus' ancient murder story.)

This year Mrs. Griffin started back to college after an absence of nearly four years so she could keep busy while her husband spent long hours at a time away from their apartment home in Arlington.

Her husband, Edward Griffin, teaches engineering at Catholic University through the day and in the evening he studies there for his master's degree.

Velaska and Edward hunted for some worthwhile pastime and recreation to balance her household duties and finally decided college was the answer.

By Tom Kelly—The Washington Post

MRS. VELASKA GRIFFIN of N. Arlington, Va., polishes up on her lines as Cassandra in Edith Hamilton's translation of "Agememnon" while her 3-year-olddaughter, Suzanne, watches. The Greek tragedy by Aeschylus was presented last night and will be given again this evening by George Washington University at Lisner Auditorium

An evening student at the University, Velaska found time to study her script in between household duties and homework. Her husband, Edward Griffin, is studying for his master's degree at Catholic University

Women's Units Debate Means Of Equal Rights

By Genevieve Reynolds

Do the women of the Nation want equal rights by a constitutional amendment or do they prefer to risk eliminating some 1000 existing discriminations against their sex by piecemeal State legislation?

Proponents of the equal rights amendment and the advocates of the legal status bill aired their views before members of the House Judiciary Subcommittee yesterday on hearings of the two measures.

The Wadsworth-Taft bill, known as HR-20007 or the legal status bill, proposes "to establish a commission on the legal status of women in the United States, to declare a policy as to distinctions based on sex, in law and administration, and for other purposes." The bill emphasizes the biological and physical differences of men and calls for laws in each State to abolish step by step discriminations against women.

The equal rights bill, which has been up before Congress for the past 23 years, would give men and women equal rights through a constitutional amendment.

New Yorkers Speak

Barrister Mary Donlan, chairman of the New York State Unemployment Commission and chairman of the Federation of Republican Women's Clubs of New York State, put the GOP State federation on record for the Equal Rights Amendment. At hearings Wednesday, Representative Katharine St. George told the Committee that the National Federation of Republican Women's Clubs as well as those of New York State were emphatically in favor of Equal Rights and definitely opposed to the Legal Status Bill.

Miss Frieda Miller, director, Women's Bureau, U.S. Department of Labor, indorsed the Legal Status Bill on the grounds that it provides for protection of women based on biological and psysiological differences. She said that the Bureau favored equal rights but preferred to keep protective legislation and to work through a Commission proposed in the Legal Status Bill.

Paul Sifton, representative of the CIO, read a lengthy statement from the CIO in opposition to the Equal Rights Amendment and indorsed the Legal Status Bill. The paper was prepared to be read by Gladys Dickason, vice president, Amalgamated Clothing Workers, who was unable to attend.

Mrs. Harold Stone, vice president, National League of Women Voters, is another who favored the legal status (commission type of bill) and opposed the equal rights amendment.

Burnita Shelton Matthews, member of the D. C. Bar and chairman, legal status committee of the National Association of Women Lawyers, spoke for the equal status bill.

Bill Is Condemned

Mrs. Anita Pollitzer, chairman of the National Woman's Party, who has been fighting 25 years for the equal rights amendment, contended that the legal status bill would put discriminations into law based on sex rather than end them.

Advocaes of the legal status bill included spokesmen from the National Council of Jewish Women, the National League of Women Shoppers, the National Negro Women's Council, National Council of Catholic Women, American Civil Liberties Union.

Speaking for the equal rights amendment were representatives of the National Business and Professional Women's Clubs, the General Federation of Women's Clubs, in fact, practically all professional groups.

Judge Libby E. Sachar, of the New Jersey Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court, testified for the amendment.

Minister and Mme. Thors Entertain

By Marie McNair

RICHARD BUTTRICK, newly appointed United States Minister to Iceland, and pretty Mrs. Buttrick, were guests at the cocktail party yesterday given by the Minister of Iceland and Mme. Thors.

It was an informal party, not large, but a gathering where everybody seemed to know everybody else. The Canadian Ambassador and Mrs. Hume Wrong, were there and Mme. Eriksson, wife of the Swedish Minister, without her husband who is slowly on the mend after an illness of some weeks.

Harry Andrews, South African Minister, back only a few days from a record flight to his homeland, stopped by, to say "how-de-do." I also saw Harry Scott, Commercial Counselor of the Canadian Embassy, and Mrs. Scott; Povl Bang-Jensen, Counselor of the Danish Embassy, and Mme. Bang-Jensen; Anders Fjelstad, Agricultural Attache of the Norwegian Embassy, and Mme. Colbjorsen, wife of the Financial Counselor of the same embassy, who told me her husband has been appointed Norwegian Minister to Yugoslavia, and that they'd be leaving soon.

Mme. Thors, and Senora de Heuretmatte, wife of the Commercial Counselor of the Panama Embassy, had both had the same idea—spring frocks in print. The hostess wore a black gown with red and white geometric pattern picked out in silver sequins, and blonde Gladys Heuretmatte's draped black and white gown was topped with a wide off-the-face black hat.

Mrs. Buttrick had chosen the perenially popular navy blue, brightened it with white collars and cuffs embroidered in crystals, and wore a tiny blue hat far back on her light hair.

Niece Is Guest

Here for the weekend making new friends yesterday were the Minister's niece, Mrs. Peter Johnson, smart in a sapphire blue satin suit with matching hat; and her mother-in-law, Mrs. O. Johnson, who lives in Iceland. Their husbands will join them today and they'll leave on Monday for home.

Ralph Forster came in, said his adieux shortly after to go on to Mrs. Chester McLain's cocktail party, and Mrs. Blake Clark brought with her Mrs. David Okana, who has the distinction of serving in the Hawaiian Senate.

Around the buffet, where a turkey, ham and platters of shrimp were disappearing like magic, were Mr. and Mrs. Ted Acheson, Miss Dorothy Rutherford, Col and Mrs. Robert Guggenheim and Mme. von Numers, wife of the Counselor of the Finnish Legation. Only one not enjoying this pleasant party was Margret, daughter of the hosts, who was behind dark glasses and suffering from the effects of eye drops. But she smiled bravely through it all and few were the wiser.

Piano Concert Cancelled

The Chilean Ambassador and Senora Nieto del Rio have cancelled the piano recital for which they were to be sponsors on Sunday afternoon at the Pan American Union, owing to the illness of the artist, Flora Guerra, in New York.

Tea Postponed

Mrs. Parker West has postponed the tea in honor of the Chief of Staff and Mrs. Omar Bradley originally planned for this afternoon from 5:30 to 7:30 o'clock, until Saturday, March 20, at the same hour. General Bradley has been called out of town on official business.

Ask Anne — Your Questions on Homemaking

I have a full-size cotton mattress which has hardly been used. Recently, we bought two Army bunk beds, and we would like to make two mattresses out of the full-size one. The size will be just right, but we don't know how to go about doing it. Do you have any suggestions?

F. D'E.

With home equipment, cutting a mattress in two is a very difficult task. Before attempting such a job, I would suggest you consider having it done by a professional mattress restorer. I am told that, for a satisfactory job, new cotton material for stuffing would need to be added after it is cut. If, after discussing the job with a professional renovator, you find it would cost more than you feel the mattress is worth and wish to attempt it yourself, here are some suggestions. Use a razor-sharp knife for cutting. Since ths is a cotton mattress, the filling was probably blown into it and is not fastened, so it would be necessary to cut only through the covering layers. When these layers are cut, the filling can be pulled apart with the hands. Before you cut the mattress, have some pillow ticking cut and hemmed in the right size to cover the cut side. If you wish, you could place a layer of cotton batting over the exposed filler before sewing on the ticking. The cotton ticking should be wide enough to extend back over the mattress ticking at least 6 inches on both sides and a foot larger than the mattress. Sew this to the mattress, using a curved upholstery needle and very heavy thread. Upholstery needles can be purchased at harness shops. Look under "Harness" in the telephone directory.

Recently I purchased two pairs of shoes for spring—one pair of wine-red leather sandals and one pair of light beige honey snake pumps. Going into New York on a quick trip (without the shoes) I thought I'd match bags correctly, but on my return found one bag is a cherry-red leather, and my snake bag, though supposedly honey color, is definitely a darker shade than my shoes. Alas, I cannot exchange my bags now! Is there any way for me to darken the cherry-red bag to a wine shade without ruining the new leather bag? And how can I lighten the snake bag quite a bit without spoiling that new bag? J. R. H.

An expert leather dyer might be able to dye your cherry red bag a darker shade. However, it is very difficult to place one color on another and be sure of what the final color will be. Because of this, the dyer cannot always guarantee that the bag will exactly match your shoes when dyed.

I am told there is no satisfactory way to make the snake bag lighter, but the shoes can possibly be darkened to match the bag. To discuss further both of these problems, call Executive 0961.

I have an alligator bag finished in the golden shade popular in South America. Although I've tried several shoe stores, I've been unable to match it with alligator shoes. Could I have the bag dyed a dark brown to match shoes I might choose? If this is possible, please recommend a reputable firm. A. L. S.

Alligator is very difficult to dye because of its hardness. This is particularly true of South American alligators. There is a plastic coating produ t on the market which is used for coating leathers of all sorts and comes in a wide range of colors, dark brown included. For further information about this product, call District 1130. I would suggest you see the exact shade of the dark brown dye and check to see if you can match shoes to it before applying it to your purse. There are also plastic dyes in the market which can be mixed to achieve a certain shade of a color. For information about these dyes, call Executive 0961.

After I made a Hunter green crepe rayon dress I pressed it, using a white cloth over the material. The iron must have been too hot for the crepe and turned material a much darker shade in quite a few large spots. The crepe is very stiff where the spots show up. The iron was not hot enough to scorch pressing cloth. Is it possible to bring the color and the softness back to the material? M. I. C.

When rayon has changed color and stiffened from too much heat, the fiber has been damaged and there doesn't seem to be anything which will restore it to its original condition. The temperature for pressing rayon is very much below that which will scorch cotton. Also, these spots are weakened and will no doubt break through with very little wear. Since you made the dress, possibly you have some material left or could get some to replace the section of the dress which was damaged.

Assembly Calls for Election on Poll Tax

Richmond, Va., March 12 (AP).—The Senate today passed the House joint resolution calling for a referendumin November on constitutional amendment sto abolish the poll tax and set up a new system of registration.

Besides abolishing the poll tax, the amendments enable the Virginia General Assembly to levy a head tax of up to $3 for school purposes and to provide ways and means of keeping up "current registration."

The amendments also would enable General Assembly to prescribe literacy tests and otherwise continue present qualifications for viting.

The Senate pased the resolution, 35 to 1, with Senator Lloyd S. Robinette of Lee dissenting. The House has approved the measure, which now goes to Governor Tuck for signature.

City-County Feud Continues

Important issues were still pending as the Virginia General Assembly ground through scores of laws, pushing toward the last day of the 1940 session tomorrow.

"The county-city" feud continues right up to the last day. Today the Senate counties, cities and towns committee reported favorably a mild annexation bill, substitute for the Crockett bill that was passed by the House. Tomorrow it will be on the floor of the Senate.

The last of Gov. William M. Tuck's tax bills moved out of committee today for action on the Senate floor tomorrow. The House has approved the measure—increasing the gross receipts tax on public service corporations from 1½ to 2 per cent.

Alcoholic Clinic Approved

Hatch Act Repeal Asked

Important resolutions also were approved today, as follows:

The Senate approved the House Joint Resolution on Memoralizing Congress to repeal the Hatch Act as it relates to the participation of Federal employes in politics. Senator Charles R. Fenwick, of Arlington, said the Hatch Act kept about 74 per cent of the voters of his county from taking part in local governmental affairs except in non-partisan meetings.

The House passed a Rules Committee resolution for a study of Virginia's school system by a 11-member commission, five from the Assembly and six to be named by Governor Tuck. There was no mention of it on the floor, but some members of the committee suggested that members of the Denny, Moses and McCue Commissions—which made conflicting reports—not be on this commission. The original proposal, by Delegate Charles F. Unruh of Westmoreland urged an "impartial" study "to end confusion" caused by the conflicting reports.

The House also approved resolutions for studies of a unified system of juvenile and domestic relations courts, and of rural telephone service as served by private companies.

Heddа Hopper's Hollywood

Hollywood.—Sam Marx will produce two factual feature stories for Metro. One, titled "Bread on the Waters," is based on Lou Reese and the citizens of Scio, Ohio. During the depression they helped Reese build up his pottery industry; and just as he was ready to distribute a quarter of a million dollars in bonuses his factory burned down. The citizens got together and rebuilt it. Now it's bigger and better than ever.

Sam's other story is "Cowboy and Indians." It deals with a letter that landed in the lap of a newspaper editor in Lamarque, Tex. It came from three bombed-out British children who wanted to know how real cowboys function. The letter was printed; the townspeople bought a piece of land and had a cabin built upon it. The three children came over this month to make the place their home. They have been adopted by the entire town.

More Work

Hal Wallis has bought a new story, "Obsession," for Barbara Stanwyck. It's about a maid who becomes a nurse and ends up as a rival of her former employer for the love of a doctor. Barbara's been resting in the desert after finishing "Sorry, Wrong Number" . . . Red Skelton is really a sick boy; no, there will be no outside activities for him until his health improves. He is suffering from low blood pressure and a spinal injury received during an act a number of years ago. Between radio shows, he will likely rest at Scripps Clinic in La Jolla.

The success of Jeanette MacDonald in "Three Daring Daughters" may surprise some, but not me. Her fans throughout the country have remained loyal during her absence from the screen. If Metro would reunite her and Nelson Eddy in another picture, I believe it would outgross her biggest epic . . . Spec McClure, my talented associate, will take a couple of months off to rest and help Audie Murphy get his story on paper. In Spec's absence, Jack Rosenstein, who's had years of experience covering Hollywood, will be my seeing eye.

For the Record

Gene Tierney's divorce will be final in two weeks. Despite all the gossip, she is not romantically attached to anybody . . . I was surprised to learn that Penelope Ward had become the bride of Carol Reed, Britain's top film director.

Greta Garbo has lost neither her lure nor her drawing power. Cecil Beaton followed her to the coast and spent a week here . . . Frank Sinatra will be on hand for the opening of "Miracle of the Bells" in Philadelphia. He may also attend premieres of the picture in Pittsburgh and Harrisburg.

Jail Break Plans Well Laid, But He Forgot Cell Bars

Salisbury, Md., March 12 (AP).—Police today said Fred Brittingham arranged to break out of the Wicomico County Jail, but forgot to plan how he would get out of his cell.

Patiently, Brittingham fashioned a long rope from his bedding. With a broom, he pushed the rope through the bars, across the corridor and out window.

Startled pedestrians the other day watched the bed-clothing rope dangle from a third-floor window of the penthouse jail. Police were whisked up the jail elevator, following the rope to its source.

There they found Brittingham sitting glumly on his bed. He had forgotton to figure out how he was going to get past the hard steel bars of his cell.

Bladensburg, Once River Port Cut Off By Soil Erosion

Baltimore, Md., March 12 (Spl). Bladensburg, Md., once a thriving river port, has become an "expanse of mud flats" because of soil erosion, a Maryland Congressman declared here today.

Speaking on a radio broadcast, Representative Lansdale G. Sasscer of Upper Marlboro, pointed out that the Anacostia River at Bladensburg gradually became so filled with topsoil that "today you would have considerable difficulty even paddling a canoe to Bladensburg."

"In recent years the constant flooding of United States Route 1 at Bladensburg and Peace Cross has often closed that important North-South traffic artery and completely shut off the Naval Academy and Prince Georges Hospital," he said.

He urged farmers to look to their soil conservation.

Education Talk on Air

The Organized Women Voters of Arlington will present a broadcast at 11:30 a. m. today over Station WARL on the topic, "The Expanded Role of Education Locally and Nationally." Speaker on the broadcast, one of a series sponsored by the Arlington Civic Federation, will be Dr. Ivan Booker, assistant director of the research division of the National Education Association.

Baltimore Man Found Guilty of Slaying Policeman

Baltimore, March 12 (AP).—Roy Arnold Wood, 24-year-old car stealer and holdup man, was found guilty of murdering a Baltimore policeman but shouted that he didn't mean to do it.

"I slipped into him," Wood said on the witness stand. "I was panic-stricken. I just had to get away. He grabbed my arm. I remember seeing a light flash."

Wood was on trial before a three-judge court on a murder charge in the slaying of Patrolman Joseph D. Benedict on Friday, February 13.

Ship Crashes Bridge, Halts Canal Traffic

Wilmington, Del., March 12 (AP). The Norwegian freighter Grandville crashed into Summit Bridge last night, halting shipping through the Chesapeake & Delaware Canal as well as traffic over the span from Glasgow to Middletown, Del.

Approximately 200 feet of a wooden plank guard railing protectfng the waterway approach to the bridge was crushed. The Grandville, out of Oslo, Norway, was taken in tow by two tugs and proceeded through the canal. Traffic was halted pending repairs.

Street Building Assessments To Continue in Montgomery

Montgomery County Commissioners decided yesterday to stand pat on new construction of streets under front-foot benefit plans unless they are already responsible for maintaining the streets.

At a special meeting the Commissioners also voted a $70,000 appropriation for road building in order to qualify for approximately $200,000 in Federal funds under a fund matching formula.

According to County Supervisor I. G. McNayr, some builders during the current wave of home construction, are erecting new homes in unimproved areas and telling homeowners the county will build new streets on a front-foot benefit assessment basis.

Under the plan, in effect for some time, the county builds the road and adjoining property owners bear the cost over a 10-year period with the amount varying according to frontage affected.

The tremendous increase in home building is causing so many demands, McNayr said, "it would be a financial impossibility for the county to build all the streets being requested."

In line with their decision, the commissioners promptly rejected three pending requests. They were: Improvement of Bethesda ave. between Arlington and Clarendon rds., Bethesda; Gardiner ave. between Brown ave. and Kimball pl., Silver Spring, and Hickerson dr., Wheaton. Estimated cost of the three projects was $30,000.

In approving the $70,000 road appropriation, the board disclosed the county now has about $100,000 on deposit with the State Roads Commission to be used in matching Federal road funds. An additional $55,000 is left over from the 1945 bond issue.

Of a $425,000 total in county and Federal funds, approximately $235,000 will be used for widening of River rd. for a distance of three miles from the end of the existing pavement to Travilah rd.

One on the Aisle—

This Western's Not Antiseptic

By Richard L. Coe

"PANHANDLE," at the Metropolitan, seems pretty high-toned for a Western . . . The knuckles get cracking with enormous zest toward the end, but before it you've been soothed by soft sepia tints, some stirring Texas scenery and a couple of clinches that would make Mae West wiggle her hips . . . The boys in the Met's peanut gallery (and you can take that literally) had some long, loud whistles for the osculatory zeal of Hero Rod Cameron, whose fervor is lavished with equal intensity on Cathy Downs and Anne Gwynne . . . The time when a Western hero's smacks were as rare as Japanese kisses seems to be at an end . . . Cameron, who's roughly 16 cubits high, spends his efforts this trip in tracking down the murderers of his brother, a man who'd been a crusading editor and didn't go for the rough stuff . . . Rod's a quiet brooder and you certainly feel sorry for the little upstart who crosses him up . . . This fellow is played by one Blake Edwards, which seems to be the name of one of the two men who both wrote and produced the film . . . Edwards looks like a pretty slight cookie to be in such rough company . . . There's probably a deep phychological reason why he's set himself up in a handsomely fitted movie about the good old days in the Panhandle country . . . Maybe when he was a youngster his pals wouldn't let him play cowboy . . . So he wrote and produced himself a movie and he's certainly playing a tough rascal now.

"PANHANDLE," an Allied Artists production of Monogram release produced by John C. Champion and Blake Edwards, directed by Lesley Selander, original screenplay by Champion and Edwards, at the Metropolitan.

ERIC JOHNSTON sails today on the Queen Mary from England after finally unraveling the British tax snarl on American films . . . This provides that American producers will keep their entire British earnings, though one third of the profits must remain in Britain . . . The Hollywood industry will strive for wider distribution of British films in this country . . . while the situation seemed deadlocked, Johnstone has been working behind the scenes like a trojan . . . The MPA chief ought to get a diplomat's welcome when he docks next week . . . He's been ill, but the four-day voyage should give him a good rest.

BEATRICE LILLIE, for the benefit of all you Lillie fans who've been phoning, will be playing her latest, "Inside U. S. A.," at the Shubert Theater, Philadelphia, for three weeks beginning Monday, March 29 . . . This is as close as the Arthur Schwartz revue suggested by the John Gunther book will get before its New York run . . . Jack Haley's the great comedienne's costar.

WHO FOR PRESIDENT? Make of it what you will, but the Republicans have taken over the Trans-Lux lobby . . . The District's Young Republican Club has set up an absentee voters information booth to coincide with the running of "March of Time's" "Presidential Year." . . . There's a big scoreboard giving the results of daily ballots in a straw vote box.

THE JAMES MASONS will be in town next week . . . It's really in honor of Mrs. Mason's book, "Del Palma," which concerns a dead woman invading the mind and body of another to come back to her husband . . . Woodward & Lothrop's book department will sponsor an autographing party Tuesday afternoon from 2:30 to 4:30, and Pamela Kellino's husband, the darksome Mason, will be on deck, too . . . The couple should attract quite a crowd.

CHARLES NIEMEYER of Maryland U.'s drama department is showing his students some of the tricks of playwrighting . . . "Stars Over Ruby," his latest, will be done by the Arlington Little Theater group, with himself as director, March 18 and 19, at Arlington Farms . . . Since the comedy is now controlled by New York's Century Plays, the prof and his pals are hopeful this Virginia tryout may turn into a pre-Broadway engagement . . . Vivian Barrett, who's played at Crossroads, Roosevelt and Pierce Hall, has the title role . . . Tickets at the Snow agency.

WEEK-ENDING: "Dead of Night," that fine British film weaving together several supernatural stories, is tomorrow night's film at Community Education, 914 20th st. . . . "The Chocolate Soldier" calls it a run with two more performances today at the National . . . The Hippodrome holds onto "That Hamilton Woman" for a second week; it's a reissue of the Olivier-Leigh Lord Nelson story . . . Tonight winds up Howard University's "The Adding Machine" at Spaulding Hall on the campus.

MEN
READ CAREFULLY
Friday, March 12th, at 1 p. m. sharp. I want to talk with 28 men who are really ambitious and seeking a position that will give them steady employment the year around. In other words, there are no laying-off periods and consistent income is the income that really counts.

It doesn't matter what your past employment has been. All we ask that you be willing to study and learn as we teach you our work. It will also be necessary that you be willing to get along on $75 to $85 per week for the first 4 or 6 weeks, while learning your work.

You must also be able to give the names of three people who will vouch for your honesty and integrity.

I would also like to talk to a few men who are mechanically inclined and who know a good thing when they see it.

Therefore, if you are honest and of good character and a willing worker and neat in appearance, come and talk with me.

THE DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

Confidentially, It's All Greek To Us, Too

"Is The Washington Post being written in Latin these days?" asks W. M. O'C. "Listen to my tale of woe.

"The first editorial that I tried slipped me a quick sine qua non. The next one took unfair advantage by ringing in quid pro quo.

"Then, to make it three-in-a-row, the following editorial polished me off with index expurgatorius. So I gave up and switched to the District Line—and encountered 'Q. E. D.'

Shucks, fella, it's not as bad as all that. Sine qua non means "something that is absolutely necessary"; quid pro quo is "an exchange"; index expurgatorius is "a list of books which must be expurgated before they may be read (by Catholics)."

Q. E. D., of course, stands for quod erat demonstrandum, and means "that which was to have been demonstrated."

I'm sure anybody could translate a few simple Latin words like those—especially if he'd look them up as I did.

CAMPAIGN NOTES

A good many Washingtonians went over to Philadelphia the other night for the Philadelphia Bulletin Forum.

Among those who spoke were Carroll Reece and Senator J. Howard McGrath, chairmen of the Republican and Democratic National Committees.

Reece emphasized Republican unity, as contrasted to the split in the Democratic ranks. His opponents, he pointed out, were separated into a Wallace wing, a Pendergast wing, a New Deal wing, a Communist wing, and so on.

When it was McGrath's turn to speak, he brought down the house with a sly reference to Reece as "my counterpart without wings."

"PINK" PROPAGANDA?

It looks like the battle for margarine's lost.
A simple solution for this row, I think,

BOCK IS BACK

This is the time of the year when I usually hear varying versions of the origin of the term "bock beer." (It's the dark brew that's made during the winter and sold in the spring.)

Frank R. Omler, master brewer of the Christian Heurich Brewing Co., offers this explanation:

The name Einbeck was corrupted through long usage to "ein bock," which means "a goat." And that's where bock beer got its name—and how the billy goat got into the picture.

MISCELLANY

Conrad "Old Man" Reid of 6703 Connecticut ave. growls at the headline writer who was responsible for "Chairman Thomas Says Government Agencies Flaunt Congress." "Flaunt" means "to wave, flutter, or move ostentatiously" and what the guy probably meant to say was "flout," which means "to mock, insult, or treat with contempt" . . . . Speaking of words, Bill Schaefer of Dahlgren, Va., teaches me a new one by saying that my controversial cab driver's mileage was recorded on an odometer and not a speedometer. Webster says that an odometer is an instrument which measures distance—but he also says that a speedometer is an instrument which measures speed and distance. I'm saved by a technicality . . . And here's one last word, from that indefatigable punster, Nate Leiderman: His theme song for Walter Haight is "For He's a Jowly Good Fellow."

REBUTTAL

"I'm a college student and a part-time Capital Transit operator," writes T. J. S., whose name we will withhold by request. "Perhaps I can explain some of the complaints you have been getting.

"If you're in the middle of a crowded loading platform, there undoubtedly will be times when you'll have the door shut in your face. The operator thinks he has accommodated everybody who wants to get on, and starts off just as you work your way to his door.

"If the following car also passes you up, it's easy to see why. The second operator figures that if you wanted to go his way, you'd have boarded the car ahead. So he presumes you're one of those who are waiting for another number.

"All you have to do is signal your desire to get aboard. Raise your arm and let him know. He's no mind reader, so meet him half way."

HOLLYWOOD—A young writer told Lewis Milestone that he planned to devote the next few months to writing an original screen play. "Not a word will have to be changed, by the time I show it to a producer," he said. "That's where the big money is" . . . Milestone advised him that this was not the way—that a completed screen play must be shown to too many people who have veto power before it can be sold. "First submit a short synopsis, and if it's good they'll give you an advance," Milestone counseled. "Then they'll pay you more to develop a treatment. And finally, to protect their investment they will buy the screen play. The initial payment is important. It's like the gambler and the sucker. Once the sucker loses the first buck, he's hooked."

Claire Boothe Luce will attend the Republican national convention in three capacities. She'll be a delegate and a speaker, and will report the campaign for a press syndicate . . . Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontaine, who will appear at one of the theaters here for two weeks, will live in Pasadena during their engagement because they can't find a Beverly Hills hotel which will permit them to bring their dog with them . . . Edward G. Robinson, whose art collection—one of the finest private collections in the world—includes four Utrillos, obtained his fifth Utrillo painting in a raffle in which his $1 ticket drew the top prize.

Ernie Byfield, the Chicago hotel man, was married last month, and his bride said that she'd like to spend the honeymoon in New York. Byfield agreed and asked her: "Where would you like to stay while we're in New York?" . . . "Oh, at a place that's nice and warm and where I'd be surrounded by lovely things—you know, things I love" . . . "Nice, warm and also lovely things," Byfield repeated. Then he phoned his New York aide and ordered: "Get Mrs. Byfield a suite at Bergdorf-Goodman's."

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Truman Blames Byrd for Revolt

By Drew Pearson

The President of the United States was blazing mad and shooting from the hip when Democratic Chairman Howard McGrath and Executive Director Gael Sullivan went in to see him earlier this week. They had expected to have a quiet talk over political conditions and warn Truman of growing revolt inside the party.

McGRATH

But they never had a chance.

Once inside the door, Truman said he was fed up with the lack of loyalty by certain party leaders. He blamed the Southern revolt on Senator Byrd of Virginia and described Byrd as the "finest Republican in the Democratic party."

The two callers almost gasped at the vehemence of the tirade.

The President said he wanted his candidacy announced at once. He wasn't going to wait until the meeting of the Democratic executive committee scheduled for later in the week, he said, indicating that he didn't want to have it appear that he had waited for them to ask him to run.

Turning to Matt Connelly, his secretary, who was in the room with McGrath and Sullivan, he asked his advice on the form of the announcement. Connelly suggested that McGrath announce it to reporters when they asked him what he had talked to the President about.

"Suppose they don't ask me," suggested McGrath.

"Even if they don't ask, you go ahead and announce it," insisted Truman.

Palestine Discussed

By this time, the President had quieted down somewhat, and McGrath had a chance to get in a word about Palestine.

"Come over here, Howard," replied the President, motioning to a big globe.

He pointed to a line on the map where the United States Army had built a railroad north from the Gulf of Persia and explained that the Russians were out to get this rail line plus all of the Arab oil regions and the Eastern Mediterranean. At one time, Truman added, he thought he had the Palestine problem all settled, then things turned out differently.

"While I was in Florida I put a lot of time in on this," the President said, adding that he expected to come up with something right away.

Reaching into the third drawer of his desk, the President took out a copy of the Palestine report prepared in part by Bartley Crum of San Francisco who visited the Near East with the Anglo-American Commission.

"That's my Bible," said Mr. Truman.

He explained that he thought he had British Foreign Minister Bevin persuaded to put the Crum ideas on Palestine into effect, but that Bevin had backed out.

Note: The Anglo-American Commission, which Truman referred to as the "Crum Report," recommended a trusteeship for Palestine under the United Nations and urged that Britain continue its mandate until the trusteeship could be set up. It opposed any separate Jewish or Arab state, warning that such division would cause worldwide disorders. The report also asked for the immigration of 100,000 Jews into Palestine immediately, but urged that other countries also open their doors, since Palestine would not be able to hold all Jewish refugees.

Forgotten Vice President

McGrath had intended talking to Truman about a vice presidential running mate, and planned to suggest Senator Lister Hill of Alabama. He thought a Southerner on the ticket would win back the South, and that Hill would also be liberal enough to suit the North.

Knocked off base by the vehemence of the President's tirade, however, McGrath forgot all about mentioning Hill's name.

The Army's Lobby

At a closed meeting of the House Expenditures Committee the other day, Ohio's Congressman Clarence Brown, a power in Republican circles, erupted with indignation.

"The military," he exploded, "has put over a colossal propaganda program on the American people, and caused some people to get unduly excited over universal training."

He urged his colleagues to back up a subcommittee report by Congressman Forrest Harness, Indiana Republican, condemning the Army's propaganda activities.

"Obviously," charged Brown, "these military people are high-pressuring univeral military training in order to keep their jobs. It is not the proper approach to preparedness, and they know it. So that they can hang on to their power and authority, they are willing to have the Government pay for false military security."

Massachusetts' John McCormack, Democratic whip, took issue with Brown over the necessity of military training, but kept tongue-in-cheek over the Army's lobbying. The report presented such a clear-cut case of Army lobbying that expenditures Chairman Clare Hoffman of Michigan wanted to usurp the report from subcommittee Chairman Harness and report it to the House itself.

Harness, who wanted to present the report without submitting it to the full committee, got Congressman James Wadsworth, New York Republican, to offer a motion giving him that right. But Hoffman angrily objected, and the committee backed him up.

4 Presbyterians Debate

"You know, I can't understand how you and I can disagree on this question, at least on its religious fundamentals," said the New York Senator. "We're both Presbyterians."

Stennis cocked his ear attentively.

"I'm a Presbyterian, too," observed the new Mississippi Senator.

"I guess that makes it unanimous," grinned Ferguson. "So am I."

"Well, if we aren't a bunch of dandies," exclaimed Ives. "Here we are fighting about something on the radio that we'd probably see eye to eye on in church."

Fredericksburg VA to Cut Service

By The Associated Press

The Veterans Administration office at Fredericksburg, Va., will be reduced Monday to parttime operation.

Rep. Bland (D., Va.) said he was informed an agency representative from the Richmond office will be at Fredericksburg each Monday to give the new limited service.

A reduction in VA personnel, bland said, has also caused a cut of 77 in workers at the Roanoke regional office. A cut of about 20 is expected to be made in the medical program at Roanoke.

Fierst Custody Raises Question In Murder Case

Baltimore, March 12 (AP).—Baltimore police were undecided today who will get custody of 37-year-old Mack Wilson Fierst against whom warrants of murder and holdups in two states and the District of Columbia have been filed.

A murder warrant was issued yesterday accusing Fierst of slaying Hunter Charles Lewis, 47-year-old convicted jewel robber. Lewis' bullet-ridden body was found Tuesday afternoon in the woods along a lonely road near Laurel.

Fierst also is wanted for crimes in Washington, Southern Maryland and Virginia. Fierst has been held in Baltimore since his arrest here Monday.

Never old

However long I live, my love . . . My heart will not be old . . . While all your magic charms are mine . . . To cherish and to hold . . . I shall not want for other things . . . Or turn my eyes away . . . As long as you are part of me . . . Throughout each night and day . . . Because you are so wonderful . . . And I adore you so . . . That you are every dream of youth . . . My heart could never know . . . You are my inspiration and . . . The strength I need to live . . . And I depend upon the faith . . . And happiness you give . . . And so as long as I am here . . . My heart will beat for you, my love . . . And I shall not be old.
